CITY OWNERSHIP WANTED

Delaney Offers a Plan—Resolution Adopted Unanimously—Hylan the Only Speaker.

The Board of Estimate adopted unanimously yesterday a resolution offered by Controller Charles L. Craig for an investigation by the board into the affairs of all of the traction companies. Mayor Hylan voted for the resolution grudgingly. He stated that he was still opposed to an increase of fares.

Transit Construction Commissioner John H. Delaney sent to the board a letter advocating city ownership along the lines printed in The New York Times on Dec. 15, and stating that representatives of the rapid transit companies were desirous of a conference with the city administration. To accentuate this Mr. Delaney inserted in his communication to the board a copy of a letter signed by Lindley M. Garrison, receiver of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, and Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, favoring Mr. Delaney's plan. Mr. Garrison's signing of the letter, it was announced, had the approval of Federal Judge Mayer.

The Interborough Company, after a long and hard day, reported in the evening that the $3,300,000 needed to save the company from a receivership had not been obtained. Many of the security holders, it was said, were in Florida and at other far-away points, and telegrams had been sent to them asking for their co-operation. If the Interborough Company defaults on payments due to the Manhattan Elevated Company on Jan. 1 and the company demands the return of its property the courts would have to accede to the demand. This would result in a separation of the elevated from the subway service, which would double the fare of at least 30,000,000 passengers a year.

While events followed each other in rapid succession in the traction situation during the day, nothing whatever was accomplished in the direction of obtaining for the companies speedy financial help such as Federal Judge Mayer suggested in his memorandum, printed on Monday, might be assured by permitting the companies to charge an eight-cent fare for a limited period. It was generally admitted that the outcome of the situation would be the taking over of the lines by the city on some such basis as that indicated by Transit Construction Commissioner Delaney and Mr. Craig. Mr. Craig did not make his plan part of his preamble to the resolution for an investigation, as was expected. He explained that he deemed it wiser to have the investigation first.

Details Not Revealed.

Nothing was done by the Board of Estimate toward providing a method for the coming investigation. It was considered unlikely that the full board would care to be bothered with it, but that one of the committees, probably the Committee on Franchises, would be delegated to conduct the inquiry and make frequent reports to the full board.

Corporation Counsel William P. Burr, who has been in close touch with the situation, will probably be the chief counsel. It was said that the inquiry would take at least three months and that it might last twice that long. A lawyer connected with the city government explained that the board would probably have the power of subpoena, through Controller Craig, but that it was likely that the greater part of the inquiry would deal solely with documents, especially franchises, and not very much with witnesses except as they were needed to explain documentary evidence.

Mr. Craig's memorandum filed with the resolution recited briefly the history of the traction lines in the hands of receivers, and referred to the fact that the board had directed the Corporation Counsel to ask Federal Judge Mayer for leave to intervene in the proceedings as a co-receiver in view of the city's large interest in the matter, and to the refusal of the court to grant that prayer.

Reference is also made to the "widespread and active propaganda and agitation" conducted for the privilege of increasing fares and says that "nothing in the reports of the receivers indicates the actual monetary investment that has gone into the (traction) properties." Mr. Craig says that justice to all requires that rates of fare be based upon actual and not fictitious values, and adds:

"At this time and at this stage of the controversies precipitated by the receiverships it is of the highest importance that the whole truth should be made known in regard to these matters. Whatever equities security holders may have should be protected; but of paramount importance is the rendition of

Paris Birth Rate Doubled This Year and Deaths Fewer

PARIS, Dec. 30.—A large increase in the birth rate is shown by statistics for December, the rate in Paris having doubled since the beginning of the year. Last January the birth rate was 9.5 per 1,000, while for the present month the rate exceeds 18 per 1,000.

The number of marriages is also increasing.

Deaths have decreased from 18 per 1,000 in January to 14 per 1,000 this month.

DEATH PENALTY FOR WOOD ALCOHOL RING

Massachusetts and Connecticut Authorities Plan to Try Them for First Degree Murder.

THEY ARREST 8 MORE MEN

Two Taken in Chicopee, Two in New Haven, and Four with an Illicit Still in Hartford.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 30.—First-degree murder indictments will be sought of the Grand Jury by the Commonwealth against Dominick Perrotti of New Haven and his four accomplices, charged with having concocted and distributed the wood alcohol "whisky" which caused fifty-seven deaths in this district. This means that the five arraigned in Chicopee Court today on the charge of homicide will be held without bail until the Grand Jury sitting.

They pleaded not guilty today, and will get a hearing Saturday. It is expected that District Attorney-elect Charles H. Wright will call a special sitting of the Grand Jury next month to act on the cases.

District Attorney Ely is now considering swearing out warrants for a number of New York men in connection with Massachusetts deaths. Massachusetts State Police are also in New York working for evidence upon which to make more arrests.

In the meantime, Chicopee authorities, with the aid of State Detective David J. Manning, tonight arrested two more of the Connecticut men wanted in Chicopee without extradition formalities. These are Sam Darling and Max Saunders of Hartford, truckmen, accused of being carriers for the New Haven gang.

Hartford Also Plans Murder Charges.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 30.—First degree murder is now almost certain to be the charge against the four held here and the three held in New York, charged with wood alcohol deaths. This was established tonight after the Hartford County State Attorney, Hugh M. Alcorn, had telephoned to New York to the Hartford Police Court prosecutor, Alexander Creedon.

It was gathered from Mr. Alcorn's comment that he had advised Mr. Creedon to attempt the speedier and less expensive method of getting the New York prisoners to Hartford to have them turned over temporarily to Federal authorities, who will bring them across the New York-Connecticut State line and surrender them to the Hartford police.

The Hartford police this afternoon, accompanied by Federal agents, uncovered in this city a still the deadly product of which killed, it is said, at least one man in Meriden and possibly others in Southington. They arrested four men.

On an expressman's tip that F. P. Denello, now missing, was trying to rid his café of ten gallons of wood alcohol, the police raided the place, arresting the bartender, Joseph Marcella, and three others in the cellar working the still.

Some of the "cognac," which reeked of wood alcohol fumes, was in bottles bearing standard brandy labels. The express team driver who tipped off the police said he was ordered to take the stuff to another Hartford address, from whence it was to be sent tonight to Winsted.

Two Men Held in New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 30.—Two men were arrested here today, Angelo Amato and Salvatore Esposito, who are held for questioning by the authorities in regard to the distribution of wood alcohol liquor. Nine others are under arrest here on various charges, while the police and revenue agents continue their inquiry into the traffic.

Angelo Amato is a brother of Antonio Amato, known in boxing circles as Chick Brown. He is accused by Thomas J. Coffey, another saloonkeeper under arrest, of having sold him some of the concoction as good whisky.

The three deaths here were of men who are said to have bought whisky at Coffey's place. John Legrand lived across the street.

Four Dead in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 30.—Three women and a man were found dead in a rooming house here tonight from alcoholic poisoning, but whether it was due to wood alcohol has not yet been determined by the authorities. Two of the women were Mrs. Amelia Davis, 55 years old, and Emily V. Hurley, 54. The other woman is supposed to be a Miss Wilson of New York, 25 years old. The man was Wm. P. Oates, aged 45 years.

Another Victim in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—The fourteenth death here since Christmas Eve from the effects of drinking wood alcohol was reported to the police today. The victim had been unconscious since attending a Christmas Eve party.

FORDS TO DISBURSE ABOUT $10,000,000 TO 94,000 WORKERS

Employes Also Have a Chance to Buy Certificates Paying Interest Based on Profits.

PLAN EFFECTIVE TOMORROW

Bonus Goes to Daily Wage Earners and Others, Making Less Than $250 a Month.

RANGES FROM $50 TO $270

Distribution of Profits Annually to Continue—Workers Must Buy Certificates with Wages.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 30.—Henry Ford, and his son, Edsel, President of the Ford Motor Company, tomorrow will announce a plan whereby between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000 will be disbursed in bonus money, and an opportunity be presented to every Ford worker to purchase Ford investment certificates. These certificates are to be issued in denominations of $100, $500 and $1,000, and the employes will receive interest based on the yearly earnings of the Ford Motor Company. This will affect approximately 94,000 Ford workers throughout the United States. Employes in the plants of foreign countries are excluded in this plan.

The cash bonus of virtually $10,000,000 will be payable beginning Jan. 1. This is based on the daily income and length of continuous service with the company before Oct. 1, 1914. The following is the scale in accordance with which bonuses will be distributed to employes on a daily wage scale and on salaries of less than $250 per month:

Men hired prior to Oct. 1, 1914: Six dollar man gets a bonus of $150; $6.40, $160; $6.80, $170; $7.20, $180; $7.60, $190; $8, $200; $8.40, $210; $8.80, $220; $9.20, $230; $9.60, $240; $10, $250; $10.40, $260; $10.80, $270.

Men hired prior to Oct. 1, 1915, range from the $6 per day man, who received $130 bonus, to the $10.80 man, who received $250.

The intervening scales are figured on the same basis as the two above.

Men hired prior to Oct. 1, 1916, $110 to $230.

Men hired prior to Oct. 1, 1917, $90 to $210.

Men hired prior to Oct. 1, 1918, $70 to $190.

Men hired prior to Oct. 1, 1919, $50 to $170.

The distribution of profits with wages will continue as in the past, in accordance with a plan in effect since Jan. 12, 1914.

The rate of pay on which a bonus is based will in all cases be the rate which an employe is receiving Dec. 31, 1919. In case an employe has returned to the company after having been out of the service for a period of time, the length of service will be reckoned from the date of his return, except in case of an employe who has been in government service or absent for reasons beyond his control.

In the case of death of an employe certificates become payable at once to his personal representatives in cash, plus interest due thereon. Certificates standing in the name of the deceased employe may continue at the discretion of the Directors to draw interest and payments for the benefit of his dependents. The Directors reserve the right to take up at any time for cash and on the terms stipulated above any or all investment certificates held by employes.

In no case will money withdrawn by employes from bank accounts be accepted in payment, either in whole or in part, for investment certificates. Certificates must be paid for out of bonus and pay, and no employe will be permitted to invest an amount in excess of one-third of his yearly pay in addition to the total amount of his bonus.

Speaking for the Ford organization, Charles W. Brownell, publicity manager of the Ford Motor Company, said:

"Within the last year Henry Ford and his son Edsel acquired full and complete ownership and control of this company. This end was sought with the purpose in mind of so shaping the policy of the company that the men in its employ may participate to a greater extent than ever before in its prosperity.

"It is believed that simple economic justice demands that a greater portion of the earnings should go in part to the employes and in part toward enlarging the industry. This policy carried out will mean that more men will be given the opportunity to work with the company and to participate in its benefits, and that those employes who remain with the company will share increasingly in its earnings.

"It has been decided to put into effect at once some of the plans which the owners of the business have had in mind. All that it is proposed to do cannot be done at once. It was suggested, in view of the recent purchase of the holdings of the minority stockholders and the great financial obligations incurred thereby, that it would be well to postpone inaugurating the more liberal policy toward employes for another year. This suggestion was met with a statement: 'We are going to do something now. We can make a start and then develop and enlarge our plans as conditions permit.' And so a beginning will be made on Jan. 1."

England Gets Radium by "Boiling Down" Guns

Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, Dec. 31.—An important medical report, writes a Daily Chronicle correspondent, will be presented to the Medical Research Committee by specialists who have been investigating the effect of radiotherapy.

Sir Walter Fletcher's department, which is doing splendid work with the aid of a Government grant, obtained from the Ministry of Munitions a very large quantity of radioactive material from guns used in the war. The lot was "boiled down" to produce five grammes of actual radium salt so highly powerful that it has been kept in a lead safe weighing 1½ tons. It is probably the largest amount available in one place for research work, and although only about a heaped teaspoonful is worth not far short of £100,000.

The radium is at the Middlesex Hospital in a container invented by Dr. Huss, the composition of which is so far known only to him. This is a secret of much scientific value, inasmuch as one of the greatest difficulties experienced by users of radium has been to find some material of sufficient resisting power to withstand radial penetration.

So potent are these 5 grammes that if a rat is imprisoned in the lead safe in which the container is placed it dies in a day and a half.

PLENTY OF DRINKS TO WELCOME 1920

John Barleycorn Will Be the Busiest Man in New York at Hotels Tonight.

HIGH FEES FOR CORKAGE

Thousands Reserve Seats and Will Bring Their Own Liquor—Rumor of Free Drinks.

Although a warning was issued yesterday by Internal Revenue agents against wood alcohol drinks as a salute to the New Year, the indications in all hotels and restaurants in this city last night were that the bold and unafraid would make this New Year's eve a tribute to John Barleycorn that would be remembered as long as there is a thirst.

To the assertion that "the town will have a dry New Year's Eve," the restaurant managers replied that this eve of greeting to the toddling New Year would be a lawful season of bibulousness that would make 1920 stagger right on to the stage. They point out that there is no law against serving the liquor brought to the restaurant or hotel by the guests.

Reisenweber's, at Columbus Circle, reported last night that the 3,000 persons who had made reservations there had sent in such a multitude of bottles and other packages of liquor that it had been thought necessary to hire twelve extra detectives to guard them over night. The notice from the restaurant continued:

"To further protect what is probably at the present time the largest privately owned community stock of wine and liquor in the city, we have arranged after 9 o'clock this evening to admit the 3,000 reservationists by presentation of specially issued tickets only."

The cover charges at Reisenweber's vary between $3.50 and $10, according to the desirability of the location of the table, and the corkage charge varies from $2 to $4 a bottle, depending upon the liquor. This corkage charge in all restaurants covers icing, service, and the provision of additional supplies, such as slices of orange, lemon, and sprigs of mint.

Large private stocks of liquor were unloaded yesterday at Healy's restaurant at Columbus Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street to be checked for the use of parties there tonight. More than 2,000 reservations had been made last night. The cover charge here varies between $7 and $10 and the corkage charge between $2 and $5. Healy's other place, Sunken Gardens, at Broadway and Ninety-fifth Street, was booked to capacity last night.

The Café de Paris, formerly Rector's, is admitting about 2,000 persons at a $10 cover charge; the Palais Royal has 600 at $12.50 each, and Shanley's in Times Square has 700 at $7 each. All other cabarets and restaurants reported a greater demand than ever for reservations. Carlton Terrace, at Broadway and 100th Street, disposed of its 600 reservations several days ago.

Some hotel managers denied a rumor yesterday that they intended to throw open their hearts and their wine cellars at the stroke of midnight and allow all their guests to drink heartily to the New Year at the expense of the proprietors. They admitted that such "munificence" might be legal but not wise.

However, the report persisted that in several of the big hotels the cover charge would include drinks. In some cases the beverage was to be a bottle of wine, one for each table, and in others a modicum of Scotch, according to optimists. At the McAlpin one of the Du Pont-Boomer hotels, it was said that the hotels in that chain would positively not give away liquor.

TREATY WILL GO INTO FORCE JAN. 6; GERMANS AGREE TO SIGN PROTOCOL; SENATORS BUSY ON TREATY PARLEYS

HITCHCOCK CALLS MEETING

Democrats of Foreign Relations Committee to Discuss Treaty.

HE CONFERS WITH McNARY

Mild Reservationist Urges the Administration Leader to Move for a Compromise.

LODGE TO CONSULT TODAY

McCumber Says West Wants Treaty—Allies Have Not Been Sounded.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Three events today are considered likely to have a most important bearing upon the efforts to effect a compromise on the Peace Treaty. They were:

A conference between Senator McNary, mild reservationist leader, and Senator Hitchcock, the Democratic leader.

The calling of a meeting of Democratic members of the Foreign Relations Committee for tomorrow night.

The arranging of a meeting between Senators Lodge and Pomerene at Senator Lodge's office for tomorrow.

The meeting of Democratic Senators, planned by Senator Hitchcock, was regarded as the most significant move yet made on the Democratic side. It is to follow the conference between Senators Lodge and Pomerene.

Senators Hitchcock, Pomerene, Swanson, Pittman and Williams are to attend. Senator Smith of Arizona, a member of the committee, is absent from Washington, and Senator Shields of Tennessee, another member, was not invited, apparently because he is one of the Democrats who oppose the treaty in its present form.

At this meeting the whole situation is to be gone over, and a definite outline of the Democratic position on reservations may be formulated for submission to the rank and file of the Senate Democrats as a preliminary to its presentation to the Republicans. The Democrats are to discuss how far they can go toward meeting the reservationists on the other side, taking into consideration the fact that they do not know how far President Wilson will go.

"We have to take chances on what the President will do," said Senator Hitchcock. "I will go a good way. We Democrats have to take all the chances, the Republicans take none.

"I have said that I think the President will accept what sixty-four Senators agree on because I do not think sixty-four Senators will agree on anything destructive. I will not agree to anything like that, of course. We would be left in a horrible plight if the President should reject what we agree on."

Hope for Article X. Compromise.

The Democrats expect to have the benefit at their meeting of a report from Senator Pomerene concerning Senator Lodge's attitude. Mr. Lodge today, through his secretary, arranged for a conference with Senator Pomerene at the Capitol tomorrow. From this discussion may be evolved some compromise upon Article X. of the League covenant, it was hinted.

Senator Pomerene believes that it is possible, through modification of the wording of the Lodge reservation on this article, to make it acceptable. He and Senator Hitchcock agree that though this point is the most serious to be considered it is not an insuperable obstacle in the way of a compromise.

Senator Hitchcock pointed out today that many Senators believe that the concession of the right of Congress to decide when and how an obligation shall be met softens the Lodge reservation's declaration against the assumption of a blanket obligation by the United States to act with force whenever any nation's territory is threatened from without. The insertion of a few words which do not change the substance of the reservation, or a rewritten version of it, which would mean the same thing, would be accepted by Democrats, it was indicated.

If Senator Pomerene suggests something of this sort to Mr. Lodge tomorrow he will not be repulsed, Mr. Lodge's friends asserted.

McNary and Hitchcock Nearer.

Senators McNary and Hitchcock today talked over the treaty for an hour. Mr. Hitchcock described the meeting as "a sounding of minds." He said it was entirely preliminary. Both he and Senator McNary were reticent about it, but from what they were willing to say it appears that the two Senators reached a fairly clear understanding.

Senator McNary said, after the conference, that he believed Senator Hitchcock "will not be found an unreasonable man." It was after the two had met when Mr. Hitchcock indicated his willingness to "take chances" on President Wilson's attitude.

Mr. McNary pointed out to the Democratic leader that he, as much as Sena-

Entire Polish Army at Russian Frontier; Forms Barrier to Protect West From Reds

ROME, Dec. 29.—Poland has her entire army marshalled along the Russian frontier to form a barrier against the western spread of Bolshevism, according to an interview with Cardinal Karkawski, Archbishop of Warsaw, printed in the Corriere d'Italia. The Cardinal says, however, that the Polish troops are too weak to withstand the pressure from the east, which he says may last from twenty to twenty-five years.

"Bolshevism is not understood, even by Socialists," says the Cardinal. "Socialists indentify Bolshevism as Maximalism, which is a great mistake. Maximalism is a positive program of government aiming to the securing of the maximum claims of the proletariat. Bolshevism, instead, has no positive aim, its program being merely a negative one, namely to destroy everything, like traditional Russian Nihilism. The only ideal of Bolshevism is the brutal blindness of ignorance. One of the most common cries of the Bolsheviki is: 'Down with all who know how to read and write!'

"France and Italy understand our situation, but England does not understand so well. We have our entire army drawn up along the Russian frontier, but our forces are limited and cannot stand alone against the weight of Bolshevist Russia, which threat shows no sign of becoming less. I believe the state of anarchy and upheaval in Russia may last twenty to twenty-five years longer.

"I know Russia, having been for several years director of the Catholic Academy at Petrograd. The brute element there is stronger than generally believed.' At the very gates of Petrograd there are Finnish villages still in primitive condition, while along the Pechora River, on the western slopes of the Urals, there is territory which, according to census returns, belongs to the orthodox religion, but which in reality is pagan, the people worshipping idols and making sacrifices like tribes in the centre of Asia or Africa."

JENKINS PAYS LAST OF $150,000 RANSOM

Carries the Receipts from His Captors to the American Embassy in Mexico City.

DENIES ALL NEW CHARGES

Fears He Cannot Obtain Justice—Puebla Prosecutor Defends His Treatment of the Case.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 30.—The three principals in the famous Jenkins case arrived here this morning—Mr. Jenkins, American Consular Agent in Puebla; the Governor of the State of Puebla, Alfonso Cabrera, and State's Attorney Mitchell. Mr. Jenkins stated he was not afraid of the new charges that were being made of helping the rebels, but was afraid he could not obtain justice. He charged that Mitchell was personally interested in proving him guilty. Mr. Jenkins stated he could not leave Mexico as he was in bad shape financially, for he had paid the full amount of the $150,000 ransom to Cordoba. He showed The Times correspondent a letter signed "Fed. Cordoba," saying that was the receipt for the last 2,200 pesos. The letter was received in the City of Puebla a few hours before he took the train for Mexico City, having been in constant touch with agents of Cordoba in Puebla in order to pay the ransom promised.

Mr. Jenkins had hoped the trip to Mexico City would force the Puebla authorities to declare his bail forfeited and return him to jail until the case was decided.

When asked about a check given to Mr. Woodward, an American with whom he has close business connections, for the amount of $100,000 when he was still in jail, Mr. Jenkins answered that the check was given in order to get American dollars, as he had agreed to pay Cordoba a part of the ransom in American money.

When asked about the Indian who had hidden in the Jenkins home and whose declarations form the base of the information given by the Secretary of American Embassy Hanna, but who now declares Jenkins had paid him for his declarations, Jenkins laughed, saying that the Government had probably forced the Indian to testify against him through fear. When the receipts from Cordoba are presented at the American Embassy, Mr. Jenkins plans to return to Puebla to attend to his cotton factory.

State's Attorney Mitchell, who is handling the case for the State of Puebla, is the son of an English father, but Mexican-born. In Mexico he is regarded as an able and conscientious lawyer. Before Jenkins was arrested Mitchell was a personal friend.

Mr. Mitchell is a curious mixture of Anglo-Saxon and Latin. He speaks quietly, but with Latin gestures.

"I would like to ask The Times," said Mr. Mitchell, "to make clear to the American people that we in the State of Puebla have no reason to try to prove Jenkins guilty. As prosecutor I am compelled not only to try to find the guilty, but also to aid the innocent. I have nothing personally to gain, but am compelled to comply with my duties even against a personal friend.

"We have evidence which seems to prove the complicity of Jenkins with the rebels, but if new evidence is found which would enable Jenkins to show his innocence I would be happy to help him. The State discovered new evidence which proves that Jenkins left Puebla in an auto. Arriving at La Presa, the auto continued to Malacatepec, where Jenkins waited in a wheat field until the arrival of Cordoba and Ubera, returning to La Presa in the auto, where Ubera left for Zetena. From La Presa he went to a hacienda at Santa Lucia on Muscovite "Sailor" Caught in Riga Has Membership Card of Brooklyn Firemen's Union.

WORKED WAY TO RUSSIA

And Bolsheviki Asked Him to Return Here with Valuables to Aid Poor Compatriots.

RIGA, Dec. 30.—For an hour today, in company with allied and Lettish officers and an interpreter, I interrogated the Bolshevist courier on whom letters and funds for Red agents in the United States were found when he was arrested recently. Incidentally, he speaks and understands English, though whenever an awkward question was asked he suddenly failed to comprehend.

He is a thick-set fellow, about 30, with a broad Slav face and slight mustache but no beard. His eyes are very deep set and his jaw so developed that the chin forms a straight line with the tip of the nose. His forehead is high, but receding to nearly two inches behind the line of the jaw. On the whole his is a brutal face, but decidedly not stupid, and, above all, indicating extreme stubbornness and resisting power. On the other hand, the authorities have got so much to work on already that I doubt whether he will resist a good "third degree" of moral pressure, though he is likely to be impervious to physical threats or violence.

During the examination he stuck closely to his story, but when confronted with weak points, and once when caught in a definite lie through trying to conceal information which he did not know the Letts already possessed, he took refuge in mulish silence or muttered "Nitchevo."

In a previous dispatch I said he readily admitted Communist sympathies. It would be more correct to say he admitted relations with the Communist in Moscow as he declared that he personally was a poor sailor who had no interest in or knowledge of politics.

Story the Courier Told.

His story, briefly, is as follows:

In January this year he found himself in New York with over $500 after several years in the merchant service, including American ships engaged in war work and food relief. He felt a desire to return to Russia to visit his parents in a village near Kiev, whom he had not seen for thirteen years. Accordingly he shipped to Liverpool, where he "lost" the papers he had in America.

From Liverpool he worked his way—in the engine room, and he has a membership card of the Brooklyn Branch of the Oilers and Firemen's Union—to Copenhagen. There he learned that the Danish Red Cross was repatriating Russian prisoners and obtained passage to a port in Finland, ultimately crossing the Finnish frontier into Russia on May 22. His only baggage was a small grip.

After reaching Petrograd he was arrested—or at least roped in—by the Bolshevist authorities and sent to Moscow. There his money was taken from him, but he was finally allowed to visit his PARIS, Dec. 30.—It was stated officially today that it was the belief of the allies' diplomats that Germany would sign the protocol and that the Treaty of Versailles would be put into effect Jan. 6 or 7.

This is not the first time the allied statesmen have believed a state of peace to be near, only to have Germany raise some new barrier to their plans. But there is every appearance that unless Germany again becomes recalcitrant the present difficulties are in the way of solution.

Today's hope for an early end of the farce in which world peace is being held up by a discussion as to whether the British naval experts made a correct estimate of the Hamburg dock facilities is based on the results of the visit which Baron von Lersner, head of the German delegation, made to Paul Dutasta, Secretary of the Peace Conference, last night. Baron von Lersner assured M. Dutasta that, while he had no formal note from Berlin, he knew that the German Government was in a kindly mood. He asked if M. Dutasta would have the Allies give Germany in writing the promise that M. Dutasta had made at the time the last note was handed to Von Lersner, to the effect that if the Germans proved their figures as to German maritime equipment the Allies would reduce their demands by 100,000 tons, inasmuch as the claim for 400,000 was based on the calculations that Germany possessed 700,000, whereas the Germans say they have only 600,000. The allied experts are now engaged in reviewing their estimates of Germany's ability to pay for the Scapa Flow sinkings.

Today M. Dutasta was authorised to reply to Baron von Lersner that the promise he had made in the name of the Supreme Council would be put in writing. This would seem to meet Germany's most recent objections to the Scapa Flow settlement. Baron von Lersner communicated this development to Berlin today and the allied diplomats expect the final German reply to reach Paris soon.

Further evidence that the difficulties standing in the way of a state of peace are melting away was contained in the report made to the Supreme Council this morning by General Weygand, Foch's Chief of Staff, to the effect that he had completed arrangements with the Germans for the transport of allied troops to the plebiscite territories. This will take about three weeks, according to General Weygand's statement.

The Supreme Council considered today the status of the American troops on the Rhine after the Peace Treaty comes into effect and until such time as America ratifies it. It was decided that the Interallied Rhineland Commission must have authority over all the left bank of the Rhine, including Coblenz, and that the American troops must act under the orders of this commission, on which, until America ratifies the treaty, she will not be represented.

The Council also considered the protest of the German Government against the refusal of the allied military authorities in the Rhineland to issue passes to Germans born in Slesvig and Upper Silesia to go to those districts to vote in the plebiscite. The Council ordered such passes granted. The German Government is said to be furnishing free transportation to the voting places to all persons born in these territories.

Lersner and Dutasta in Accord.

PARIS, Dec. 30 (Associated Press).—The exchange of ratifications of the Treaty of Versailles will take place Jan. 6 at the Quai d'Orsay. Baron von Lersner, head of the German delegation, and Paul Dutasta, Secretary of the Peace Conference, tonight settled all points in connection with the signing, except those relating to naval material, which it is expected will be arranged soon.

The Germans will sign the protocol, and at the same time the Allies will hand a letter to them, agreeing to reduce their demands to 400,000 tons if the total available tonnage has been overestimated, or Germany is gravely menaced economically. In any case, after the signature, the Allies will get 242,000 tons of material, and the rest based on the report of experts who are now checking up at Danzig, Hamburg, and Bremen.

Premier Lloyd George will be present at the ceremony, which will be carried out without any display. Diplomatic relations with Germany will be resumed the following day, when a French Chargé d'Affaires will go to Berlin, and French Consuls will resume their posts.

Allied troops will proceed on Jan. 12 to the territories which must be evacuated by the Germans, or where plébiscites are to be held. It is estimated that 100 trains will be needed for this purpose.

Ellis Loring Dresel, an American member of the Peace Conference as expert on German affairs, it is understood, will go to Berlin as soon as ratifications are exchanged. He will be accompanied by a staff. This is presumed here to be a temporary expedient until diplomatic relations with the United States are resumed. He was appointed Acting Commissioner and Chargé d'Affaires in October.

Ellis Loring Dresel was attached to the American Embassy in Berlin before the United States entered the war. Later he represented the War Trade Board in Switzerland and was in charge of American prisoners' affairs.

BRYCE STILL HAS HOPES WE WILL HELP ARMENIA

If Unwilling to Take Mandate He Suggests We Aid Another Power with Funds.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Viscount Bryce, in an article in the January number of The Contemporary Review on the settlement of the Turkish problem again emphasized the view that under no circumstances whatever must the Christian races be allowed to remain under Turkish rule. He says this would mean the exclusion of the Turks from Constantinople which far from being a Moslem city has been Christian ever since its capture in 1453. On the other hand Lord Bryce admits that the greater part of interior Asia Minor is inhabited by Moslems who might desire to remain under a Mohammedan Government.

As regards Armenia, Lord Bryce says: "The great powers have already declared and public opinion of Britain and the United States will insist that no shred or shadow of Turkish rule can be suffered to continue in the land where that rule has been at its worst."

Lord Bryce then expresses the earnest hope that the United States will yet accept the mandate for Armenia. He "I hope that she will ultimately render her invaluable help in one way or another to the nation to which her missionaries have during the last eighty years rendered such inestimable services by providing education and spreading the light of modern western civilization through the regions which blight of Turkish tyranny had darkened for many centuries yet in which a nation had clung loyally to its Christian faith and the traditions of its ancient glory—that hope has not been abandoned by the European friends of Armenia nor by those who know how warmly the heart of the American people responds to the call of freedom and humanity. America is far better fitted than any European power to serve and indeed save the Christians of the East for they already love and trust her and she stands apart from all jealousies which divide and the self-regarding purposes which distract European powers. * * * If, however, America still hesitates to accept the function of a temporary mandatary the possibility remains that if some European power, capable of that function but without pecuniary resources for discharging it unaided were to undertake it, America might be willing to contribute the funds which would facilitate such a solution of the problem."

HUNGARY WILL DEMAND PLEBISCITE OF ALLIES

Apponyi Regrets Absence of the Americans—Peace Delegates Soon to Go to Paris.

VIENNA, Dec. 30.—The Hungarian Government will make a fight, when its peace delegation goes to Paris, for the restoration of some of the territory taken away from it. Count Apponyi, who heads the delegation, indicated today that line of procedure.

"We deeply regret the withdrawal of America from the Supreme Council," he said, "because the United States had pledged itself to those principles on which alone the peace of Europe can be rebuilt. While we have faith that the Allies will treat us fairly, the withdrawal of America means a heavy loss.

"We shall demand a plebiscite in the territories cut off from Hungary, and we shall miss the support of that country whose head proclaimed the principle of the self-determination of peoples.

"Many millions of Hungarians are suffering under the yoke of the Rumanians, Serbs, and Czechs. We ask that the peoples of the transferred territories be allowed to decide their own state, and we shall accept the verdict."

The delegation headed by Count Apponyi probably will leave for Paris soon after the new year. But Count Apponyi says he feels that it is dangerous to depart until the Rumanians have obeyed the command of the Supreme Council to evacuate Hungarian territory.

TEMPS WOULD PRESS US.

Thinks Allied Premiers Should Urge Wilson and Senate to Act on Treaty.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 30.—Le Temps in a striking article tonight calls on the allied Governments to defer all decisions on world questions and to address an appeal to America to ratify the Versailles Treaty and take her place by the side of the Allies in tackling the great problems confronting them. Premier Lloyd George, Clemenceau, and Nitti will meet next week.

Le Temps says they will do the world more good if they devote themselves to getting America into line than if they go ahead and take decisions which can never be enforced without the approval and concurrence of the United States.

"Let us do nothing without the United States," is the keynote of the appeal, which must be taken to represent faithfully the attitude of the French Government and to reflect the belief of M. Clemenceau, who in another month will probably be elected President of the French Republic.

Le Temps says that the Versailles Treaty will probably be put into effect Jan. 6 or 7, and adds:

"But the entry of the treaty into effect will not solve at one blow all the problems of peace. It will leave many old ones; it will bring many new ones. We must know if we shall remain in 'Allied and Associated Powers' or if we will be only 'Allied Powers.' Up to this time the peace has been made by five great powers—the four allied powers which compose the Entente and the associated power, which is America. To achieve our peace can we continue without interruption the same co-operation of the five powers, or are we going ahead without the United States? As important as this question appears today, it will appear more important tomorrow.

"We hear people say: 'It is not our business to conserve or to lose the co-operation of the United States. It is upon President Wilson and the American Senate that there rests the burden of deciding what to do with the treaty. As long as they have not decided, the absence of the United States is an accomplished fact, against which we can do nothing. Let us wash our hands of it and go on about our business.'

"Here is reasoning which is not elegant, but which is intended to be impartial. Have we the right to accept such reasoning? No, for it consists in reality in taking part against the United States."

"At Washington Republicans and Democrats are searching feverishly for an arrangement which will allow the Senate to ratify the treaty by the needed two-thirds vote. Advocates of ratification are doing their best to get results when the Senate convenes early in January. If at the moment when they are working to that end the Allies of Europe pretend that they can do without American ratification, if instead of declaring they will examine with all good-will the reserves and interpretations of the American Senate, the Allies of Europe hasten to adopt, in the presence of the American Ambassador, reduced to the mere rôle of a spectator, decisions which will change profoundly the equilibrium of the Continent and will impose new burdens upon the powers responsible for peace, will that be the method to persuade the Senate to ratify quickly the treaty of Versailles?

"When the chiefs of the British, French, and Italian Governments meet in a few days their first act should be to address themselves to America and to say, 'Hurry and ratify, for we need your presence. Do not delay your ratification, for we shall do nothing without you.'

"Besides, what can we do definitely without the United States?

"Force Germany to pay? She will demand raw materials and credits to buy raw materials. Are you going to forget the dollar?

"Solve the problem of the Adriatic? The Jugoslavs intrench themselves behind the advice of President Wilson. Italy will demand that you guarantee her the approval of the United States. Will you pronounce the settlement without consulting the United States?

"Deal with the Russian question? The Bolsheviki threaten to go to Vladivostok. The Poles, the Rumanians, the little States of the Baltic or the Caucasus may be attacked next Spring. Do you not wish to know if the United States is for or against a barbed wire fence?

"Settle the fate of Constantinople? Of all problems growing out of war this holds the most danger of future conflict. You are already trying to settle it without hearing the voice of Russia, and you will do so still worse if you attempt anything without deliberating with the United States, the second naval power of the world.

"To adjust the problem of the Adriatic without the United States sharing with England and France the task of persuading Italy, without England and France being able to guarantee Italy the acceptance by Washington of any settlement—will that be to eliminate all the risk of a misunderstanding between Italy and her French or British Allies?

"To pursue in Siberia or Russia a policy different from the American policy when Japan does nothing without American accord, will that create a new bond between the Japanese Government and the Allies of the West?

"Let us look in the face, as a free people should the alternatives before which we find ourselves. It is not only the question of chosing between the presence or absence of the United States. It question knowing whether if we shall continue the policy which brought us victory and which made France the agent of Anglo-American rapprochement or we shall adopt a policy which shall depend entirely upon the engagements of France and England. "In the interest of Franco-British friendship, which cannot overlook Franco-American friendship, let us do nothing without the United States."

1,500,000 Germans Killed in War.

BERLIN, Dec. 30 (Havas).—Official statistics made public today, place the number of Germans killed in battle at 1,500,000. These figures do not include those who died in prison camps.

NITTI WARNS ITALY TO DROP ILLUSIONS

Urges the Senate to Influence the Country in Favor of Moderation Over Adriatic.

TO TALK PLAINLY TO ALLIES

Will Tell Exactly What Italy Can and Cannot Do—Scialoia Hints at Concessions.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Dec. 30.—Premier Nitti gave further notice yesterday in a debate in the Senate of his purpose to cut loose from the old Italian diplomacy and go to Paris prepared to tell the Allies exactly what Italy can and cannot do.

He referred to the game that has been to claim everything in the hope of getting a part. For example, the Italian method was to demand everything on the Adriatic, expecting really to get much less. Nitti is clearing the way to put his cards face up on the table.

He notified the Senate yesterday that he was not going to build Italian policy on a rotten foundation of lies. His branding as false of the statement that the Fiume demand had been struck out of the Compact of London because of Russian opposition puts an end to a fable that has passed current in Italy for months.

Such candor produced a shock in the Italian Senate, and members plaintively protested that it was inopportune for the Italian demands at Paris. Nitti fully recognized the strength of presenting his claims with the confidence of his colleagues of the Entente on his side.

All Americans with whom I have talked enthusiastically approve Nitti's blunt honesty and believe it will make friends for Italy in the United States.

Policy Is Told to the Senate.

ROME, Dec. 29 (Associated Press).—The Senate today heard addresses by both Premier Nitti and Foreign Minister Scialoia, who gave assurances that nothing had been compromised concerning the Adriatic settlement. Both statesmen declared that they would go to London and Paris hopeful of a satisfactory solution of the question of Fiume, as both Great Britain and France had agreed to some changes in Italy's favor in modification of the last proposals of President Wilson, put forward after the rejection of the propositions made by former Foreign Minister Tittoni.

Neither of the speakers stated specifically what President Wilson's proposals were or gave an idea of what the possible modifications might be.

Signor Scialoia said the treaty of St. Germain did not become effective unless ratified by at least three of the Allies. So far only Italy and Austria had ratified it. But, he added, even if the Versailles Treaty (with Iermany) had been ratified by three of the Allies it was not yet effective, because the ratifications had not been formally deposited. However, in both cases several clauses of the treaties already were being executed, the Allies trusting in the good faith of the contracting parties.

The memorandum handed to him in London by Premier Clemenceau of France, Mr. Lloyd George, Prime Minister of Great Britain, and Mr. Davis, the American Ambassador, Signor Scialoia continued, did not have the value attributed to it by the newspapers. It contained explanations of Secretary of State Lansing's statement regarding former Foreign Minister Tittoni's proposal, together with a text of the proposal. The memorandum went into both sides of the question and showed a certain leaning toward the American proposal.

Memorandum Only for Discussion.

"This would be grave," Signor Scialoia continued, "if verbally they had not declared to me that the memorandum did not contain any character of pressure to be exercised over Italy, but must be considered simply as a means of reopening the discussion, and not as an attempt to close it. Earl Curzon of Kedleston (the British Foreign Secretary) already had notfied me of the contents of the memorandum. I told him that I would not accept it. Earl Curzon replied that it was not a question of accepting it, because it was aimed exclusively to give us the possibility again to discuss the question.

"M. Clemenceau and Mr. Lloyd George told me that if France, England, and Italy agreed, even going beyond the terms of President Wilson, they believed they could present the agreement to President Wilson and induce him to accept it in the interest of European peace."

The reproach made against Italy, Signor Scialoia continued, was that she asked far Dalmtaia and also Fiume, although Fiume had been awarded to Croatia under the terms of the Compact of London, which would make the compact contradictory.

"In reality," said Signor Scialoia, "there was no contradiction, as Italy has a treaty with France and Great Britain which, unfortunately, is not recognized by the United States, granting Dalmatia to her. Italy asked for the fulfillment of that treaty, but did not ask for Fiume. It was Fiume which asked to be annexed to Italy."

Applause greeted the words of the speaker.

"According to the principles of nationality and self-determination," Signor Scialoia proceeded, "we could not help supporting the claims of Fiume, which had the right to decide its own fate. We may renounce a part of what was promised us, but this must be done spontaneously.

No Renunciation Yet.

"So far no renunciation has been made. There have been several compromises suggested, but no renunciation.

"Concerning a direct agreement with the Jugoslavs, we are ready to try it, but on condition that the Jugoslav Government be free and not guaranteed the minimum of its claims by some power. I cannot tell what our position in going to Paris is. That would make negotiations impossible. But I can proclaim that our aims are to guarantee the Italianity of Fiume, protect Italian Delmatia, and insure the safety of the Adriatic."

The object of Italy, said the Foreign Minister, was twofold—the protection of the Italian nationality of Fiume and Dalmatia and military defence of the Adriatic. He said that Secretary of State Lansing proposed neutralization of the Dalmatain Islands and of the surrounding sea as far as Ragusa, but declared that this would leave a part of the Italian coast exposed to the same attack as in the late war.

"This is intolerable," exclaimed Signor Scialoia. "We do not want any protection which allows us to attack an opposite coast, of which attack there is no thought, but we wish to be sure that we cannot be attacked."

The Foreign Minister again was applauded when he asserted that in Asia Minor and the Eastern Mediterranean Italy asked for influence proportionate to her economic and commercial interests.

Nitti Urges That Truth Be Told

Premier Nitti began his speech by declaring that the statements of Signor Scialoia represented the ideas of the entire Cabinet. He urged the Senate to influence the country in favor of moderation in order to avoid new illusions, which might be the greatest menace to public order. The hard truth, he declared, no matter how bitter, was better than illusions.

Touching upon the financial situation the Premier said that no country as yet had had the financial courage of Italy. The financial measures proposed by the Minister of the Treasury were the most servere of any made by European countries. Indeed, he declared, no country yet had presented a complete and concrete project for financial resurrection.

"I trust we will win," continued the Premier. "If I could speak to you, not as the head of the Government, I would demonstrate how certain allied countries which seem to be in better condition than ours in reality are worse."

The Premier denied that the relations of Italy with the Allies were not cordial. The excitement of the past days, due to the opinions expressed by M. Clemenceau, produced justified apprehension in Italy, he said, but he urged that the Italians must not exaggerate these opinions.

"However much I regret what M. Clemenceau said," Signor Nitti declared, "there were in his words some historical inexactitudes. Italy did not pledge herself to give Fiume to Croatia, which was not a contracting party. It is true that Fiume was not included in the compact of London, but it is also true that if the compact of London were executed Dalmatia would immediately be given to Italy.

"The compact of London also said that we would never fight alone against Austria. Despite that fact, we did fight alone against Austria. Naturally, now there are accounts to make which are rather annoying. We must recall to the Allies our friendly attitude when we were not asking for any territory, but risking our entire nation's existence."

Signor Nitti urged the Senate always to use friendly language toward Italy's allies and to make known throughout the country the advisability of speaking about the Allies in tones of sympathy and cordiality, because there still was a long road on which to walk together. He also urged them to demonstrate the loyalty of Italy's conduct.

Appeal to Jugoslavs.

The Premier expressed the hope that Serbia would remember the assistance she had received from Italy and that Jugolslavia would understand that there was in no part of Italy any idea of domination—only a desire to open her markets to neighboring peoples. He declared that, above all, Italy had no intention to make new wars, but added that as long as some of the allied powers made the Jugoslav minority believe that it would be supported in its pretensions it would be impossible to expect moderation from the Jugoslavs.

"We desire that the situation in the Adriatic," said the Premier, "cease to be a situation of our actual occupation of what we want and for it to become a situation of the right of occupying only what is acknowledged by the powers to be our right."

Signor Nitti said the questions of Fiume, Dalmatia, and Albania were closely connected with the internal situation of Italy, and with credit abroad. Since last September, he asserted, Italy had been unable to obtain any loans, either in allied or neutral countries, because they feared that, if there was not an actual war, there would be such a situation in the country as to cause grave consequences.

"It is therefore indispensable," the Premier concluded, "to bring about such a situation as will give the country a feeling of stability, discipline and concord. The Government will do everything in this direction if it is supported by the confidence of Parliament and by the trust of public opinion."

GERMAN WAR LORDS GET RICH BY WRITING

Hindenburg's Book Nets Him 4,000,000 Marks—Ludendorff Makes Almost as Much.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—The unsuccessful German war lords have developed into the most successful money makers. Nearly all the prominent figures in the old Germany have written books. Those of Ludendorff, Tirpitz, Falkenhayn, Bethmann Hollweg, and Helfferich have already appeared, and Hindenburg, too, is in the field. The amounts of money which these people have made or are making out of their literary efforts are enormous.

Hindenburg has sold the American rights of his book for a sum which at the present rate of exchange makes him a millionaire in marks twice over. It is believed that he will get 4,000,000 marks altogether for his book. Ludendorff has done magnificently, too. He held out for £40,000 for the English, colonial, and American rights. He had some difficulty in persuading those who wished to buy that his vast volume was really worth so much.

"Well," he was in the habit of saying pompously, "I have fought the world for four years on a much more serious matter; so I can easily hold out for a while against it till it comes to my terms in this instance."

He did eventually modify his terms slightly, but he obtained a sum which worked out at slightly over 2,500,000 marks. Agreements for other countries raised the amount he received to 3,500,000 marks.

Von Tirpitz rather bungled his money-making business, but still he has come within a short distance of being a German millionaire.

The money netted from their books by the persons who lost the war is declared to be as follows: Hindenburg, 4,000,000 marks; Ludendorff, 3,500,000; Tirpitz, 900,000; Helfferich, 275,000; Bethhmann-Hollweg, 250,000; Falkenhayn, 180,000.

There are more books to come. Admiral von Scheer, who asserts that he won the Battle of Jutland, is busy, and so is Count von Bernstorff.

"But all these books coming out now," the Count said to me the other day, "are so much propaganda. There has not yet been time to write history. I shall publish mine when events can be surveyed as a whole and more calmly looked at."

Curiously enough, all the numerous war correspondents have disappeared. Not a single book by a German war correspondent has been published, except a few brochurelike productions which were issued in the course of the war for propaganda purposes.

Accused Policeman Held for Court.

Charged with petit larceny and having burglar's tools in his possession, Louis J. Hohorst, a policeman attached to the Brownsville Station, was yesterday held for Special Sessions, in the Gates Avenue (Brooklyn) Court. Hohorst was arrested by another policeman several days ago. He was accused of having broken into and rifled a showcase in front of the dry goods store of Israel Newman, 1,319 Fulton Street. He was in full uniform at the time.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 30.—Governor Smith was 46 years old today, and it was just one year ago that he arrived in Albany and took the oath of office. He was the recipient of numerous telegrams and letters of felicitation from various parts of the State, while employes in the executive department presented him with a large bouquet of roses.

RENEWS ATTACK ON J. P. MORGAN & CO.

Paris Paper Prints Documents to "Prove" Connection with German Baltic Adventure.

SAYS ALLIES LACK UNITY

And Some Sent Persons Into Northern Region Who Pursued Selfish Ends.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 30.—Since the publication of news dispatches several days ago saying that the United States and Japan had concluded an accord on Japanese military action in Siberia, European diplomats who are about to take up consideration of the Russian problem have been waiting for some official word from Washington or Tokio.

Several Paris newspapers today, in stating that French statesmen know nothing of the new development, call attention to the present dangerous situation in Russia, and ask for a statement from Washington. Their attitude toward the American and Japanese action, which they say was taken without consulting the other allies, is rather unsympathetic.

This angle of the situation is made sharper by the publication today in the Eclair, the organ of former Premier Briand, of three alleged documents which the Eclair states proves that the banking house of J. P. Morgan was involved in the German attempt to secure control of the Baltic provinces through the so-called Government of West Russia formed in Berlin and operated from the German capital.

A report of negotiations between General Biskopsky, head of this Government, and a representative of the Morgan bank, was published some weeks ago, and led to explanation by the banking firm that whoever acted in its name acted without authority, and that no loan was made. This explanation was published in all the newspapers in Paris, including the Eclair. On top of that the Eclair today in a rather savage article, not at all kindly to America, repeats the charge against the Morgan firm, and says the three alleged documents it publishes prove the case.

Despite the enthusiasm of the editor of the Eclair for his case, it must be stated that he has no direct proof that J. P. Morgan's firm actually negotiated with Biskopsky. It all hinges upon the identity of a mysterious Mr. —.

The significance of the article in Briand's paper hinges largely upon a statement made after reviewing the German attempt to organize the Baltic States into a gateway into Russia, in which the editor says:

"The German manoeuvre was based upon a regrettable absence of unity among the Allies. While apparently in accord around the conference table, certain great powers actually sent into the regions persons having a more or less official character who followed selfish ends without regard to the general welfare of Europe or the consequences of their actions."

The article then goes on to say:

"In October, 1919, the Eclair published a statement that Independent Socialists in Germany were in possession of documents establishing the direct participation of the American banking firm of Pierpont Morgan in the German-Russian Baltic adventure.

"These documents are today in the hands of the Governments of the Baltic States, which have photographed them. We reproduce them word for word."

The first is a letter addressed by General Biskopsky to Mr. Director X——. The name of Mr. X—— is rubbed out. The text of the letter indicates that he was either a Director of the Morgan branch at Berlin or else a high personage of Wilhelmstrasse. Here is the letter:

"Berlin, Wilhelmstrasse 34.

"Based upon negotiations which took place today, the Political and Military Council of the Government of Western Russia asks you, in order to care for the needs on the new front of the west which is being established to fight against Bolsheviki, for a loan of 300,000,000 reichmarks, having as guarantee all personal and real property of the State, of which the organization will be the result of the activity of the aforesaid council. We ask you to state your conditions.

(Signed) "GENERAL BISKOPSKY,
"President of the Council."

The second document purports to be a provisional contract for the supplying of the 300,000,000 marks. The Eclair states that it is signed "by all the parties interested," but fails to state who signed for J. P. Morgan & Co.

The third document purports to be the finished contract and stipulates that Mr. —— is to get for his trouble 4,500,000 marks and great industrial rights in Russia.

The Eclair concludes its two-column article by saying:

"These three documents prove perfect accord between the Government of Berlin and the Government of Biskopsky and Bermondt. They prove equally that the bank of J. P. Morgan played an active rôle in this affair."

It is known that the Morgan firm has stated to the allied Governments that it took part in no such deal.

PROFESSORS ATTACK THE LEAGUE PLAN

Hobbs of University of Michigan Compares Wilson to Wood as Reliable Leader.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 30.—At the meeting today of the social and economic science section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science several speakers attacked the present League of Nations plan.

Quoting from President Wilson, General Wood, and Theodore Roosevelt, Professor William H. Hobbs of the University of Michigan said that it was time to determine "whether we had not better abandon the idea of the League of Nations before it was entered upon." He went on:

"President Wilson has admitted of the scheme for which he stands sponsor before the world that with its adoption we would embark upon 'uncharted seas.' The real question before the American people has from the start been one of the reliability of judgment of its political prophets.

"On the other hand, General Wood has made the statement that the claim that any covenant will protect the world from future wars is idle twaddle and a dream of mollycoddles.

"Which guide are we to follow? Woodrow Wilson declared we could not become involved in the war, and that the affairs of Europe were not our concern, so he advocated non-preparedness as the remedy. Leonard Wood declared that we were very likely to become involved in the war, that our only safety was in making preparation for any contingency, that the world's struggle was our war, and he risked all that he had to save his country and his country's honor. The pacifists' solution did not then avail to keep us out of war, despite Mr. Wilson's consoling promises."

Professor Charles M. Bakewell of Yale University held that Napoleon gave mouth to the ideas similar to those that are included in the League of Nations and that Alexander I. of Russia did likewise.

"Fair phrases," said the professor, "may cloak foul ambition or may be used to disguise selfish interests. It is striking that among the proposed League's severest critics are to be found many who, when Belgium was invaded, and still more when the Lusitania was sunk, were most insistent that America should play a great and unselfish part by entering the war. Whereas there are many who, when the greatest crime against civilization was committed, held that it was none of our affairs and were not aroused to action until our own selfish interests made action inevitable, who are now to be found among the League's defender's, including the most insistent of them all."

Dwight T. Farnum, Vice President of the Society of Industrial Engineers, inquired whether the laws of the proposed League could be made applicable to labor?

Dr. David Jayne Hill said the proposed League covenant "cannot be called a final solution of the problem of peace."

"It will be some night," concluded all managers. "Some night!"

A new record for receipts is certain to be established by the New York theatres tonight, in view of the fact that the prices will be the highest which have yet prevailed on any New Year's Eve. With three exceptions, all of the leading theatres will charge $5 for orchestra seats. Seats for "Caesar's Wife," at the Liberty, are scaled at $4, while $3.50 will be the top price for "One Night in Rome," at the Criterion, and "Clarence," at the Hudson.

Ticket brokers reported yesterday that the sale of seats was large, even at $5, and that all of the theatres in town, except those housing marked failures, would sell out at this price. It was estimated that the receipts in the first-class houses tonight would be well in excess of $200,000.

PROVES SHELLING OF RHEIMS WANTON

Baron von Hausen's Reminiscences Show There Was No Need to Fire at Tower.

HIS OWN SAXONS IN CITY

And Prussian Guards of von Buelow Bombarded Rheims at That Time.

BERLIN, Dec. 30 (Associated Press).—Rheims Cathedral was damaged by German shell fire the first time on Sept. 4, 1914, when the Prussian Guard bombarded the city for two hours, even after it had been occupied an entire day by Saxon troops, according to Lieut. Gen. Baron von Hausen, then commander of the Saxon 3d Army, who has just published reminiscences of the first battle of the Marne.

The revelations of Baron von Hausen are prefaced by a statement which declares that, while the Germans have been searching helplessly for the guilt of those who started the war, an entire year has passed in which no attempt has been made to establish the responsibility for the bombardment of the cathedral city. He explodes the theory of the military leaders who declared that the firing on Rheims was forced by military necessity, in view of the fact that the French were said to have used the towers of the cathedral for observation posts and emplacements for guns.

Baron von Hausen in his reminiscences says that on Sept. 3, 1914, he advanced southward with his troops against Rheims, at the same time that General von Bülow, at the head of the 2d Army, also was approaching the city. Although fights on Sept. 1 and 2 had made doubtful whether Rheims could be held or used as a fortress, General von Bülow announced by wireless, according to Baron von Hausen that he had ordered Rheims taken early on Sept. 3. On the same day General von Hausen learned by airplane courier that Rheims had been evacuated. He discusses his operations thus:

"I decided to make a sally against the fortifications and took Forts Vitry and Nogent l'Abbesse without opposition, and later other forts, together with many guns and much ammunition. The population was satisfied, since the presence of German troops prevented disorders. At noon on Sept. 3 Rheims was firmly held by the Saxons. A few hours later, however, it was learned that the city was being bombarded by the Prussian Guard. It was regarded as a sensational report, which nobody believed until shells actually fell. The Guard had fired ostensibly because three couriers had failed to return.

"On Sept. 4 the Guard bombarded Rheims for two hours, damaging the cathedral. After the bombarding, von Bülow sent word that he had imposed a fine of 50,000,000 francs, which would be increased to 100,000,000 if the couriers were not released in two days."

Baron von Hausen says General von Bülow imposed the fine without knowing whether the couriers had arrived at Rheims, and that the fact was that they did not reach the city. General von Bülow is said to have ordered the bombardment without knowing whether Rheims was defended or not.

Discussing the question of guilt for the firing on Rheims, the Vossische Zeitung says:

"The chief guilt for the fearful act unquestionably is on Lieutenant Gen. von Hausen, who knew the 2d Army planned an attack on Rheims and took it ahead of that time, failing to notify General von Bülow of the city's occupation, thus exposing his own troops in Rheims to bombardment."

DRESCHER NAMES HIS STAFF

Schnitzpan Made Under-Sheriff—Lewis Keeps Force Intact.

William Schnitzpan of the Twentieth Assembly District, who was on Sunday selected by the local Republican leaders for the office, was yesterday appointed Under Sheriff, at $6,000 a year, by Sheriff-elect John Drescher of Kings County. Other appointments announced by the Sheriff-elect were Charles F. Murphy of the Tenth District, counsel to the Sheriff, at $5,000 a year, and Miss Marie Frugone as secretary to the Sheriff, at $1,800 a year.

District Attorney Harry E. Lewis of Kings County, who was elected for a second term in November, announced yesterday the reappointment of all his assistants. Lewis Birdseye will also continue as chief clerk of the office. In making the re-appointments Mr. Lewis warmly praised the work of the staff.

RED COURIER TELLS CONFLICTING STORY

By WALTER DURANTY.

parents without it while inquiries were being made regarding him. On his return the money was restored and he was allowed full liberty of action.

Dissatisfied with conditions in Russia, he thought and spoke of returning to America, whereupon he was approached by the Bolsheviki and asked whether he would convey for them money and valuables to New York to provide funds for indigent Russians there, on condition that his expenses were paid and his passage facilitated into and through Latvia, which there is reason to believe is now the regular route of Bolshevist couriers, for there are others.

He agreed, and was conducted to the front and assisted to pass the lines at a certain point, but found less assistance than he expected and had difficulty in reaching Riga unguided. Here, too, the assistance was much less than he had been led to expect, which was the reason why he wrote the letters of complaint found at the frontier on a woman he sent back as a messenger.

Discrepancies in His Narrative.

He told his story pretty straightforwardly, and at first sight it seemed reasonable enough, but cross-examination, and of a no very searching character at that, soon revealed a number of fatally weak points. To begin with, asked about his relations with Russian circles in America, he admitted acquaintance with the editorial office of a certain Russian newspaper—this was already known, so he could not deny it—but said he had only gone there to purchase back numbers, and denied ever having contributed articles.

To the abrupt statement: "That was a Communist newspaper," he replied, quickly, "Oh, no, Social Democrat," indicating rather more knowledge of the subject than a poor sailor, uninterested in politics, might possess.

Asked how it was that the Bolsheviki were ready to intrust valuables worth about a million rubles to a man they did not know, and whom, indeed, they had treated for a time as a suspect, he at first looked rather blank, then, after a pause, mumbled that he supposed they had found out about him from New York, where he had a good character, and where there were people who would vouch that he would not steal anything.

Lamer still was his inability to explain the presence of highly compromising literature in the false sides and bottom of a small wooden grip covered with thick paper to look like leather, probably the same small grip that he took across the frontier into Russia. On this point he would not speak at all, but there is an obvious discrepancy between the carriage of valuables to assist needy compatriots and of secret documents of this character.

It was regarding his stay in Riga that his story broke down. Most of the letters which I saw written to officials of the Third Bureau of the Internationale in Moscow, which he pretended were mere complaints of the failure of local comrades to further his passage, were in reality typical secret reports couched in well chosen language and insisting strongly on reforms needed not only to improve conditions here, but to facilitate the courier service and avoid certain risks and inconveniences which he mentioned. Moreover, the writing was that of an educated man and denoted also considerable self-confidence and strength of character. Against that the man declared that all the education he received was three years in a peasant school near Kiev during his childhood.

I may add that the courier had an identity card from the Ukrainian Consulate at Riga, countersigned by the Letvian police, for a stay in the country, but no other personal papers or passes besides the membership ticket above mentioned.

Gem-Set Miniature Among Valuables.

Among the valuables was a beautiful miniature—a man's head and shoulders of the eighteenth century—in a gold frame set with brilliants, perhaps the loot of some palace.

On the whole, the inquiry left no doubt in my mind, or the minds of other participants, that the man was a genuine Bolshevist agent. He struck me as being a typical product of the effects of Bolshevist theories on a mind simple, but not weak, filled with half-digested education.

He showed considerable cunning in evading questions, and seemed to have been well drilled in addition, but one could not say that he displayed lucid intelligence, and there was also said by the interpreter to be the misuse of the word analogous in one of his letters. There was, too, a sullen mulishness at times which went well with the gorilla jaw and receding forehead. Whether a dangerous Bolshevik or not, he certainly looks the part to perfection.

Two Couriers in Latvia.

Not one Bolshevist agent, however, but two, have been in Latvia on their way to America from Moscow. The other is still at large. That was the most interesting fact elicited during the examination of the captured Red. The latter was interrogated suddenly by a Lettish officer regarding a man mentioned in one of the letters written by him to Moscow.

It appears this document had been secured by the authorities subsequently to the rest, and the courier was unaware that they got it. Accordingly he at first denied all knowledge of the subject, but under pressure admitted that he knew the name. He had just met the man casually in Moscow and knew nothing about him and had never seen him since. Then he was confronted by his own statement in a letter: "Have met —— here in Riga, and we propose to try to reach America together." This was a regular knockout. The courier lost countenance, flushed, and muttered something inaudible.

To further sharp questions he replied that he had met —— in Moscow, where he did know he was going to America. The latter part of the admission was a slip he hastily tried to correct by saying, "I mean Riga." He went on to say he had indeed met —— casually in the street a fortnight after his own arrival, at the beginning of October, and that —— left Moscow two weeks before him for America.

At this point the courier was evidently shaken and I believe a shrewd professional cross-examination might have elicited something important, but he recovered himself and refused to tell more than that —— had asked his address but declined to give his own, that they separated immediately, but that —— had not been to see him and that he had never laid eyes on him since, nor had any idea what had become of him. The bare fect that —— was not a sailor and an exceedingly vague description of his appearance was all that could be got out of him.

The man, whose name, of course, is known, is still at large and may have already succeeded in leaving Latvia, where, however, a fine meshed dragnet is being put out for him.

One other piece of information concerning himself was obtained from the courier. He declared that he was registered on the books of the American Shipping Board and gave a name, or alias, and date of entry which may provide a valuable clue to his movements and activities in the United States.

It is worth adding that those best qualified to judge here consider the weakest point of his own story was the fact that he was intrusted with money and valuables worth a million rubles—to say nothing of documents of such importance. It is incredible that the Moscow Bolsheviki should have intrusted such a charge to any one reported as being just a poor sailor, a mere visitor, and disinterested in politics.

Moreover, the occasions on which Bolshevist couriers have been apprehended have been so rare—there was one several months ago when a Red plane bearing highly important communications between the German and Russian Communists came down by accident in Lithuania and the papers were seized—that it is proof that the Bolsheviki do not intrust important measures to the first casual wayfarer who is willing to do them a service in return for passage money and facilities.

DRIVE REDS OVER NAROVA.

Esthonians Use Gas to Force Enemy Back Over River.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Fierce fighting in the Narva region with a heavy gas shell bombardment by the Esthonians which forced the Bolsheviki to retire over the Narova River, is reported in an official statement issued by the Soviet authorities in Moscow today.

The Bolsheviki took with them more than 100 prisoners.

NO PASSPORTS TO RUSSIA.

British Government Tells Labor Delegation It Can't Grant Any.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—The Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress today applied for passports for a delegation of the congress to visit Soviet Russia, there to investigate prevailing conditions.

The Government replied that it could not grant passports to a country with which it had no diplomatic relations.

tor Lodge, should bestir himself in behalf of ratification. Neither side, Mr. McNary said, could afford to jockey or wait for the other. He said that the Underwood resolution providing for a conciliation committee of Senators doubtless would be called up for action immediately after the recess, and predicted that it would receive general support among the Democrats and a number of Republican votes, including his own.

If the combination of Democratic and Republican votes should cause the adoption of the resolution, an immediate transfer of the leadership in the treaty situation would result, Senator McNary pointed out. Mr. Hitchcock would no longer be the leader in the sense he has been all through the treaty fight. Senator Underwood would receive the credit for getting the conciliation move under way, and this might give him an advantage over Senator Hitchcock in the fight for party leadership, which is to be settled Jan. 15.

Senator Hitchcock said that he, too, expected Senator Underwood to bring up his resolution at once after the recess, and indicated that he was not disturbed over it. He said he regarded it as unnecessary, but not objectionable. As to its chance of adoption he declined to venture a guess.

Senator Hitchcock today saw Senators Kenyon and Borah, in addition to Senator McNary.

Democratic Senators who have been keeping their fingers upon the pulse of the Senate said today that they were convinced that the middle ground Republicans, who include Senators Townsend, Cummins, Sterling, and others, would eventually force an agreement upon some basis. Among this middle ground group the Democrats see indications of growing impatience, which is rapidly becoming intolerance of further inaction or political jockeying by either side.

As the situation clears, it is generally agreed that the Lodge reservations are to form the basis of compromise. No other feasible solution, it is asserted, has presented itself.

The Article X. objections are well known. The voting power reservation is objected to, Senator Hitchcock said today, because it disfranchises Canada, Australia, and other self-governing British dominions in the League. The preamble, these Democratic Senators believe, is to be abandoned.

In this connection Senator King's suggestion that the preamble be changed to require objection by two nations to the American reservations to make them ineffective, instead of acceptance by three to make them effective, was called absurd today by mild reservationists before whom Senator King laid his program. These Senators asserted that it was foolish to try to provide for two objections when one objection would destroy the League's unity quite as summarily and would doubtless be the signal for similar objections by all the great powers.

Senator Hitchcock was studying the King proposals today. Mr. King is counting on Mr. Hitchcock's support, but that, it was learned, he is not likely to get.

Senator McCumber, a leading mild reservationist, who has been absent from Washington for some weeks, returned today. He brought back word that people all through the West want ratification.

"I have been in Arizona, California, Oregon, North Dakota and Minnesota since I left Washington," said Senator McCumber, "and have talked with a great many people. My understanding is that the great majority of the people desire ratification without any further delay. They are perfectly willing, in my opinion, to take the League of Nations and the treaty with such reservations as the Senate and the President can agree upon.

Allies Not Sounded on Reservations.

It is authoritatively learned that no negotiations have taken place between the State Department and the allied Governments relative to the action of the Senate in regard to the proposed reservations to the treaty. No steps have been taken by Secretary Lansing to ascertain the extent to which Great Britain, France, Italy, or any other signatory would be willing to accept interpretations or reservations such as might be written into the treaty if a compromise among different groups in the Senate could be effected.

It was also learned authoritatively today that the American Commission to Negotiate Peace, all the members of which have now returned to the United States, has gone completely out of existence. Those of its members who continued on its payroll after the President returned to this country are no longer on the roll.

Colonel E. M. House and Henry White have returned to private pursuits. General Bliss has been ordered to report to General March, Chief of Staff, for assignment to duty. The other three Commissioners—President Wilson, Secretary Lansing, and Under Secretary Polk—have reverted to their former status.

Another Band Apprehended!

Last September a messenger for a brokerage firm here disappeared, having in his possession $141,000 in Liberty Bonds which had been entrusted to him for delivery. Our bond was for $100,000, and it was instantly paid. Since that time detectives have been gathering information here and there, resulting in the arrest of nine men, who are charged with being implicated in the theft of the bonds. These people will all be dealt with according to law.

This leaves one prominent band yet to be apprehended, the band that murdered Benjamin Binkowitz. We firmly believe the Detectives will also round up this band, thus making a clean sweep of several bands, of the most vicious kind, that has ever operated in the financial district!

We extend our utmost praise, which is well deserved, to the skill that has been shown by those in charge of the detective bureau of the city detectives of New York. The result of their efforts is a tribute of the highest degree to their keenness and integrity of purpose.

AUSTRIA'S CONDITION IS STEADILY WORSE

SNOW BLOCKS RAILWAYS

Suspension of Passenger Traffic on All Lines Is Continued a Week.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Dec. 27.—As the result of a conference held today at the Austrian Railway Ministry it has been decided no passenger trains shall run until Jan. 2. Passenger traffic, which has already been suspended for one week, is thus in abeyance for one week more, and warning is given that even when resumed it will always be liable to these suspensions.

Coal, of course, is the difficulty, but the whole matter is symptomatic of the disintegration proceeding apace here. Coal stocks are being reckoned from day to day, and the slightest interruption in deliveries means confusion and stoppage of some industry.

There are, too, constant conflicts between the rival claims of coal and food supplies. Food stocks are as low as those of coal, and now, just when uninterrupted deliveries are of paramount importance, comes the news that the railways are being blocked by heavy snowfalls.

But though things are getting steadily worse, no one believes the mass of the people will be goaded into desperation so long as the Winter remains a comparatively mild one. It is the financial state of the country which is leading to what many sober people now consider inevitable collapse.

Austria is a country which is buying wherever it can, but is manufacturing practically nothing. As a result its currency and the banks are imposing further and further difficulties in the way of such trade as is still possible, and the factories must continue to shut down.

Inside Austria itself paper notes still circulate, but at steadily decreasing values. Prices are rising almost daily. Every State-owned enterprise is showing tremendous deficits. The budget is now beyond control and calculation. Unemployment pay pensions and the food supply are all making tremendous calls upon the resources of the country. Such expenditure makes a great call for currency and the Government printing press is the only works in Austria which is working rapidly.

This currency question is aggravated, too, by the action of the peasants. They are charging enormous prices for food, but when they receive payment they no longer bank their notes, but hoard them. So the Government is continually being forced against its will to print fresh currency. It is this, perhaps, that will lead to collapse.

The day will come when the peasants will no longer deliver food against payment in notes. They will say they have enough notes and will deliver only against payment in kind, and then all confidence in Government notes will be lost and collapse will ensue.

The selfishness of the peasants has before now been the rock on which the Government has stranded, and there is real fear in Viennese financial circles. The people know that Austrian currency is worthless abroad, and that the country is hopelessly bankrupt, but from force of habit notes still circulate. But some time soon overnight this habit will disappear.

SUPREME COURT LEAK TO GO TO GRAND JURY

Palmer's Aids to Show How Prohibition and Oil Decisions Became Known.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The Department of Justice will submit the results of its investigation in the alleged leak of the decision of the United States Supreme Court to the Grand Jury of the District of Columbia. An official statement issued at the department today said that the presentation of the facts uncovered would be made early in January.

Five persons are said to have been investigated, including a Washington lawyer who dabbled in the stock market; a former army officer, a lawyer in the employ of the Department of Justice, a business associate of this lawyer who was formerly a minor attaché of the Supreme Court, and a New York speculator.

It is declared that there have been two "leaks" upon Supreme Court decisions within the last two months. The first of these was said to have occurred when the court handed down its opinion in the Southern Pacific oil lands case. The second is supposed to have come about in connection with the prohibition decision. In both of these cases allegations have been made that as a result of the leaks information reached Wall Street before the court made its opinions known.

TAUNT COSTS HIS LIBERTY.

Cornell Dean's Son, Traced by Phone Message, Gets Seven Years.

A flippant telephone message cost Donald Hammond seven years of liberty, for he was sentenced yesterday in General Sessions to State prison for violating his parole.

The young man is a son of William A. Hammond, Dean of Cornell University, and he has an enviable war record. He was indicted last Summer for forging the name of Norman Bradford, Jr., of the Harvard Club to a check for $2,000. He pleaded guilty in General Sessions, and at the intercession of friends Judge Wadhams suspended sentence.

Although he was sent to the Canadian Northwest to remove him from temptation, he returned East and was indicted for the theft of $15,000 in Boston, while under the name of a man he met in the Tombs and who is indicted for murder. He pleaded guilty, and on the strength of new representations he made received a suspended sentence.

Hammond failed to report here as the terms of his parole required. At infrequent intervals he telephoned to the probation officers. A short time ago he telephoned to Miss Mabel F. Sprague, probation officer in charge of his case. She reminded him he had broken his parole and said he was wanted. "If you want me," he told her, "why don't you tap the wire and find out where I am."

He called again the next day, and the call was traced to a saloon in Madison Avenue. Miss Sprague kept him in conversation until he was arrested.

Hammond served as a flight Lieutenant with the Canadian forces. He was wounded at Ypres. Discharged, he reenlisted in England, went back to France and was wounded again.

WON'T SAIL ON DRY SHIP.

Fourteen Cancel Passage as Moccasin Opens Argentine Service.

The first American passenger service between New York and Argentina was inaugurated yesterday with the sailing of the steamship Moccasin of the Munson Line, which was formerly the Hamburg-American Prinz Joachim and traded to the West Indies The steamship had thirty-six first cabin passengers, and would have had fourteen more Americans who cancelled their passages when they heard the ship was to be dry.

Officials of the Munson Line said that they did not assume this to be the reason of the cancellations, but admitted that having to operate the passenger ships under the prohibition flag would make a difference in the number of passengers. The Moccasin, commanded by Captain R. Rose, will call at St. Thomas and Rio de Janeiro, where the passengers can get ashore and quench their thirst. The vessel has a general cargo of 7,000 tons.

Hornell Man, 88, Died at Time Set in Obituary He Dictated.

HORNELL, N. Y., Dec. 30.—Henry A. Pratt, a prominent retired business man, called his niece to his bedside early this morning and dictated a notice of his death for the local newspapers, giving 8:45 o'clock as the hour of death. At that time, exactly to the minute, he passed away.

He was 88 years old and had been in poor health for some time. He had previously picked out his own coffin and arranged with the undertaker to conduct the service.

LORD GREY LEAVES CAPITAL FOR HOME

Although Unable to Fulfill His Mission, His Report Is Expected to Do Much Good.

TO GIVE TREATY OUTLOOK

Former British Foreign Minister Improved in Health During Three Months' Sojourn Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Viscount Grey of Falloden, Ambassador of Great Britain on special mission to the United States, left Washington tonight for New York, whence he will sail for England on Saturday. The special mission on which he was sent to America has been unfulfilled on account of the illness of President Wilson, his instructions having been to take up personally with the President important matters affecting the relations between Great Britain and the United States.

Whether Viscount Grey will return to this country in an ambassadorial capacity is not disclosed and it is probable that the question has not been determined. His chief purpose in returning to England at this time is understood to be to make an oral report to Ministers of his Government concerning conditions in America affecting relations with Great Britain and the situation which has produced the Senate deadlock over the League of Nations covenant.

It is the understanding among those in a position to know the facts that Viscount Grey desires to return to London in order to give his Government an illuminating view of American sentiment, both among the people and in the Senate, concerning the League of Nations issue and the relations between Great Britain and this country. Officials of the United States Government believe that his visit to London will be productive of much good, as in their opinion British statesmen have a very confused idea of the state of the American public mind and the causes which contributed to the opposition to the Versailles Treaty in the Senate. It is said in official circles that there is great need for such clarification.

There is said to be nothing unusual in the fact that Viscount Grey was not presented to President Wilson. The President has not received any new diplomats since his illness, and a number of them are waiting to be received, the Belgian, Japanese, Italian and Peruvian Ambassadors all being in this class.

During his stay here Viscount Grey has had conversations with a number of members of the Senate. It is believed that as a result of these conferences both Democratic and Republican leaders in the Senate know pretty well what Great Britain, as well probably as France and the other allies, is willing to accept in the way of reservations on the part of the United States to the treaty.

TO KEEP JOBS BY LAW.

Jersey Legislators Plan to Tie Up Gov. Edwards's Patronage.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 30.—When the Legislature meets next Friday, instead of adjourning, according to custom, until the new Governor is inaugurated, it will remain in session a few days, to pass legislation continuing in office Republicans who now are members of State boards. This was decided at a conference today between Governor Runyon and Republican politicians and legislators, who thus hope to tie the hands of Governor-elect Edward I. Edwards anad prevent his removing Republicans from such offices in favor of fellow-Democrats.

The conference was called ostensibly to discuss the party's attitude toward prohibition, woman suffrage, and public utilities, but it was decided to leave individual legislators free to choose their own courses in such matters.

The Attorney General decided today that from Jan. 13 until Governom Edwards is inaugurated a week later Clarence E. Case, President of the new Senate, will be acting Governor, and Governor Runyon expressed his willingness to abide by this decision.

No Swedish Ban on Our Goods.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—In an official statement today the Swedish Minister, W. A. F. Ekengren, denied the report that had been current in this country during the last week that the Government of Sweden had forbidden the loading of cargoes on Swedish ships in American ports without special licenses from the Swedish Government. The report was originally contained in a telegram from Stockholm and referred to a control of imports erroneously said to have been instituted by the Swedish Government.

TO ASK LEGISLATION ON WOOD ALCOHOL

Roper Would Have Congress Impose the Same Restrictions as on Grain Alcohol.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Daniel C. Roper, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, announced today that he will ask Congress at once to pass legislation checking the use of wood alcohol. Although the country has been shocked by the fatalities from the drinking of wood alcohol as a substitute for the usual intoxicants, there is no provision in the Federal laws governing its manufacture, sale, or distribution. The matter has been left to the States.

The Commissioner also announced that by Jan. 27 all persons legally permitted to have liquor in their possession must make a full report upon their stock. This requirement will not extend to liquor kept in the home for the use of the owner and his family and guests.

The Commissioner has been advised that no provision either in the internal revenue laws or in the National Prohibition act deals with wood alcohol, and that the Commissioner has no authority to regulate or restrict its use.

"It is obvious," says the opinion of the bureau's legal counsel, "that wood alcohol, or methyl alcohol, is in no sense a liquor or beverage as described in the above acts, nor can it be considered a narcotic under the provisions of the Harrison Narcotic act. It is well known to be a deadly poison and should be regarded and treated as such. In most of the States, if not all, wood alcohol is recognized as a poison, and stringent laws have been passed regulating its use and safeguarding the public from its abuse."

The matter has been taken up with the Bureau of Chemistry of the Department of Agriculture, which finds that it has no effective control over the distribution of wood alcohol under the Pure Food and Drug act, and that it would therefore seem that entirely new legislation is necessary if Federal control is contemplated.

ONLY 3 MEN RESCUED FROM ANTON VAN DRIEL

Remainder of Crew of 29 Lost in Heavy Seas Off St. Mary's Bay, Newfoundland.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Dec. 30.—Three men were rescued today from the wreck of the Belgian steamer Anton Van Driel, which struck on the rocks at the entrance of St. Mary's Bay at midnight Sunday. They are the only survivors of the crew of twenty-nine. All were frightfully frostbitten from long exposure on the bridge, which was the only portion of the vessel remaining above water, and may not recover.

The rescued men are the second mate and two firemen. They were taken to Trepassey by the rescue steamer Ingraham, which was sent out from that harbor to the scene of the wreck early today.

Bodies of many of the sailors who were lost yesterday in attempting to escape from the vessel in lifeboats have come ashore at St. Shotts.

ACCUSES LE MANS OFFICERS.

Detzer Witness Says He Was Asked to Give Incriminating Statement.

Charging officers who investigated alleged extortion of confessions from prisoners by Captain Karl W. Detzer with attempting to force incriminating statements from him, Sergeant Stephen Madden concluded his testimony for the defense at the Detzer court-martial on Governors Island yesterday.

Madden failed to recall certain statements he had made at Le Mans last Summer, giving as an excuse he was unnerved at the time, having been in solitary confinement for two weeks. "I was offered my freedom," he said, "if I would make a statement to Colonel Halstead, who promised he would release me from confinement and give me an excellent character. Another officer suggested that I would go free if I made a statement."

The witness declared the other officer was Captain John M. Weir, who is assistant in the Detzer trial to Major William F. Kelly, Trial Judge Advocate. This is the second time Captain Weir has figured in the testimony, another witness having stated that this officer had collected evidence in court-martial at Le Mans to be used as evidence against Captain Detzer.

Madden, who is also accused of brutality to Le Mans prisoners, will be tried by court-martial at the conclusion of the trial of his former commander, Captain Detzer. Lieutenant Thomas L. Heffernan, counsel for the defense, stated that Captain Detzer would take the stand in his own behalf this morning.

LIQUOR THAT WOULD KILL 20,000 SEIZED

Police Intercept 18 Barrels of Wood Alcohol, Four of Which Had Been Sold.

DETECTED JUST IN TIME

Saloon Keeper Paid $1,000 a Barrel, but Returned It When He Discovered It Was Poisonous.

In the drive against traffickers in poison "whisky" revenue agents under Colonel Daniel Porter, supervising revenue agent in New York, seized eighteen barrels of wood alcohol yesterday. The poison was being peddled as a beverage all over New York, and four barrels had actually been sold to an Italian saloon keeper on the east side for $1,000 a barrel when he learned that it was wood alcohol and returned it. There was enough wood alcohol in the barrels to kill 20,000 persons, it was said. Arrests in the case are imminent.

Two revenue agents in an east side saloon overheard a conversation about "whisky for $1,000 a barrel." They followed a man to an automobile truck and found four barrels of wood alcohol on the vehicle. The man, who proved to be the driver, said that he was engaged by four Italians last Sunday night to deliver some barrels to a saloon. He went to a stable in East New York, loaded four barrels of wood alcohol on the truck and delivered them to an Italian saloon keeper. He was paid $4,000 for the load, but as he was about to leave the place the saloon keeper received a message saying the liquor was poison and not real whisky. Whereupon he demanded and received his money back, paying the driver $15 for loading and unloading the stuff.

Revenue agents under John McGuinness investigated the story told by the driver and located eighteen barrels of wood alcohol in an East New York stable.

Two additional arrests were made last night in connection with the deaths in Hartford and Chicopee. The prisoners were Edward G. Ware, brother-in-law of Samuel K. Saleeby, the Brooklyn druggist who was arrested on Monday, and Salvatore Esposito, 52, a butcher of 120 Mulberry Street.

Ware, who said he was manager of Saleeby's drug store, was taken from the place last night by Revenue Inspector Harold Dobbs and Detectives Michael Batto and John Petruzzo of the Italian Squad. The prisoners were charged with complicity in the sale of the liquor that caused the deaths in Hartford and Chicopee. Ware was locked up at Brooklyn police headquarters and Esposito, who was arrested in Manhattan, was placed in a cell in Manhattan headquarters. Ware is 31 years old and lives at 190 State Street, Brooklyn.

Colonel Porter said it was impossible to estimate how much wood alcohol had been sold recently in New York for beverage purposes. Practically all liquor beverage purposes.

Colonel Porter issued a warning to the public to refrain from drinking spirituous liquors in the advent of the celebration of New Year unless they were sure of the origin of the liquor.

Alexander Creedon, Prosecuting Attorney of Hartford, Conn., conferred yesterday with United States Attorney Francis G. Caffey and his assistants, Joseph F. Mulqueen, Jr., and Benjamin Matthews. Mr. Creedon said the Connecticut authorities would ask for the extradition of several persons for complicity in the sale of the poison that killed a large number of residents of his city.

Saloonkeeper and Bartender Held.

Mr. Creedon said the ramifications of the case extended into Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York and New Jersey. Mr. Creedon felt that in another twenty-four hours he would have sufficient evidence on which to ask for the extradition of three persons now under arrest. The principal prisoners now are Adolph Panarelli, wine and liquor dealer of 311 Bleecker Street, who acted as agent in the sale of the wood alcohol which was sent to Hartford; John Romanelli, an undertaker, of 271 Third Avenue, Brooklyn, and Samuel K. Saleeby, a druggist, of 84 Court Street, Brooklyn.

To counteract the impression that his office had issued permits in large numbers to persons desiring to use non-beverage alcohol, Internal Revenue Collector William H. Edwards disclosed yesterday that since Nov. 30, 1917, only 645 such permits had been granted.

James Condon and William Nolan, owner and bartender respectively of the lodging house and saloon at 252 Fulton Street, where four deaths occurred last Saturday and Sunday, were arraigned before Magistrate Tobias in the Tombs Court and were held for further examination on Jan. 2.

James McCormick, 42, of 271 Fortieth Street, Brooklyn, died in St. Peter's Hospital yesterday after drinking "whisky" purchased in a saloon near his home.

Two deaths from alcohol poisoning occurred in Jersey City yesterday. They were Mrs. Mary Ward of 260 Varick Street, Manhattan, and John Reynolds of Jersey City. On information given by Mary Reynolds, wife of the dead man, the police closed the wholesale liquor store of Philip Seiden at 306 Newark Avenue. The police said Mrs. Reynolds said her husband bought some liquor at the place. Samples of liquor found in the place are being analyzed.

Fifty cases of non-beverage alcohol were found in the restaurant of Frank Grisoli, 912 Madison Street, Brooklyn. Grisoli was arrested charged with violating the War Time Prohibition act.

Mason Hanrahan, a Pennsylvania Railroad employe, was taken to a Jersey City hospital yesterday suffering from the effects of alcohol which he got on a pier.

John Yaeger and John Ingerweis partners in "The Two Jacks" saloon in Newark, were arrested charged with selling wood alcohol. Edward Klein, a grocer of 716 Bergen Street, died after drinking some "whisky" which, it is alleged, he obtained in the saloon.

Three Italian residents of White Plains are paralyzed and in a serious condition from the effects of drinking alleged whisky in a saloon on First Avenue, Manhattan, said Colonel Porter. The proprietor of the place has been arrested and liquor found in the place is being analyzed.

ALL PASSAIC LIQUOR SEIZED.

Police Raid Saloons Following Seven Deaths from Wood Alcohol.

Special to The New York Times.

PASSAIC, N. J., Dec. 30.—As a result of seven deaths and six cases of severe illness in the last forty-eight hours due to drinking alleged whisky, the police here raided every saloon in the city and by midnight practically all the liquor in Passaic was in police headquarters. The raids were carried on by order of Abram Preiskel, City Commissioner and the entire police department of fifty men under Chief Gustav Schmidt was employed.

The dead are:

BISS, JOSEPH, 45, 112 Passaic Street.
BISS, STEPHEN, 58, 62 Wall Street.
CIGARO, JOSEPH, 50, 123 Passaic Street.
DUDAK, MARTIN, 38, 102 Passaic Street.
MOLNAR, CATHERINE, 39, 117 Passaic Street.
MOLNAR, MICHAEL, 48, 117 Passaic Street.
PREECHNEWICZ, JOHN, 113 Third Street.

The police made five arrests on "open complaints" charging suspicion of having sold the liquor which caused the deaths and illness.

CHICAGO POLICE TO BAN 'HIP POCKET' NEW YEAR'S

Will Stand at Cafe Doors and Demand All Liquor Which Is Brought There by Patrons.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—Plans for "hip-pocket parties" to relieve the dryness of New Year's Eve in Chicago have gone the way of other misguided hopes for ushering in the New Year on a tide of alcoholic hilarity.

Police Captain Morgan Collins, in charge of the police who are active in the loop district, had heard that invitations were being extended rather openly by cafes, bidding their patrons to come and "bring your own." Whereupon that officer today issued an order stationing policemen in all hotels and cafes New Year's Eve to greet each incoming patron with the request that he stand and deliver any liquor he may have in his immediate possession. The State search and seizure law gives the police that right—and the law was but recently upheld by the Supreme Court.

And as for the hotels and cafes—whatever liquor they have had on hand in anticipation of an open season for roisterers at the birth of the New Year, has been seized by Federal agents, who locked it up and took the keys away.

Names New Dorp Aviation Field.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Secretary Baker today directed that the Air Service Coast Defense Field at New Dorp, Staten Island, be named Miller Field, in memory of Captain James E. Miller, who was killed in action March 8, 1918, about four kilometers north of Corbény, France, while serving with the 95th Aero Squadron on the Soissons sector.

Charge Against Lawson Dismissed.

Magistrate Sweetser, in the Yorkville Court yesterday dismissed the complaint against William R. Lawson, former clerk of the Parole Commission, who was alleged to have violated the penal code by soliciting money from Mrs. Victoria La Sala, 226 East Twenty-ninth Street. The Magistrate said there was no evidence on which Lawson could be held.

COL. LYNCH PREDICTS SINN FEIN FAILURE

Favors an Irish Republic, but Says Present Movement Is Foredoomed to Defeat.

SEES ULTIMATE TRIUMPH

With South Africa a Republic, He Says Other Colonies and Ireland Would Follow.

In the face of many sympathizers of the "Irish Republic" who made themselves heard in the discussion following, at the People's Institute, Cooper Union, last night, Col. Arthur Lynch, who fought with the Boers and later was a member of the British Parliament, denounced the Sinn Fein movement as a campaign of violence, without a carefully thought-out plan.

Colonel Lynch declared himself in favor of a republican form of Government in Ireland and prophesied that eventually that country would be independent.

"But," he added, speaking to the Sinn Feiners, "your physical force is inadequate at present. If all Ireland were Sinn Fein, and if all Ireland were armed, it would be impossible even then to win by force. England controls the seas, and her navy could bombard Irish ports from out of sight of land. Don't amuse yourself with intoxication by your emotions."

At the end of the meeting a man shouted, "If all men were like you, there never would have been a Washington or a Valley Forge in this country."

"The odds in Ireland at present are ten thousand to one more difficult than what Washington and his men had to face," Colonel Lynch replied. "I fought for the Irish cause against England during the Boer war, when the odds were vastly more favorable than now, and I lost."

Although he told his audience he was the first man on any platform to advocate a republic for Ireland, Colonel Lynch explained his lack of sympathy with the adherents of the "Irish Republic" was due to four reasons, wherein he believed the Sinn Fein movement was doomed to failure.

"First," he said, "Sinn Fein will not win by its present methods. A carefully thought out plan is necessary. Sinn Feiners have no other plan than that of violence and rebellion.

"Second, no solution of the Irish problem can be good which is not fair to Ulster. Some of the great heroes of Ireland cherished by the Nationalists have been Ulstermen. Ireland must be united for independence.

"Third, too much of the religious element has been brought into the Irish question. Take that out, and we have gone far to solve the problem. We disparage our cause by bigotry and religious fanaticism. Out of all the leaders of the Sinn Fein movement, how many are Protestants? Remember, I am not a Protestant, but it must be borne in mind that some of the most glorious leaders of Irish freedom have been Protestants."

Taking up his fourth point, the speaker criticised the Sinn Feiners for not having cultivated the Labor Party of Great Britain, which, he said, contained some of the best friends Irish independence ever had. Colonel Lynch said he believed Ireland would be a republic in a true sense if Irishmen united with British dominions in demanding their own republican government.

PLEA FOR TEACHERS' PAY.

Dr. Mayer Would Have the State Raise the Minimum to $1,600.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, Dec. 30.—A plea for additional State appropriations, which would set the minimum salaries for school teachers in the State at $1,600, was made here this afternoon by Dr. Eli Mayer of Albany, speaking before delegates to the meeting of Associated Academic Principals. Inasmuch as the minimum set by Dr. Mayer is practically double the minimum for the State effective during 1920, the speaker's remarks aroused the 500 or more delegates in Lincoln Auditorium to a high pitch of enthusiasm.

Dr. Richard Sykes, President of St. Lawrence University, another speaker at today's session, likewise presented arguments for increased salaries.

University and college admission requirements were discussed by Dr. Adam Leroy Jones of Columbia University. He urged a more scientific examination of candidates for college entrance and asked for the "elimination of the hiring and firing policies" now in vogue in many institutions. By the expression he meant the admission of students under various conditions, many being found unable to pursue the course and being "fired." Dr. Jones explained in detail various intellectual tests used by the American Army and advised the adoption of many army ideas in college entrance tests.

POLICE GET A SHAKEUP; HACKETT REPORTED OUT

Secretary of the Department Said to Have Offered "Immediate" Resignation.

There was a police shakeup yesterday. Captain William T. Davis, a close personal friend of Commissioner Enright, who has been in charge of the Quartermaster Department of the Police Department, was sent to take charge of the West 100th Street Station.

Captain Percy M. Du Bois will go from the West 100th Street station to the Atlantic Avenue station, Brooklyn, while Captain Patrick Corcoran, who leaves the Brooklyn precinct, finds himself without a post.

It was recalled that Captain Davis was Treasurer of the Police Lieutenants' Association when Commissioner Enright, then a lieutenant, was President of the organization. As Commissioner, on April 26th last, Enright appointed Captain Davis as commander of the Quartermaster Department, formerly known as the Bureau of Repairs and Supplies. Captain Davis took the place vacated by a civilian, Leo J. McDermott, who was dropped.

Lieutenant John A. Parks has been appointed head of the Quartermaster Department to succeed Davis. When Davis was asked about his transfer he said:

"Well, I am glad that it happened. I tried a couple of months ago to be taken out of the Quartermaster Department. I am glad to get back to a precinct."

Another rumor that stirred Headquarters had it that Departmental Secretary John C. Hackett had resigned yesterday to take effect "forthwith." It was impossible to verify the rumor, as neither Secretary Hackett nor the Police Commissioner could be found last night.

GET PUBLIC SERVICE JOBS.

Nixon Announces Appointment of M. T. Donnelly and J. H. O'Brien.

Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon announced yesterday the appointment of former Assemblyman Morgan T. Donnelly of Brooklyn as Third Deputy Public Service Commissioner, and of John H. O'Brien, former Secretary to ex-Mayor McClellan, former Fire Commissioner and former Commissioner of the Water Department, as Chief Transit Inspector of the commission. As Third Deputy Public Service Commissioner, Mr. Donnelly will receive a salary of $7,500, while the salary of Chief Transit Inspector is $6,000. Both appointees are Democrats.

Mayor Hylan yesterday appointed James A. McMahon as Secretary of the Board of Standards and Appeals at a salary of $4,500 a year. During the last year Mr. McMahon has been one of the examiners attached to the office of President Robert L. Moran of the Board of Aldermen. He takes the place of William Wirt Mills, recently appointed Deputy Commissioner of Plant and Structures and in charge of the municipal ferry service.

It was rumored yesterday that Alexander McKinney, Chairman of the Parole Board is to be reappointed to the Board by Mayor Hylan, but not as Chairman.

proper service to the public at large for whose benefit the transportation lines exist and must be maintained. This does not mean that every street railway heretofore laid down is at the present time or in the future will be a public necessity. It is a matter of common knowledge that the opening of the original Broadway and Fourth Avenue subway in 1908 laid the foundation for the financial embarrassment of the surface lines that was followed in 1907 by the receivership of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company. In the reorganization of some of the lines held by the Metropolitan into the New York Railway system, the reorganizers were careful to eliminate numerous lines that were no longer considered profitable or of prospective values. In many places in lower Manhattan may be found the tracks of these abandoned companies, the physical connection of which with the lines of the old Metropolitan System were ripped up and removed under a judgment of the United States District Court. It was inevitable that the opening of new rapid transit lines under the so-called dual subway contracts would result in rendering unprofitable the operation of many of the surface railways.

Criticises Reports.

"Numerous and extensive reports have been made to the United States District Court by receivers and by experts employed for such purposes. I have examined all of such reports. These receivers and experts have not presented to the court the facts and circumstances in relation to the franchise and other rights by virtue of which the several companies involved use and occupy the public streets for transportation purposes and the actual monetary investment that has been put into the various properties. Nothing in the reports of the receivers indicates the actual monetary investment that has gone into the properties. The reports show figures carried on the books of some of the companies as 'cost of construction,' but it is obvious that such 'cost of construction' and the actual monetary outlay for construction have no necessary relation.

The statement says that it is manifest that there are companies that could not be made profitable by an increased fare and cites the Second Avenue Railroad, which has been in the hands of a receiver for nearly twelve years, as "a hopeless instance." It states that the vice of the increased fare propaganda is that it contemplates new issues of securities, or the giving of value to old securities by prospective earnings, based upon a profit derived from an increased fare.

"Beginning with a demand agitating an increase of two cents," the statement continues, "the propagandists for high fares have raised their demand to an increase of three cents, and in many quarters it is openly stated that a ten-cent fare will be necessary. Some idea may be had of the enormous tax that would be levied upon the people of the City of New York by these increased fares when it is understood that without any increase whatever in the traffic or number of passengers carried, an increase of three cents would yield annually $59,816,753.67 over and above the five-cent fares; while a ten-cent fare would tax the public to an expense of $99,694,589.45, if no increase in traffic followed. In round figures the right to charge a ten-cent fare where the rate is now five cents would take from the passengers using the transportation lines in the city $100,000,000 per year and transfer that sum to the security holders. The proposal to exact this or any other sum from our citizens for the alleged benefit of security holders necessarily demands a consideration of the character and extent of the securities whose holders are claimed to be entitled to be benefited in this way.

Traction Security Losses.

"The fact that huge losses have been incurred by purchasers of traction securities has long been a matter of common notoriety. Great losses of this character were made, however, long before there was any question of increased costs of operation or any alleged necessity for an increased fare. In most cases such losses have resulted from the ordinary market operations conducted on the Stock Exchange. Enormous losses have been inflicted upon the victims of these market operations.

"The staggering effect of the increase in fares sought by the traction companies may be realized when it is stated that if the City of New York had the power to levy a tax of 5 cents to be collected with each 5-cent fare, within three years the aggregate would be sufficient to meet the city's entire investment in the dual subway system; while a 3-cent tax would attain this result in five years.

"The question of adequate and proper transportation service at reasonable expense is of vital importance to our citizens. How that service can be procured and upon what terms cannot be determined without the clearest understanding of all of the facts upon which conclusions must be based. The controlling facts are involved in contradictions and obscurity. The necessity for investigation appears to be quite freely conceded. Numerous companies have filed applications with your board for the right to charge increased fares, and service has been impaired, obligations are questioned, and turmoil, agitation, dissatisfaction, inconvenience, and discomfort are general.

"That the Board of Estimate and Apportionment must assume the responsibility and exercise the authority imposed in it to settle and determine these matters cannot be disputed. To use the language of the Court of Appeals in a very recent opinion in dealing with another municipal question: 'that duty on the part of the city includes the duty of ascertaining the facts upon which its responsibility should be exercised.'

"The necessity of 'ascertaining the facts' in order to facilitate the proper exercise of municipal powers is recognized in the home rule law and provision therefor by specifically granting the power 'to investigate and inquire into all matters of concern to the city or its inhabitants, and to require and enforce by subpoena the attendance of witnesses at such investigations.'"

Resolution of Inquiry.

The resolution calling for the inquiry follows:

"Resolved, By the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, that an investigation and inquiry be made by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment into all of the facts and circumstances in any wise relating to the transportation lines operating in the City of New York, and particularly with respect to the franchise rights and actual money investment put into the properties owned, controlled, or operated by any existing companies, and the monetary value thereof, and the securities heretofore issued or outstanding against said properties; and the character and extent of service rendered by each of such companies and the adequacy thereof, and the cost of rendering such service and the rates of fare charged therefor; and such facts and circumstances as may enable the said board to determine upon proper and sufficient transportation and the action to be taken by said board with regard to any of the franchises heretofore granted by it or its predecessors, or any of the companies owning, controlling, or operating transportation lines under or by virtue of such franchises, or any alleged right of any kind whatever; and for the purpose of more effectually conducting such investigation and inquiry, that subpoenas be issued requiring the attendance of witnesses and the production of such evidence as may be deemed to be material to such inquiry and investigation."

In regard to the resolution Mayor Hylan said:

"Although I am voting for this resolution calling for a probe of the transit situation, I want it distinctly understood that I am still heartily opposed to an increase in fares. My attitude has not changed in the slightest in this respect, and I do not want anybody to jump at the conclusion that I have changed."

There was no other comment, mainly due to the fact that Mr. Craig's intention of offering the resolution had been known for some time to the members of the board. It was understood that the comment of the Mayor was to keep him in accord in the public mind with the position he has maintained throughout the traction muddle.

Transi Commissioner John H. Delaney's letter to the Board of Estimate reviewed the results of his conferences with representatives of the rapid transit companies. It reads:

"Dec. 29, 1919.

"The Board of Estimate and Apportionment, City of New York.

"Gentlemen: Representatives of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the New York Municipal Railway Corporation, the companies that operate the rapid transit systems under the terms of Contract No. 3 and Contract No. 4, respectively, have presented to me an oral request to enter into formal conference for the purpose of revising the present contracts, or preparing new contracts that will be satisfactory to the city and at the same time protect the capital invested in the properties embraced in these systems.

"This request is the result of several conversations that the representatives of the companies have had with me during the past two months, which had their inception in a public conference called by Public Service Commissioner Nixon on Oct. 6. The public conference had no result, except that the representatives of the rapid transit companies thereafter came to my office for consultation and the representatives of the surface railroad companies had further consultation with Commissioner Nixon. I did not participate in the surface railroad conference because I have no jurisdiction over those lines, but Commissioner Nixon, at my invitation, participated in all conversations held in my office.

"At the outset of these conversations the representatives of the companies stated that the cost of operation of the railroads had increased to such an extent that the revenues are now insufficient to cover operating expenses and fixed charges as set forth in the contracts, and that they desire to obtain a modification of Article LXII., which prescribes that 'the lessee shall during the term of this contract be entitled to charge for a single fare upon the railroad and existing railroads the sum of five cents, but not more.'

"In response to this I informed them that the five-cent fare was the principal consideration the city had obtained in these contracts, that other financial provisions were unfavorable to the city, and that I would insist upon complete revision if any of the financial clauses were to be changed.

Calls for New Contracts.

"The representatives of the companies expressed their inability, without more definite knowledge of the views of the city authorities, to draft proposals that the city would deem to be advantageous for its interests, and thereafter the conversations have largely been devoted to a discussion of the financial clauses, including those relating to rentals and preferentials, and to the disadvantage of attempting to operate a system owned in part by the city and in part by private interests. I expressed to the representatives of the companies my conviction that entirely new contracts should be prepared, which would provide, among other things, for the absolute and immediate transfer to the city of title to all rapid transit railroads, including the perpetual franchises of the elevated lines; for the amortization within thirty-eight years of the agreed value of the physical properties transferred to the city by establishing an amortization fund of one per cent. per annum; for new leases of the rapid transit railroads for a period of not more than thirty-eight years with a provision for earlier termination; and for fares that would produce sufficient revenue to pay the cost of operation, provide or maintenance, depreciation, amortization funds, and a fair return on actual capital invested and employed.

"In conjunction with the request to begin immediately the work of re-drafting the contracts, in conference with the companies, there has been put in my hands a letter signed by Hon. Lindley M. Garrison, Federal Receiver of the New York Municipal Railway Corporation, and Mr. Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, which reads as follows:

New York, Dec. 15, 1919.

Hon. John H. Delaney, Transit Construction Commissioner, 49 Lafayette Street, New York City.

Dear Mr. Commissioner: As a result of the conferences which have been held with you and Commissioner Nixon, it is deemed advisable, at this stage, that the attitude of the city officials in respect of the subject matter, be ascertained.

It developed in the course of the conference that the Commissioners were of the opinion that if the existing contracts between the city and the traction companies were to be changed at all, they should be remodeled. The new contract to make provision for the vesting of title to all the properties in the city and for an operating contract with an agreed basis for the fixing of a flexible fare.

The result, as you know, has been considerable progress toward an agreement upon the general principles which should obtain if this course is to be adopted.

It is deemed by every one to be desirable to have the city authorities co-operate in the formulation of the new contract, if one is to be made, and this could best be done in the judgment of all concerned, by their participation in the conferences at which the same is to be worked out.

We understand that all the conferees agree upon the propriety of your bringing this matter to the attention of the city authorities and expressing to them the unanimous desire of all concerned that the city authorities should co-operate in the matter just suggested.

As you know, to prevent further disintegration and other serious consequences, speedy action is imperative.

Yours very truly,
LINDLEY M. GARRISON,
FRANK HEDLEY.

Interborough Asks Higher Fare.

"The Interborough Rapid Transit Company representatives have also requested that a preliminary agreement, to cover the first six months of 1920, be entered into, which shall embody the principles to be worked out into a proposed new contract, but which shall particularly provide for an increase of fare during that period to produce revenues sufficient to meet current expenses in accordance with present contract terms. They state that the company is without sufficient funds to pay its obligations maturing early in the year, but that if better conditions were in prospect needed assistance might be secured and a receivership prevented.

"Only general principles have been discussed in the conversations with the representatives of the companies, and no consideration has been given to valuations, nor to the methods to be adopted to determine valuations. The application of the general principles herein referred to involves agreement upon valuation of properties to be municipalized. This feature will be taken up in the near future.

"My experience as Transit Construction Commissoner has strengthened my belief that in municipal ownership and in complete revision of the financial features of the present rapid transit contracts lies the hope of permanent solution of the transportation problems of the city.

"It is my opinion that the present rapid transit lines, if complete municipal ownership can be secured, can be made self-sustaining without imposing any undue burden upon the traveling public, thus enabling the debt-incurring capacity of the city to be made available for education and other city purposes. So long as rapid transit bonds remain a tax-absorbing liability the growth of rapid transit facilities will be restricted, if not entirely prevented. Yet new lines are now being urged and the need for additional facilities will continue and increase with the growth of population.

"Under existing conditions there will be in effect next year what practically amounts to a six-cent fare on rapid transit lines, for the reason that the city will contribute nearly $9,000,000 of public funds to pay interest and sinking fund on the city debt of $200,000,000 incurred for rapid transit construction. This city contribution averages more than three-fourths of a cent for each of the 1,118,215,449 riders who paid fares during the last year, and amounts to about eleven points of the tax rate. No reorganization of the operating companies that may result from present or other receiverships will produce relief for the taxpayers or added facilities for the traveling public unless accompanied by a revision of the contract terms.

No Cost to City Treasury.

"Municipal ownership of the privately owned lines can be brought about without any payment from the City Treasury, if the owners agree. Article X. of the present Contract No. 3 indicates the way the property can be acquired. Under the terms of this article the Interborough Rapid Transit Company transferred the Steinway Tunnel to the city and received credit for the agreed value as part of the contribution by the company to the cost of the system. Municipalization by this method would not impose any added debt burden upon the systems, because the deductions allowed under the present contracts for rentals and preferentials would more than provide interest and amortization on values of properties to be acquired, and also take care of all underlying securities. The transfer of title to the city would reduce Federal and State taxes, obviate the necessity for duplication of power plants, and produce many other economies.

"The Board of Estimate and Apportionment of 1912 and 1913 participated, by a committee composed of three members, in the making of the present rapid transit contracts. It is the earnest desire of all contracting parties that your Honorable Board should participate in the effort to redraft these contracts, and I therefore request that a committee be appointed for that purpose and that the Corporation Counsel be authorizen to assist the conferees.

"Yours respectfully,
"JOHN H. DELANEY,
'Transit Construction Commissioner."

The Directors of the Interborough Company met yesterday, and when the meeting was over James L. Quackenbush, the company's general counsel, reported that nothing out routine matters had been touched. He stated that the company would need $7,300,000 on the first of the year; that it had $4,000,000 in cash, and that it must raise the remaining $3,300,000 if a crisis was to be avoided.

"If we get the money," he said, "we will be able to live a hand-to-mouth existence for another six months. The $7,300,000 would be just enough to pay all the obligations maturing on Jan. 1. If possible we will raise $5,000,000."

Mr. Quackenbush was asked how much had been promised so far, if any, but he declined to answer.

"We won't know definitely," he said, "until about noon tomorrow. We will keep on working until the last minute. Some of the security holders are in Florida and elsewhere, and we are burning the wires to get into touch with them."

"Is the outlook bright?"

"We are not now dealing in theories, but in facts," Mr. Quackenbush responded.

Situation Improved.

A report from Wall Street was to the effect that there was evident improvement in the situation, and that the $3,300,000 might be raised. It was said that the out-of-town interests affiliated with the Manhattan Elevated Railway were in accord with the Interborough Company and would assist it.

The total fixed charges which the company has to meet at the turn of the year, embracing a quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on Manhattan Railway Company 7 per cent. stock and semi-annual interest on first and refunding 5 per cent. mortgage bonds of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, are approximately $7,000,000.

Commenting yesterday on the suggestion of Federal Judge Mayer, that the traction lines be permitted to charge an 8 cent fare for six months, David Hershfield, Commissioner of Accounts, said:

"Judge Mayer's statement, most likely, is based on the report of Stone and Webster, who, as I have previously pointed out, are the handy men of the railroad managers for Morgan and others. But there are still other people interested in the traction corporations who might desire to be heard in a discussion as to the correctness of the figures and the report.

"However, in these days, it is safer to think than to utter. One does not know when, in the opinion of some judge, what one has said in criticism might be construed as contempt of court.

"I really believe that this traction question is a business proposition that should be open to discussion and, if necessary, to criticism, and I believe such discussion and criticism should be invited and permitted by those interested without fear of being punished for it."

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 30.—The announcement in Washington that Attorney General Palmer will recommend to the President that he commute the sentence of death imposed on Lieutenant Lathor Witsche of the former Imperial Germany Navy, who is now in a Fort Sam Houston military prison awaiting execution as a spy, did not surprise official circles here.

The opinion has been general that the young German would escape death, and that when turned over to the civil authorities he would make a complete disclosure of all he knew regarding the operations of the German Secret Service system in the United States, Canada, and Mexico.

Not only has the Government evidence to show that Witsche may be able to solve the mystery behind the New Jersey explosions, but there is also a hint that he may be able to explain the sinking off Fire Island of the American armored cruiser San Diego. Witsche is known to have made important admissions within ten days regarding German activities in the United States and Mexico. Regarding the San Diego, Witsche is said to have stated in Mexico to allied Secret Service agents whom he thought to be loyal Germans that Kurt Jahncke, head of the German spy system in North America, knew all about the San Diego as well as the New Jersey explosions. The cruiser, he is said to have disclosed, was sunk by a mine planted by Germans who operated from the coast under the direction of Jahncke.

In the plot that had as its purpose the starting of negro outbreaks in the South a negro who deserted from the regular army and entered Mexico was to have played a leading part. This negro, with others, is said to have met Witsche and other German agents in Sonora just before the capture of Witsche by the Americans. The Germans agreed, it is said, to finance the outbreaks and supply machine guns, rifles, and ammunition for use in the Southern States. The negro deserter is said to be in Mexico now.

Another interesting disclosure that cannot now be indicated will have to do with a battle that was fought between Mexicans and American troops west of El Paso in 1918. In that battle several Americans were killed and many wounded. The Mexicans, THE TIMES correspondent has been informed, were commanded by German officers.

OIL LEGISLATION PUT OFF.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 29.—Action on the all-important petroleum bill is improbable, according to parliamentary experts, who point out that only two days remain for regular sessions of the Mexican Congress, which adjourns on Dec. 31.

It is believed impossible for the Chamber of Deputies, to which body pending petroleum legislation has progressed, to act on this important matter before adjournment.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Officials of the State Department were interested in the statement in an Associated Press dispatch from Mexico City today to the effect that it was believed there that some sort of agreement would be reached on the oil controversy between the Executive Department of the Mexican Government and the foreign interests before the Mexican Congress has another chance to take a hand. Officials of the department hope that this foreshadows a sincere effort on the part of the Carranza Government to end a situation that cannot continue long at its present tension.

Consul at Mazatlan Reports That He Has Looked Out for Their Needs While in Jail.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The State Department today received a telegram from the American Consulate at Mazatlan, Mexico, stating that the release of Harry V. Learnard, and Harry O. Martin, members of the crew of the U. S. S. Pockomoke, who were arrested early in November on a charge of assaulting a Mexican citizen, and who have since been in jail at Mazatlan, had been promised for today "without any further penalty."

The Consul added that "everything possible has been done in the interest of the two sailors and that they have been furnished by the Consulate with two wholesome meals daily since the Pockomoke left Mazatlan and that they have received fruits, sweets, cigarettes, reading matter and other supplies from the Consulate."

Hemp Merchant Also Tells of Demoralization in Yucatan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The allegation that Luis Cabrera, Minister of Finance in the Carranza Government, favors driving Americans out of Mexico, was reiterated today in testimony to the Fall Senate sub-committee which has been investigating the Mexican situation. The witness making the statement this time is Michael J. Smith, a hemp merchant of Yucatan, whose testimony was taken by F. J. Kearful, counsel for the Fall committee. Mr. Smith asserted that Cabrera had made his attitude toward Americans very clear.

"Luis Cabrera," said the witness, "made no secret of his ideas as to the Americans. He said that Americans had exploited the Mexicans long enough, and that they should be driven from the country."

Charges Against Quirez Include Plot to Get Machine Guns and Ammunition.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 30.—In the military prison at Fort McIntosh, near Laredo, is a Mexican whose name is registered as José Concepcion Quirez. He was arrested within the military reservation two weeks ago. He is charged with having urged three soldiers of the garrison to desert the army. Before they left, however, they were to have aided in the theft of two machine guns, thousands of rounds of machine-gun ammunition from the stores at Fort McIntosh, and eight horses from the garrison stables. These three soldiers arrested and turned the Mexican over to Colonel Beaumont B. Buck.

When Quirez approached the soldiers he wore the uniform of an enlisted man of the army.

TOSCANINI ACQUITTED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Psychologist Testifies Conductor Is Irresponsible When Leading and Is Overcome Afterward.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Dec. 30.—Judicial proceedings against Arturo Toscanini, the world-famed orchestral conductor, took an unwonted turn in the Turin Court today when the maestro was charged with seriously assaulting a violinist during a rehearsal of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony at a local opera house. Toscanini usually insists on the rigorous exclusion of all but performers on such occasions, but had made an exception in favor of Professor Pastor, a psychologist of renown, who was engaged in preparing a scientific study of "Enthusiasm." This courtesy was well rewarded, for the professor, in the rôle of the principal witness for the defence, delivered a philosophical plea for the irresponsibility of genius which won a verdict of acquittal.

He stated that what really happened was that Toscanini struck out mightily but involuntarily with his baton, causing the violinist's bow to snap and rebound into his eye. Pastor went on to say he had made a special pathological study of Toscanini and had found that on great occasions this prince of conductors becomes so possessed by sublime frenzy that his normal personality forsakes him. He becomes transfigured by genius, beside, or rather outside of, himself, so that the inhibitory nerves are completely paralyzed. In a paroxysm of inspiration he falls a tragic prey to the tyranny of art, and the faculty of distinguishing good from evil is subordinated to the extreme ebbs and flows of sensibility. Stupendous words and vivacious deeds break forth with volcanic force.

So impossible is anything like a quiet return to normal equilibrium that throughout the night after a performance he continues in a state of pitiful nervous exaltation. He cannot sleep, his teeth chatter incessantly, the muscles of arms and legs become painfully rigid and his whole organism vibrates like the subsoil after a terrific earthquake.

The Judges decided that a superman cannot be dealt with after the manner of ordinary mortals and that it would be a flagrant injustice to penalize a musical genius like Toscanini with even so much as the infliction of a fine.

SILENT ON DECKER CHARGE.

Ambassador Willard Refuses to Comment on Admiral's Letter.

PARIS, Dec. 30.—Joseph E. Willard, American Ambassador at Madrid since 1913, had his attention called today to the letter recently written by Rear Admiral Benson W. Decker, former Naval Attaché at Madrid, in which the Admiral setting forth his reasons for declining the Navy Cross, asserted that he and others "in spite of the opposition of the Ambassador" kept Spain from entering the war in 1918. The Ambassador, however, declined to comment on the letter.

"I have nothing to say," was the only statement made by the Ambassador, who is here on a visit, and plans shortly to return to the Spanish capital.

JENKINS PAYS LAST OF $150,000 RANSOM

horseback on Nov. 22, returning to San Mateo, in the District of Cholula, then to San Bernardo, where he stayed in a house at the Bartolomio Zuatson. The Government agents are still investigating the trip from San Bernardo.

"One strong point against Jenkins is the statement made by Ignacio Justo, the former manager of the Jenkins farm, who, Jenkins said in front of the Judges, was absolutely honest and trustworthy, to the effect that Jenkins had in the past delivered boxes of ammunition personally to Justo for distribution among the rebels. Also that he had ordered the payment of 60 pesos monthly to Cordoba. Jenkins, when confronted with Justo, refused to make a statement, Justo affirming his previous statements in the presence of Jenkins. Justo stated that he had opened the boxes in order to distribute the contents, so he was sure that they were cartridges.

"Jenkins has repeatedly refused to assist the judicial authorities in any form. We have not put pressure upon Jenkins to make him testify, as we realize the case is very delicate in its international aspect. Jenkins can surely obtain justice. If we find evidence in his favor we will welcome it, as we only wish to proceed justly."

The Supreme Court late last evening decided that the Federal court was the one competent to handle the Jenkins case.

AGAIN DENY HOUSE BROKE WITH WILSON

Friends of Former Peace Envoy Suspect Jealousy or Political Intrigue.

COLONEL REMAINS SILENT

Denial Also Made at White House—Distortion of Incidents at Paris Charged.

When renewed and circumstantial reports of an alleged break between Colonel House and President Wilson were communicated to the Colonel last night, he adopted the same attitude he has taken when similar stories were published in the past, declining to comment and taking the ground that any denial of such a break should properly come from the White House. Colonel House feels that since two persons are involved denials come, if they come at all, from the more exalted of the two.

Friends of the Colonel when informed last night of the newest phase of the story that things were at an end between him and the President were as positive in their denials of the alleged reasons for the reported break as they had been over previous accounts of the same sort. One man, unquestionably in a position to be familiar with both the personal and official relationship between the two men and with the progress of the negotiations at Versailles, declared categorically that the story that, in the absence of the President, Colonel House participated in the draughting of and presented to the President upon his return a treaty from which the League of Nations covenant had been omitted altogether was "absolutely and flatly untrue."

This denial naturally covers the version of the incident which has it that on presentation of such a treaty to President Wilson by Colonel House on the President's return from the United States Mr. Wilson, after seeing what the document contained, tore it up in the Colonel's presence and threw it on the floor.

Reverting to earlier versions of the alleged break, this man denied just as vehemently the story that the President and the Colonel had parted company because the Colonel, acting as a sort of catspaw for allied diplomats, had fixed the seat of the conference at Paris when the President wanted it to be held at Geneva or some other neutral place. This story, he said, was disproved by "the fact that Geneva actually had been chosen as the seat of the conference, and it was while Colonel House was abroad that the change to Paris was brought about. It was brought about not from Paris, but from Washington."

Tell of Dropping Freedom of Seas.

Another explanation of the parting of the ways story that the Colonel and President separated because the Colonel, influenced by British diplomats, succeeded in effecting the dropping from the treaty of the "freedom of the seas" clause, which the President included in his original fourteen points, was disposed of by this same well-informed man with the declaration that President Wilson himself had admitted in Paris that it was he, and not Colonel House, who caused that clause to be omitted from the treaty.

While Colonel House's friends again were reluctant last night to discuss the whole subject, they made it apparent that they have not altered the interpretation they have previously placed upon such narratives of the present state of the relations of the two men. They thought that they might be inspired by jealousy on the part of some person or persons in Washington, who might believe that Colonel House had enjoyed a degree of intimacy with Mr. Wilson and a height of diplomatic power which more properly might have fallen to the lot of some members of the President's official family.

If this suspicion constituted any injustice to any member of the official Wilson household, then the Colonel's friends were inclined to believe that the source of the whole series of attacks could be traced to the doors of Republicans who thought they could hurt the President and his party on the eve of a national campaign by making the country believe that the private citizen whom he saw fit to clothe with great power at a time of the world's crisis had proved unfit for his trust, thus reflecting upon the President's ability to chose his advisers in matters which vitally concerned America's destiny.

Denial at the White House.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—A revival of the report that President Wilson had definitely broken with Colonel E. M. House brought denial today from the White House. The denial was informal and nothing was said to indicate that it had been authorized by the President. At the same time it was backed by a bit of evidence that went to show that Colonel House is still in communication with the persons close to the President.

A new version of the alleged break is that Colonel House is preparing to oppose the nomination for President by the Democratic Party of any man who has the good-will or the support of President Wilson. The evidence obtained to refute the new report is that within a week Colonel House was in communication over the telephone from New York with one of the President's official household.

While there is no direct statement on the subject, it is the understanding that the long distance conversation was with Joseph P. Tumulty, the secretary to the President. Colonel House and Mr. Tumulty, from all accounts, maintain cordial relations. It is said by those in a position to know that President Wilson has never given any indication that he was angry with Colonel House.

The subject of the telephone conversation between Colonel House and the White House is not disclosed, but the fact that it had taken place was mentioned as evidence that there had been no break in the relations between the President and Colonel House up to about a week ago.

All that was said at the White House on the subject, while of a negative character, would point to the maintenance of relations between the President and Colonel House.

PLEA FOR A LARGER PORT.

Marine League President Wants Docks on Newark Bay.

P. H. W. Ross, President of the National Marine League of the United States, in an address to the Traffic Club of New York at the Waldorf-Astoria last night on "The Future of the American Merchant Marine," pointed out that the Port of New York, in order to take care of the re-export or transshipment business which will come as an outgrowth of the war, must utilize the Barge Canal and Jamaica Bay and develop a new system of docks on Newark Bay. The Government has already become interested in the Newark Bay project, it was said, and a Congressional committee has been over the route.

Mr. Ross said that there should be reserved for New York City's requirements the dock facilities in Manhattan, Brooklyn, and the west shore of Jersey, on the Hudson River. The duty of New York as a port is, first, to care for the requirements of the local population; second, to provide an outlet for the interior points, and, third, the development of the re-export or reshipment business.

The Traffic Club was asked by Mr. Ross to make an appropriation to devise a comprehensive plan by which the Port of New York can best be developed as a national asset, the suggestion being referred to the Commitee on Public Affairs.

ALDERMEN INCREASE THEIR PAY TO $3,000

Board Adopts Resolution Raising Salaries $1,000 a Year, Beginning New Year's Day.

STATEN ISLAND PIERS WIN

An Additional $6,000,000 Is Voted, Which Insures the Construction of Fourteen Wharves.

After Jan. 1 the members of the Board of Aldermen will receive $3,000 a year instead of $2,000. The matter came up first in the Board of Estimate, and there was no objection. A representative of the Bureau of Municipal Research who was present declared that the bureau was not against the increase, but doubted if the Board of Estimate had the legal right to grant it. Controller Craig said the best way to settle the matter was to adopt the resolution and if necessary have a court decision regarding it.

All the Aldermen, however, voted for the increase and the measure will now go to the Mayor for his approval.

It was the last meeting of the outgoing board and a number of measures were acted upon. These included the adoption of a resolution providing corporate stock to the amount of $8,543,089 for the construction of piers at Stapleton, Staten Island, with bulkhead wall and the necessary dredging under the jurisdiction of the Dock Department, and amending the corporate stock issue of $5,368,943 for construction of Stapleton piers with sheds thereon and dredging by appropriating the additional sum of $650,000.

The action of the Aldermen provides, all told, the sum of $14,562,032 with which to construct fourteen piers, of which thirteen are said to have been leased at a rate of revenue to the city of 7½ per cent. a year over the cost of construction. The Board of Estimate adopted a like measure, and the city will borrow the money through the issuance of special revenue bonds at the rate of 4½ per cent. There were only two votes against the resolution.

Another resolution adopted provided for the establishment of a division of oral hygiene of the Department of Health. It means the issuance of $10,600 in revenue bonds for permanent equipment for nine additional dental clinics in the public schools. The proposition becomes effective immediately, providing the Board of Estimate and the Mayor take similar action.

A resolution, fathered by Alderman Alexander Braunstein, which would turn over the $300,000 profit made by the city in the sale of surplus army foods to a fund to provide additional dental clinics and for use for school lunches, which was introduced several weeks ago, was tabled by a vote of 47 to 5.

FOKINE AND FOKINA DANCE.

Russians Appear in His Creations Before Throng at Metropolitan.

Morris Gest, who brought over the first Russian dancers in "Scheherazade," before the coming of the famous stars and finally of the ensemble of the Petrograd troupe, gave New York last night a single view of that ballet's reputed originator, Michael Fokine, in an entire program of his creations, danced where Pavlowa and Mordkin, Nijinsky, and others had danced them, at the Metropolitan Opera House. No dancer ever drew a greater audience there in this decade, for the name of Fokine, like that of the painter Bakst, had been known wherever the Russians appeared in this country, and the present Metropolitan public showed an amazing eagerness "to recapture the first rapture" of those sensational débuts of ten years ago.

Mr. Fokine was assisted by his beautiful wife in the familiar "Spectre of the Rose," and Mme. Vera Fokina gave a solo, "The Dying Swan," both challenging comparisons with former interpreters trained to the hour; it was a breathless task to essay these same evolutions after a season or more off the stage, and neither the woman's tiptoe technique nor the man's athletic leaps were of the virtuosity remembered by Americans who saw them in Paris. In character rôles, however, they were most remarkable. Nothing in the Russian repertory has had more native charm than their final group of Slavic folksongs, in one of which Mme Fokina carried a property baby across the stage, pausing in the limelight as at war's alarm, then silently crooning in the shadows, while Mr. Fokine as the peasant father sat and slumbered.

It was of interest that their own boy, a sturdy lad of 13 years, in Russian sailor suit, looked on from a box last night and during the intermissions played like a happy child along the corridors of the parterre. Of the other dances, Mme. Fokina's "Salome" and Mr. Fokine's "Bacchus" were less effective than their pair of Spanish pieces later, which were encored. An orchestra made up largely of Philharmonic players served admirably under the direction of Josiah Zuro, both in accompanying the stars and in a half dozen intermezzi, and there were obbligato parts for violin and 'cello, played by Sacha Fiedelman and Gaston Dubois, in several numbers.

'The Play Dancers' Welcomed Home

Ruth Cramer and Janet Jackson, aptly known as "The Play Dancers," with Rosalind Fuller, singer of old British folksongs, and Lillian Jackson, pianist, were welcomed home from the war by a matinée houseful of friends at the Princess Theatre yesterday, evidently aware of how the four young women had served for two years in entertaining soldiers, three of them overseas, and one in camps at home. If it was "all work and no play" in that time, there was no sign of it in the program of innocent merriment of their return, all done to delightful music from Russian and allied composers, including the English Cyril Scott and the American MacDowell.

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

A Spiritualistic Romance.

A borderland romance that mingles the characters of this world and the world beyond, and, in the telling, dips back into the memories of half a century ago—that is "Smilin' Through," the new play which arrived last evening at the Broadhurst Theatre. It is the work of Allan Langdon Martin, a newcomer from Canada to the company of our playwrights, and its performance is irradiated every now and again with some notably beautiful playing by Jane Cowl, who, it seemed to some of us, never acted before with quite such eloquence, simplicity and spiritual insight. It may be reported, too, that she was never so lovely to behold.

Mr. Martin has told his story simply, and some charming and touching passages make amends for the rather pedestrian gait at which the play advances for the greater part of the evening. How, sick with jealousy and befuddled with drink, Jerry Wayne fires on John Carteret at the hour of his wedding to the bewitching Moonyeen Clare; how, in her swift rush to shield him, the bullet finds her heart instead, and how the ghosts of this tragic hour haunt the old garden for fifty years and rise to bar the way when the son of Jerry Wayne comes, in our time, to court the lovely niece of Moonyeen Clare—that is the story of "Smilin' Through."

Mr. Martin's play, which begins with the loving spirits of the dead peering anxiously in through the garden gate on the blundering quarrels and tribulations of the mortals they have left behind them, ends with the death of old John Carteret and his reunion amid the moonlit hollyhocks with the Moonyeen Clare of other years. It is, therefore, a direct bid for the sympathy of that widening community of men and women believing in (or curious about) the possible communication with the spirit world.

If his play, in performance, seems needlessly obvious and mechanical at times, it is due, possibly, to the fact that here is another production in which the leading player doubles in two interchanging rôles. Very likely it was necessary to have Miss Cowl play both the Moonyeen Clare of long ago and the Kathleen—but this necessity leads to one of those trick performances in which, no matter how plausibly the player leaves the scene, the wily audience says: "Ah, ha! She has gone to change her clothes and come back as the other one. Whereat there arise visions of much hasty and abetted attiring near by, and that illusion vanishes as with a puff of smoke.

When the closing scene is marred by one of those transparent devices in which a carefully swathed figure is substituted for Miss Cowl while she makes her last lightning change, everyone must be reminded of the like didoes committed in "The Willow Tree" some seasons past. The better analogy, of course, is the vanishing lady of the vaudeville cabinet mysteries, and the play slumps forthwith to exactly that level.

If the play is of uneven merit and quality, the same may be said of Miss Cowl's performance. The scenes of romantic fervor, of tenderness, and of tumultuous, tearful happiness are played beautifully, but all her comedy seems a trifle labored and emphatic, a matter of transparently visible artifice. You could say that her lightest touches were her heaviest, and let it go at that, were it not for the fact that the performance of the whole company is palpably overstressed, as though the players were a little doubtful of their audience's quickness of perception. In this way some rather winning scenes are made commonplace.

A trifle mechanical, too, is Miss Cowl's brogue, which is laid on a bit thick. It is magnificently heralded and prepared for. It is true that none of the preliminary players go down to the footlights and shout across, "This dialect Miss Cowl will be heard speaking when she enters shortly is an Irish dialect," but you are pretty thoroughly given to understand that she is to play a colleen. Then, to make sure, she gives vent to one "Bad cess to 'em," and two "Glory be s" within one minute after her entrance, and the trick is done. Nor, once its identity is established, is it continuousy pleasing, for, strangely enough Miss Cowl, who knows how to use her voice better than most of her sisters of the stage, lets it coarsen into a Broadway twang when she is being a broth of a girl.

Ethelbert D. Hales and Henry Stephenson are excellent as the two old fellows, particularly Mr. Hales. And Orme Caldara gives in the last scene, when Kathleen's lover comes home white and shattered from the wars, a far finer performance than we have ever seen him give. This helps a lot, as does the enchanting English garden which Joseph Urban designed as a setting for "Smilin' Through."

MUSIC

By RICHARD ALDRICH.

Miss Winifred Christie's Recital.

Miss Winifred Christie, a pianist who has attracted favorable attention by her playing in New York in years past, gave a recital in Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon that had interesting features. Miss Christie has a well-poised artistic individuality, ripe and well-considered views of the music that engages her attention; and she has an abundance of technical resources that enables her to give full realization to her views. Among her acquirements is a pure and delicately modulated tone, a clear articulation, a well-developed sense of rhythm.

She played Franck's "Prelude, Chorale and Fugue" in a style not so much imposing as poetic and insinuating, with a clear and symmetrical exposition of the fugal structure in the last piece. A singular and daring experiment was her putting on her program the "adagio sostenuto" from Beethoven's sonata Op. 106, the "Hammerklavier" sonata in B flat, a work that taxes the powers of the greatest exponents of Beethoven's art and a movement whose accumulation of beauties is most difficult to present as a consistent and well-ordered whole. Miss Christie's performance, if not exactly touched with celestial flame, was in many ways a beautiful one, and caught much of the poetical and uplifted spirit of the music.

Her performance of a group of pieces by Chopin was charming. The G minor ballade she took with some deliberation in tempo, with a certain reflective spirit that well becomes it; and both were justified by the results. A prelude, two études, a mazurka were played musically; and Ravel's brilliant "Jeux d'Eaux" was given with the graphic effect the piece aims at. Debussy's "Jardin sans la Pluie" and pieces by Albeniz, Liszt and Moszkowski made up the rest of the program.

The New York Trio.

The New York Trio gave its second concert of chamber music last evening in Aeolian Hall, with a program comprising only Beethoven's trio in D, Op. 70, No. 1, and Tchaikovsky's in A minor, Op. 50, "in memory of a great artist," namely, Nicolas Rubinstein. The two works amply made an evening's music, owing to the great length of Tchaikovsky's elegaic trio. They give a great contrast to each other: Beethoven's trio being a most delicate piece of work, intended truly for the "chamber;" while Tchaikovsky let himself be hampered by few considerations of the medium through which his ideas were to be expressed on the surroundings in which they were to be heard.

The New York Trio gave an excellent account of itself. It is composed of Clarence Adler, pianist, and Messrs. Scipione Guidi, violin, and Cornelius Van Vliet, 'cello; the two string players being respectively concert master and first 'cellist of the New Symphony Orchestra. Their playing is guided by a real artistic feeling, by an obvious sympathy for the form of art they are cultivating. The trio of Beethoven was played with great delicacy; with the sense of a piece that belongs in narrower limits than those of Aeolian Hall; and though some of their pianissimos were very fine-spun indeed, they contrived to give the impression of having found the right proportions for the work.

The New York Trio is one of several recent additions to chamber music organizations active in New York. Their multiplication should be a gratifying sign that the taste for chamber music is growing, and that signifies a growth of the finer appreciation of music.

"Coq d'Or" in Next Week's Operas.

"Coq d'Or," with Rodanzky conducting, will be the Metropolitan's new bill on Friday of next week, a double cast, including Garrison, Diaz, Didur, Bolm, Galli, and Rudolph, preceded by "Cavalleria," with Muzio, Crimi, and Chalmers. Setti's chorus next Sunday night will present Gounod's "Gallia," with Sundelius, and Rossini's "Stabat Mater," with Ponselle, Besanzoni, Hackett, and Mardones. Wolff's "The Blue Bird" will have its first subscription performance on Monday, with the cast of the "world premiere." Other operas are "Italiana in Algeri" on Wednesday, with Besanzoni, Hackett, and Didur; Thursday "Faust," Farrar, Martinelli, and Rothier; Saturday matinee, "Samson et Dalila," Caruso, Besanzoni, Amato, Mardones, and Saturday night, "Tosca," Farrar, Hackett, and Scotti.

THE WAR GOES ON.

Mr. Lloyd George has announced that the Allies are going to keep their hands off Russia; but Russia will not keep her hands off us. The next few weeks will undoubtedly see a "peace offensive" from Moscow of the sort that we used to have from Berlin and Vienna, and for the same purpose—an effort to stop the war, to make a peace without victory, in order to strengthen forces for a new attack on the Atlantic world. Lenin and his colleagues have said that Bolshevism cannot live in Russia alone, have said it so often that even our Governments, so hard of hearing, ought to have caught his meaning by this time. To succeed anywhere Bolshevism must prevail everywhere. But after a year or so of peace and unrestricted commerce Lenin will be in much better condition to resume the war. His factories need raw materials, his railroads need equipment; if he makes peace with the world he can buy what he needs, with gold stolen from Rumania or seized when the Bolsheviki overthrew Kerensky, with jewels and other valuables stolen from private owners in Russia, with platinum from the mines of the Urals. Just at present the Bolshevist State is far from fully equipped for a war against the world; but one year of unchecked trade will equip it fairly well.

In that year Bolshevist agitators will have been sent in hitherto unknown numbers, equipped with plentiful supplies of bribe money, into every country in the world. For every one whom we lately deported we should get a hundred back. The peace terms proposed to Esthonia are an invaluable indication of Bolshevist policy, and one of the most important of those terms was amnesty for all Bolshevist agitators. While outwardly the world is at peace, Lenin's agitators will be sowing revolution in every country. To be sure, we do not think that they can accomplish a revolution here, or in England, or in France; or in Italy, despite the many gloomy predictions that have been made as to the political future of that nation. But they can make a great deal of trouble everywhere—perhaps enough trouble to enable them to make considerable progress in Central Europe. For the war that might be ended by a Bullitt or a Prinkipo Island peace this Winter would certainly be started again whenever it suited Lenin's convenience; and this would naturally be at a time when Lenin had a much better chance of success than he has now. Our Governments have been strangely inept in their dealings with Bolshevism, but they ought to know it somewhat better by this time. Various allied Governments have from time to time asserted that no peace is to be made with Bolshevism; but until "publicly proclaimed vacillation" loses some of its present esteem as the highest statecraft, pessimistic persons will not take these declarations at their face value.

What is the alternative to an illusory peace? They have no illusions in Eastern Europe, despite the peace offers to Esthonia, Latvia, and Poland. The alternative is war, the turning on Central Europe of the Red armies released by the fall of Kolchak and the defeat of Denikin. Anti-Bolshevist Russians, not likely to underestimate the field forces of Trotzky, have put them at about 500,000. Some of these will still be detained in Siberia and South Russia, but perhaps three or four hundred thousand could be sent against Poland, Rumania, and the Baltic States. They are well fed and well equipped; and in this alone, if anywhere, is their superiority to their probable antagonists.

If the allied Powers follow the policy which Mr. Clemenceau has lately stated and give material support to the threatened States of the cordon sanitaire, the Bolshevist offensive is likely to make little progress. The Poles have nearly half a million men under arms; most of the Rumanian army has been demobilized, but can soon be called back to the colors. And the Poles and Rumanians will certainly fight their best under present conditions, for national patriotism in both countries has been raised to a high pitch by the recent expansion of frontiers, and to both the struggle must appear not only as a war against Bolshevism, but as a defense of the fatherland against a new form of Russian aggression.

The Bolsheviki will have their allies, to be sure; Hungary can be counted on to do what is possible to annoy the Rumanian flank, and the Poles, whose foreign policy has not been altogether acceptable to their neighbors, will probably have considerable trouble in Eastern Galicia, where it is not a case of loving Lenin but of hating Dmowski. Yet with all this, if war material is supplied in plenty by the Western Powers, and if food supplies for Poland are maintained properly, there is little doubt that Poland and Rumania can repel all the attacks of the Red army. For their own populations have resisted the Bolshevist infection, and the spirit of their armies will be immeasurably better than that of Trotzky's mercenaries.

This will hold, however, purely on the strategic defensive. Recent dispatches have reported Marshal Foch as favoring the use of the Polish army in an attack on Moscow to overthrow the Red rule. The Poles might reach Moscow, but it would be a dark day for Poland when they entered the Kremlin. Three hundred years ago, when somewhat similar conditions of disorder prevailed in Russia, a Polish army did occupy Moscow, and the ultimate result was not good for Poland. At present the bulk of the Red army fights only because it is paid and fed, and the Russian people seem to regard it as a nuisance or worse. But if Pilsudski and Haller were encouraged to emulate Zolkiewski, Russian patriotism might rally behind the Bolshevist Government against the invader, and the moral advantage would be transferred to the other side. Only a defensive seems possible at present; if Poland and Rumania are properly supported, there can be little doubt that it will be a successful defensive, but it may mean a long war. It is to be hoped that the Cardinal Archbishop of Warsaw is too pessimistic in his fear that the Russian frontier may not be safe for twenty or twenty-five years.

THE TWO-THIRDS RULE.

An attempt, it is said, will be made at the Democratic National Convention to do away with the rule requiring a two-thirds vote to nominate the candidates for President and Vice President. In a Republican convention it takes only a majority to nominate. The argument for the two-thirds rule is that it more surely ascertains the real choice of the delegates than does a nomination by majority, but in practice one rule works out much like the other in that respect. Under either rule the man the delegates want nearly always gets the nomination.

The chief objection to the two-thirds rule is that it leads to deadlocks which result in the nomination of some dark horse whom nobody really wants. But here, again, the fact is that dark horse nominations are pretty nearly as common in Republican conventions, under the majority rule, as in Democratic conventions under the two-thirds rule. The same thing may be said of the opportunity afforded under the different rules for backstairs combinations and deals. This, it is reported, is one of the chief arguments to be advanced by those Democrats who seek a change. There was never a convention where there was more of this logrolling than that of the Republicans in 1888, which was governed by the majority rule. To find a real parallel one would have to go back to the Democratic convention of 1868.

In Democratic conventions the unit rule, by which each State delegation casts its votes in a block, usually accompanies the two-thirds rule. It has led to some strange results. For instance, in the convention of 1912, the singular spectacle was presented of a part of the New York delegation working tooth and nail for Wilson and yet seeing their votes cast for Clark, the majority of the delegation having decided in the Speaker's favor. In the same convention, however, Nebraska was not governed by the unit rule and split her vote according to Mr. Bryan's wishes until he finally decided to come out for Wilson, when she cast her vote as a unit. That was a case in which Clark appeared to be the choice of a majority for many ballots, but it was only in appearance; the unit rule made over to him many votes which properly belonged to Mr. Wilson. After a long deadlock, caused more by the unit rule than by the two-thirds rule, Mr. Wilson forged ahead in spite of both, and the deadlock was broken.

We read that some of the Democrats who are advocating a change are apprehensive that the two-thirds rule will give Mr. Bryan a chance to stampede the convention for himself or another. Mr. Bryan has never been successful as a wirepuller. His efforts in that line were most conspicuous at the convention of 1904, and the combinations he then attempted to make were amateurish. At the convention of 1912 he was a favorite with the delegates, but although it was his last-minute stand for Mr. Wilson that brought about the nomination it was not done by any special skill he showed in making dickers. A good deal more ability in back-stairs work has been shown by Republicans in conventions where only a majority was required to nominate.

The true argument against the two-thirds rule is that it does not in truth accomplish the purpose which it pretends to attain. It does not ascertain the will and intention of the delegates any more surely than the majority rule does. It sometimes leads to prolonged balloting to reach a result that could be attained much more simply by the majority rule. The Republican conventions work much more smoothly, as a general thing, than the Democratic. As for machine influence, it has as much or as little power in one convention as in the other.

SERVICE TO THE NATION.

Mr. Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, has shown in several ways and at several times a spirit of fairness, of clean sportsmanship, that sets him sharply apart from the old-fashioned type of political manager. He believes in justice to his political opponents, in constructive policies. He sees that the country has outgrown the heat and fury of intemperate partisanship; that people have largely ceased to be blind followers of a party name.

From what candidate and party is the better administration to be hoped? From a majority of which party in Congress is the wiser legislation to be expected? In a speech at Indianapolis Mr. Hays said:

> This is no time for little things. We have no time for pullings or haulings either as against the Democrats or among ourselves. We attribute honesty of purpose to the opposition, and urge that the contest between the Democrats and the Republicans be a contest in effort of service to the nation.

This is a praiseworthy effort to have the campaign of 1920 conducted sensibly, patriotically. To put aside petty partisan motives, petty personal ambitions or rancors; to strive to see which may do the better service to the nation—that is the honorable and lofty competition to which Mr. Hays invites the two great parties. Is it not time, and more than time, for that competition to begin? In the Senate, notably, cannot Democrats and Republicans, brushing aside the long, fruitless disputes and cavils about the Treaty of Peace, weary of mère manoeuvring for party advantage, unite quickly in a satisfactory compromise, fulfill speedily the hopes of business, the strong and growing demands of the American people, the expectation of our allies? Surely two-thirds of the Senate can easily be marshaled for this great service to the United States, to the peace and reconstruction of the world. "This is no time for little things": that is advice, that is a motto, which certain Senators, especially certain Senators in Mr. Hays's party, need thoroughly to ponder.

NEUTRALIZING WASTE.

Herbert Hoover has pointed out a deplorable waste in the lives of the children of immigrants. Before the Associated Charities of San Francisco he declared that if the nation would grapple systematically with the conditions surrounding their birth, nutrition, and education, the great problem of Americanization would be solved in twenty years. "I believe," he said, "that the attitude of a nation toward "child welfare will soon become the "test of its civilization."

Throughout nearly five years of Belgian famine, Mr. Hoover says, the child mortality from disease was held below the normal rate for the years before the war. He attributes this astonishing achievement almost exclusively to the women of his organization. "Those American men who had "to do with this work can claim but "little credit." Where children are ill-born, ill-nourished, and uneducated, women have a peculiar privilege and indeed responsibility. That we are already doing much excellent work of the kind is well known. But in this day when our Americanism is on trial it is obvious that it has been insufficient. Mr. Hoover might have read the same lesson with equal point before the charity organizations of any American city. And he might have stated his case even more concretely. The test of a nation's civilization is the degree in which the surplus time and energy of well-to-do women are applied to child welfare.

Mr. Hoover's explanation of this neglect is that individual and scattered cases of suffering have less appeal than "mobs of starving children." If that were the whole truth, it would be a sad reflection upon our intelligence. The suffering is the same, also the loss to the nation, whether the individual children are isolated or in a mass. The defect is doubtless rather a defect of imagination. The war made all things more vivid, more dramatic and appealing. Each act of service was tendered not merely to an individual need, but to the great cause which was trembling in the balance. Today there is no such pervasive and overmastering inspiration. To see that the victory we vaguely hope for is possible within twenty years takes a man of uncommon vision. Meantime the women who helped to win the war are suffering a spiritual reaction, a sense as if life had suddenly become empty and vain. But the last year has taught us little if it has not taught that the great cause for which we fought has still to be won—that it will not be won until life and liberty are purified and safeguarded. In the needs of these Americans of the future there is a great opportunity—the opportunity to fill many a half-empty existence with the happiness of patriotic service.

DR. BUTLER ON PROHIBITION.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, undoubtedly the fittest of all proposed candidates for the Republican nomination for President, has given a clear answer to the Superintendent of the State Anti-Saloon League, who asked his views about prohibition. Like so many others, he has "long believed "the saloon to be a public nuisance "that should be abated," but he hasn't supported prohibition because he did not believe it either "a just or proper way to deal with the problem." But the Eighteenth Amendment is become a part of the fundamental law. "As such it has the same claim "to the respect and obedience of the "people as other provisions of the "Constitution." It may be discussed in Congress and argued in the courts, "but for the Executive Department "of the National Government it is a "closed issue."

A candidate for President should not, a President cannot, use other language. The Constitution must be obeyed. And yet it may be a matter of curious speculation whether the prohibition amendment will be and can be enforced; whether it may not ultimately fall into that innocuous desuetude which enwraps one or two of its predecessors. While it may have "the "same claim to the respect and "obedience of the people as other "provisions of the Constitution," it is obvious that it doesn't have it. Not in this generation, at least, will it be sustained by that overpowering public opinion which is the real sanction of law. In Kansas and some other severely Puritan States it has that sanction; yet even there the bootlegger and the blind tiger are found. All over the country now we see wood alcohol slaughtering on a great scale. There has always been a certain small, steady percentage of fatalities from this source. Their appalling increase in this last month, since the beginning of rigorous prohibition and the banishment of beer with even the modest alcoholic content of 2.75, startles even the prohibitionist of the strictest sect, but can hardly surprise anybody who has seen prohibition inflicted upon an unwilling community.

Moonlight stills, a huggermugger traffic difficult to stop, a multitude of household manufactures and substitutes, a world of evasions and frauds are sure. An immemorial and world-wide habit will make a long and bitter resistance. Have not our earnest reformers gone too far, tried to do too much at once? Beer and light wines, as common and regarded as harmless as water, have long been used in Continental Europe. Prohibition makes them impossible, practically forces the use of strong drinks or their deadly counterfeits. It is improbable, perhaps, that Congress, still trembling before the Anti-Saloon League lash, will dare to deviate into common sense to permit the use of light wines and beer. That is a way to moderation, to temperance, which the prohibitionists mistake for total abstinence. In their eagerness to destroy the saloon, the too zealous friends of prohibition are bringing about the prevalence of a much more sinister and perilous means of liquor supply, a supply of much more than intoxicating, of exterminating, liquors.

THE WAZIRISTAN EXPEDITION.

In India, a land of "magnificent distances," it is not far from the Afghanistan frontier to Amritsar, the city of the Punjab where 500 natives were "massacred" by British troops in April, or a rising like that of the Indian mutiny was prevented by General Dyer's martial law. Official opinion and local sentiment conflict sharply about the volleying of the troops into a crowd or mob of five thousand people headed by native agitators. Before an investigating commission General Dyer has justified his order to keep on firing. "I looked "upon it as a duty, a very horrible "duty," he said. From Lahore came an approving dispatch from one of the ablest and most respected Indian officials, Lieut. Gov. Sir Michael O'Dwyer: "Your action correct." Nevertheless, and in spite of the fact that the mob at Amritsar had already run amuck in some parts of the city, doing a great deal of damage and killing Europeans, General Dyer has been censured both in India and Great Britain for allowing his men to go on firing after the threatening crowd of natives had begun to give way and scatter. The natives generally revile him as a butcher. It can be imagined, then, with what rejoicing they heard of the check to General S. H. Climo's Waziristan Field Force operating against the Mahsuds and Waziris, wild Afghan tribesmen, in the hill country contiguous to the Punjab.

At a time of widespread unrest in India, due in part to opposition to the Rowlatt act directed against anarchical and revolutionary crime, and in part to dissatisfaction with the plan of self-government proposed to placate the Indian Nationalists, the Government cannot afford to suffer reverses in its little wars against tribesmen in Afghanistan. News reports of the engagements with the Mahsuds and Waziris in the third week of December hint at a check to General Climo's expeditionary force, in which the loss was heavy for hill fighting, but assert that the British recovered the ground from which they were forced to retire. Whether the tribesmen made a strategic retreat, after killing 58 and wounding 222 of the invading force, or were driven from their positions, does not appear clear. Apparently British Indian prestige was dimmed for the time being.

The British commander has a reputation in India for "sheer love of fighting" and brilliant success in the field. He has distinguished himself in many of the Indian campaigns, beginning with the defense of Malakand in 1897. In Mesopotamia in 1915-16 he was wounded four times while leading his mixed troops of British and Indians. But General Climo seems to have been assigned to a hard task in the Waziristan country. The original intention was to give him only Indian contingents. It was the rule, or tradition, never to send a force against the wild tribesmen of the north without a stiffening of British regulars, including artillery and cavalry. But in this case the Indian Government decided to test the mettle of native troops, perhaps to propitiate the civil population, by letting them try conclusions with the Waziris. Unfortunately for General Climo, there was to be no Ghurka regiment with the expeditionary force. When the command was being made up the Government was criticised for its course, for which the fact that there were only British drafts available might have accounted. On a minor scale it was the first Mesopotamian campaign over again. General Climo's leadership may save the day for him, but his early reverse has an ominous look.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Certainly He Was Misjudged.

A curious illustration of what is called "the irony of fate" is to be seen in the fact that, outside the ranks of his own, the medical, profession, Sir William Osler first attracted wide attention by a speech delivered a few years ago in which he said something which was taken as meaning that, in his opinion, a man's life work so nearly always was completed at the age of 60 that thereafter he lagged superfluous, and it would be judicious if at that age he were painlessly put to death by the administration of an anaesthetic.

Just what he did say in that speech has never been made quite clear, the explanations or defenses presented in his behalf varying between assertions that he made no such statement and that he made it jestingly, trusting his hearers, as he could, confidently enough to understand that he knew as well as they did that the utility of men had no such limitation. However that may have been, a considerable part of the world acquired the belief that Dr. Osler had advised the chloroforming of everybody who reached the age of 60.

Vainly was it pointed out that when the doctor made his too famous speech he was himself very near this age, and still actively engaged in professional work, the great value of which was recognized by all who had a right to judge it, nor has the impression then made on the public mind been changed appreciably by the new and higher honors since gained in this country and abroad by this truly distinguished practitioner of a noble art. As he had been taken too seriously as to whatever it was he said about the man of 60, so he took too seriously the comments elicited by his speech as reported, and he is said to have felt a mingling of grief and resentment that there was ascribed to him a callous harshness of which there was in him not a trace.

Productive Activities Continued.

Himself a convincing proof that men are capable of good work in later middle age, Sir William Osler feared that unintentionally he had added to such real difficulties and disadvantages as do come to all necessarily with advancing years—that he had encouraged whatever tendency there is toward an exaltation of youth over age that ignores the superiorities of judgment and skill that come with time and experience. To do that would indeed be the rendering of an ill-service to the world. The disquietudes this aroused in the mind of the great diagnostician and teacher could not have been very grave, however, and if, as may have been the case, their effect was to cause him to continue the labors of original research longer than otherwise he might have done, the world was distinctly a gainer thereby. His later years were as productive as any other, and he eagerly and successfully utilized the opportunities for further study and achievement created for him, as for the rest of the medical profession, by the great war. His work did not cease until he was stricken by the brief illness that ended an honorable career, and it is worth noticing, perhaps, that he died, not of a malady characteristic of senescence but of one the victims of which are rather oftener young than old.

Census-Taking Begins This Week.

For the fourteenth time in the United States there is to be next year a "numbering of the people," and, as has been the case with each of our decennial censuses since the first, this one is to be more elaborate than any of its predecessors, with a corresponding increase in the amount of knowledge obtained. That is, there will be such an increase if the agents who do the work are carefully selected and if they perform it with the intelligence and the sense of responsibility needed for a task so important in so many ways.

It is encouraging that a beginning of the enumerators' arduous toils is to be made at the very beginning of the year. Too often, hitherto, the questioning has not started till Summer, when no small fraction of the American population drifts far from home and the difficulty of attaining the desired information is then accordingly increased—with a consequent decrease of both fullness and trustworthiness.

The questions to be answered by every man and woman, and in behalf of every child, are many and minute, but none of them is of the sort called embarrassing—except possibly for some the one relating to age—but answered they all must be, for such is the law of the land, and for either disobedience or mendacity the penalty will be an exertion of governmental authority in ways which will be of whatever severity is necessary to effectiveness.

There lingers in the minds of certain elements of our population a fear of the census-taker, based on experience of what in the way of military service and taxation has often followed his visits abroad. For such apprehensions there is no basis here, for the data secured, the law explicitly promises, are never to go beyond the census tabulators, and the figures in the tables will make no revelation as to personal identity.

Must Pay Even for Dogs!

That the Germans, careful people as they are, should have seized all the dogs of value they found in the part of France they held is not at all surprising. It is just what they would do, and not unlike them, either, was it to order the killing of all the French dogs for which no uses of business or pleasure occurred to the invaders.

What is at least a little surprising is that no word about this particular display of Teutonic acquisitiveness has hitherto come across the water. Presumably that was because the French had so many other and more important grievances to relate and consider. Now that the matter of reparation—return of stolen property or payment for it—has come to the front, the loss of the dogs is remembered and they are carefully listed as items in the bill presented to Germany.

Probably there would be an increment of the big "addition" because of French cats, too, except that the courts are rather dubious as to the existence of property rights in cats and money damages due to their loss would be proved with difficulty in most cases. Dogs are different and ownership in them is fully recognized everywhere.

When the Germans pay for the French dogs they took they will realize with new and stronger emotion what a mistake it was for them not to win a war that from the beginning they conducted on the theory that any termination of it except victory was unthinkable.

LORD BRYCE'S VIEW.

An Opinion on the Senate's Course Expressed in a Private Letter.

The following is an extract from a letter just received by an American correspondent from Viscount Bryce:

"London, Dec. 12, 1919.

"The course that the majority of the Senate has taken is very regrettable. Must we now really abandon the hope that America will enter the League of Nations? Personally, I continue in the hope that she ultimately will, and it seems to me that your people have never really had the full case on behalf of the League of Nations completely put before them in all its aspects. If they did understand it they surely would compel the Senate to do its best to facilitate America's entrance, even if they thought some reservations, or rather, explanations, were necessary.

"I have never been able to see that the covenant of the League contains anything inconsistent with the Monroe Doctrine, or calculated to give the League any power over internal domestic affairs, either of the United States or any other country. If it did we should object to it, and certainly Canada and Australia would object to it just as much as the Senate does. I should greatly value your opinion as to the possibility of the acceptance of the reservations in the form which the Senate will finally give them. Some might be accepted, but some go a long way to strike at the foundation of the League, and I feel with you, that it would have been a far better course to accept the treaty in a qualified way, adding a resolution by Congress expressing its wish that some changes should be made in the covenant at the earliest practicable moment. Such changes ought to be quite possible."

Debts to Europe.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Those who oppose the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations seem to forget a few essential points:

Such civilization as this Republic possesses comes as a direct heritage from the older nations.

Such illustrious names as we possess and have possessed are mainly either directly or only slightly indirectly British (Washington, Alexander Hamilton, Jefferson, &c.)

Europe financed this country when practically bankrupt after the civil war.

The United States reaped a harvest from the war for civilization, but failed to strike a single blow for civilization until the eleventh hour.

The United States may be a creditor nation so far as money is concerned, but it is a debtor nation so far as any effort to save and preserve the world's real riches and worth are involved.

A. J. F.

New York, Dec. 20, 1919.

THE DEMAND.

Saddle your sons with the cost of guns
And the toys of the martial caste,
While the golden wheat and the things ye eat
Are the things that ye think of last.
Draw out the ore from the mountain store
And exchange for paper and gold,
So that towers massed in a city vast
May reek with the crowds they hold.
Drain off the oil from beneath the soil,
That the wheels may spin around—
Let the world forget the sovereign debt
It owes to the virgin ground.
Decrease your flocks and deplete your stocks,
That the price may remain on high,
While the cities teem and the millions dream
Of a home 'neath a country sky.
The city's lure to the countless poor
Is a shackle of strongest steel,
And the open door to a brighter shore
Ye never would dare reveal.

The food ye share and the clothes ye wear,
The coal that ye have to burn,
The things ye need and the beasts ye breed
Are the lessons ye have to learn.
So long as the sun in its course shall run,
And rain from the heavens fall,
The crops will grow and the food will flow
To the waiting mouths of all.
But not alone, on the breezes blown
And over the rolling plain,
Will the seed take root and the pale green shoot
Mature to the golden grain.
There is endless toil in the fruitful soil,
Ere the crops shall grow and spread,
And if man shuns, still, the field for the mill,
He'll bid high for his loaf of bread.
If strong men seek a wage by the week,
And disdain the call of the land,
Then supply shall fail and want prevail,
In face of the great demand.

WILLIAM V. V. STEPHENS,

MAJOR LAGUARDIA RESIGNS.

Leaves Congress and Announces His Policy as Aldermanic President.

After sending to Governor Smith his resignation as a member of Congress, Major F. H. LaGuardia, who will be sworn in tomorrow before Justice McCook as the new President of the Board of Aldermen, outlined in a statement to the public yesterday some of the policies affecting the city's interest which he expects to fight for in the Board of Estimate. He dwelt first upon the necessity for extending the city's docking facilities and for more pier and warehouse accommodations, adding that they were necessary if New York City is to maintain its supremacy on the Atlantic seaboard.

"The transit question," he said, "must be tackled and settled. It should not be delayed a moment. The question must be faced courageously and solved intelligently. The present conditions are unbearable, costly and unsatisfactory. Management under receiverships is extremely expensive and inherently inefficient. The time for action has arrived.

"I know it is the desire of the people of this great city that city employes should receive good wages. In return the people expect faithful and efficient service. I hope that we will soon be able to give our policemen and firemen the increase they ask for, in order that they may be able to care properly for themselves and their families, and for which they have been patiently waiting. No person who is not rendering services should be on the city payroll, and every person who does render services should be properly paid.

"I hope to be able to bring about harmony between the city administration and the Department of Education. Something seems to be wrong. In the meantime nearly 40,000 children are improperly housed and insufficiently instructed.

"Something must be done to adjust permanently the rent situation. When the tenant is in court it is too late to help. Rents should be such that tenants would not find themselves constantly evicted. The city owns land all over the city, and temporary quarters to relieve congestion should be built on these holdings, or else such city owned land which is not needed for municipal purposes should be disposed of in such manner as to compel the immediate construction of adequate apartments.

"When the transit question is definitely settled so that it will be known just what extensions will be made builders will resume activities in Kings, Queens and Bronx Counties, and that will also aid congestion and help to reduce rents."

President-elect LaGuardia was introduced to the members of the Board of Aldermen at their meeting yesterday by Robert L. Moran, the retiring President.

NEW YEAR MEAL FOR HORSES

Too Many of Them Need It Badly, So They Are to Have a Treat.

A New Year dinner for all the undernourished horses in the city is the plan of the Horse Aid Society, of which Mrs. Jacob M. Ehrlich is President. The plan contemplates issuing meal tickets and the establishment of an equine "bread line." It is due in part to the statement of an experienced veterinarian that half the horses in the city are insufficiently fed because these are the means of support of peddlers and small retailers. Since the war brought in high prices they have been forced to economize until bran mash is unknown, and the best the horses get is No. 3 oats and the siftings of the bins.

So Mrs. Ehrlich's society proposes to start horses off on the new year with full stomachs. To do this New Year dinners will be given out at 1 o'clock at the headquarters of the society, 149 West Thirty-eighth Street. The money for this work will come from voluntary offerings and already $300 has been raised.

An invitation is extended to "any poor man whose horse is his sole means of support." Each horse will receive a mixture of best grade oats and alfalfa up to twenty pounds, depending upon the condition of the "guest." To each will also be given two layers of hay four inches thick and the dessert will be apples and carrots.

"There is no greater sufferer through the high cost of living than the horse," said Mrs. Ehrlich yesterday. "We found the horse of one poor man in deplorable condition. 'How can I feed my horse when I cannot feed my children?' the owner asked, and he told the truth. In order that his five children might have food the unfortunate horse had been almost without any for three days. This is a phase of suffering about which little is heard.

"We want to help these owners and their animals. We are working out a plan to help the poor man who cannot get sufficient food for his horse. But just now we are concentrating on the New Year's dinner."

BURTON GOES TO MICHIGAN.

Leaves University of Minnesota to Become President at Ann Arbor.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 30.—The resignation of Dr. Marion L. Burton, as President of the University of Minnesota, was officially announced today. President Burton wired the local university authorities from Philadelphia that he had accepted an offer of the Presidency of the University of Michigan.

No announcement regarding President Burton's successor will be made until his resignation has formally been accepted by the State Board of Regents.

President Burton came to the University of Minnesota July 1, 1917. He had been President of Smith College for more than seven years. He was born at Brooklyn, Iowa, in 1874.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 30.—Announcement that Dr. Marion L. Burton had been selected to succeed him as President of the University of Michigan was confirmed this afternoon by President Harry B. Hutchins. Dr. Burton, it is announced, will begin his duties here July 1.

Dr. Hutchins tendered his resignation several years ago, but was urged by the Regents to continue in office, particularly during the war.

Elections Board Announces Total Ballots Cast in November.

The Board of Elections, organized as city canvassers, announced yesterday the number of votes cast for all candidates for city offices at the last election. The total of votes cast for President of the Board of Aldermen was given as 999,147, of which Robert L. Moran, Democrat, received 402,544; F. H. La Guardia, Republican, 403,722, and James Neal, Socialist, 129,681, a plurality for La Guardia of 1,178.

For Justice of the City Court, the total number was 1,490,841. Of these Louis Wendel received 180,603; Thomas J. Reilley, 178,808; Joseph M. Callahan, 180,908; Richard H. Smith, 197,664; Henry K. Davis, 178,575, and William H. Chorosh, 164,630.

ROOSEVELT CAMPS PLANNED

American League Approves Project to Develop Alert Citizenship.

The first meeting in behalf of the Roosevelt American League yesterday at the Auditorium at Wanamaker's under the auspices of the Roosevelt Memorial Association was attended by fifteen hundred school teachers and children, at the ratio of one teacher to two children.

An extensive memorial plan was presented by Norman Hagedorn to Superintendent Ettinger. The plan included:

The establishment of two large Summer camps in this State, one camp for boys and the other for girls, which shall be sufficiently large to care for thousands of children from all parts of the State.

Dr. John H. Finley, State Commissioner of Education, spoke in favor of the proposed plan and a standing vote of the teacher and pupil delegates unanimously indicated their approval of the league.

HANDICAP NEW MEN IN ESTIMATE BOARD

Committees Shaken Up to Bar LaGuardia and Curran from Important Posts.

ADOPT COURT HOUSE PLAN

Members Rush Through Heavy Calendar Before Republicans Can Assume Office.

Rushing through one of the heaviest calendars in its history, to clear up certain matters before the addition of two Republican members who assume office tomorrow, the Board of Estimate yesterday acted on a number of important subjects, including the adoption of the plan for a new County Court House.

First of all, the board, which since the municipal election of 1917 has been solidly Democratic, made changes in its committees so that the incoming Republicans, Henry H. Curran, President of the Borough of Manhattan, and F. H. LaGuardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, will not hold chairmanships on any.

In the old board there were a Committee on Transit, of which the President of the Board was Chairman; a Committee on Port and Terminal Facilities, of which the Controller was Chairman, and a Committee on War Emergencies, of which the Mayor was Chairman. These committees were abolished.

In the Committee on Assessments, of which President Moran was Chairman, Borough President Riegelmann was named to that post, and the incoming President will be merely a member. The chairmanship of the Committee on Salary and Grades was given to Borough President Connolly, of Queens, although this position has been held by the President of the board. President-elect LaGuardia was left off this committee entirely.

In the present board, the Chairman of the Committee on City Plan and Public Improvements is President of the Borough of Manhattan. In the new board, the President of the Bronx will be Chairman and the President of Manhattan merely a member. The President of the board as it will be constituted will not be on the Committee on Franchises. The motion to make the changes was introduced by President Riegelmann, of Brooklyn, and its adoption was unanimous.

$7,000,000 for Court House.

The report of the committee on the new Court House, recommending the appropriation of $7,000,000 for its construction and equipment, was adopted. It is estimated that the foundation, superstructure and steel work will cost $3,500,000. Controller Craig was continued as Chairman of the committee, with authority to approve such changes in plans, specifications and form of contract "as shall not materially increase the cost of construction or change the quality of the work or diminish the value of it in any way."

A delegation from the Municipal Art Society appeared and urged the board to lay plans for the building before the Art Commission. Controller Craig asked the committee's object in making the request, and a member replied that the society thought work of such magnitude should be presented to that body before the plans were approved.

"Do you want to make changes?" asked the Controller.

"Not necessarily," was the reply, "but the society thinks some changes might be suggested."

"We have been sixteen years trying to get this Court House built," said Mr. Craig, "and it is about time we went ahead and built it."

"We are going to build a Court House in this administration regardless of the Municipal Art Society," put in Mayor Hylan. When reminded that he had appointed the members of the Art Commission, the Mayor said he would not have named "some of them" if he had not been compelled to by the Legislature.

The new Court House is to be hexagonal in shape, instead of circular, as was proposed in the Mitchel administration.

Letter from Traction Employes.

The board referred to the Committee of the Whole a communication from P. J. Connolly, Acting President of the Brotherhood of Interborough Employes, addressed to the Mayor, requesting that an interview be granted to members of his organization on negotiations pending for a permanent settlement of their demands for a 50 per cent. increase in wages. The controversy was settled temporarily last August when the men received an increase of 25 per cent.

The board authorized the Controller to issue $1,016,695.25 in special revenue bonds to meet a deficit in the disposition of garbage.

The appropriation of $1,000,000 for a new building for the Department of Health, on West Thirtieth Street, was rescinded. The Hallenbeck Building, a part of the new Court House site, will be repaired to house the department.

SPEAKS FOR ARAB STATE.

Charles R. Crane Favors Recognition as a Permanent Peace Measure.

Reports of a clash between French and Arab troops at Baalbek, Syria, yesterday suggested the dangerous effect which might be produced in the Moslem world by failure to recognize the claims of the Arab State of the Hedjaz, according to Charles R. Crane, who is familiar with the affairs of the Near East. Mr. Crane said:

"Involved in the situation there are elements of world-wide importance. The solution proposed at Paris of putting all Syria under France, instead of strengthening friendly relations between France and England, would have a contrary effect. The Arabs would certainly resist by every means in their power, and England would be obliged to choose, with Egypt and India in the background.

"The Moslem world is undoubtedly unhappy at seeing its last independent State disappear. They accepted the reduction of Turkey as a necessary political measure, but if this is followed up by resistance to the formation of an Arab State the interpretation would be one of hostility to the Moslem world. Neither Britain nor France can afford to be put in that attitude. On the contrary, it is now possible to make a move that would certainly do much to strengthen the position of both of them with that world, and this is really the important thing.

"Emir Feisel has a unique position. He has become one of the outstanding figures of the times, and if properly used is capable of rendering the greatest kind of service for world peace. He is the heart of the Moslem world. His prestige and popularity are enormous. He is a confirmed believer in the Anglo-Saxon race, and is really a great lover of Christianity. He could do more than any one else to reconcile Christianity and Islam, and he longs to do it. He even talks seriously of wanting to have an American college for women at Mecca.

"It is of the utmost importance to the peace of the world that he, with this possible mission, should be in every way encouraged and supported, and should be given freedom of opportunity to work out his plans. With proper sympathy and surroundings, there is no danger of his getting adrift, or taking any big step, without Anglo-Saxon approval. Every doctrine and policy in regard to the Syrian State should be subordinated to this vitally important one."

BRYAN TO ADDRESS BIG MEETING HERE

"Comeback" of Colonel May Be Launched at Madison Square Garden Demonstration.

BACKERS REPORT A BOOM

Martin J. Caton Predicts Bryan Will Write the Platform and Name the Candidate.

The "comeback" of Colonel William Jennings Bryan is to be helped along by a big demonstration in Madison Square Garden prior to the Spring primaries on April 6, if promoters of the plan for the Nebraskan's return can manage it. Frank H. Warder, Secretary of the New York Bryan League, announced yesterday that he had written Colonel Bryan, inviting him to fix a date upon which he can address an audience in the Garden.

While there was no enthusiasm in evidence among Democrats in this city who heard of the proposal, the news was received with interest by those who recalled another "comeback" demonstration for Colonel Bryan in Madison Square Garden, thirteen years ago. This demonstration was held on Aug. 30, 1906, when he returned after a year's absence in Europe, and the Democratic National Committee came to this city in a body, together with Democrats from all parts of the country, headed by a big and noisy delegation of party men from Nebraska, to give Colonel Bryan a royal welcome.

It was after the big demonstration in connection with Colonel Bryan's return from Europe that the Bryan League, which now shows signs of revival, was formed. The first organization was effected in New England "to combat the doctrines of Hearst," who at that time was credited with an ambition to become President, and was bitterly aggressive in his opposition to giving Mr. Bryan the chance to try a third time for the big prize.

Martin Jennings Caton, a Pittsburgh business man, who said he sat as a delegate at large from Pennsylvania in the St. Louis Convention four years ago and headed a Bryan delegation from Western Pennsylvania to the Baltimore Convention in 1912, where Mr. Wilson got his first nomination for the Presidency, dropped in at THE NEW YORK TIMES office last night to say that he had just come across the continent and that there was a demand for Bryan among Democrats everywhere.

"That is true at least among the Old Guard, whose slogan is 'Give us back our old commander,'" said Mr. Caton.

"But he led his party to defeat three times," was suggested.

"Well, he is coming back and coming back strong," said Mr. Caton. "Bryan has been dead so many times that with him resurrection is but a pastime. Mark my words—next year Bryan will write the platform and pick the candidate and if he wants the nomination himself he will take it."

DRYS DISCUSS BRYAN AS A 1920 CANDIDATE

Talk of Anti-Saloon League Indorsing Some One of the Presidential Aspirants.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—Qualifications of various candidates for President were discussed by dry leaders behind closed doors today at the annual meeting of the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois.

Reports of the year's work of the organization were received from every county in the State.

The possible candidacy of William Jennings Bryan was discussed, but F. B. Ebbert explained that no indorsement of any candidate would be made at this time.

"The decision to support any political candidate will not be made until after the candidates have been nominated by their respective political parties," said Mr. Ebbert. "Then the indorsement will come from the American Anti-Saloon League, and not from the State branches."

JOHNSON'S PETITION IS FILED IN DAKOTA

He Enters State's Presidential Primaries on Platform of Strong Americanism.

Special to The New York Times.

PIERRE, S. D., Dec. 30.—The petition of Senator Hiram Johnson of California for Presidential preference choice by the Republican voters of this State at the March primaries was filed this morning. His paramount issues are Americanism, freedom of speech and press, and justice with law and order.

This places Senator Johnson in the list of independent Republican candidates.

The platform filed by Senator Johnson declares that "the recent exercise of autocratic power must be made forever impossible," and demands government by responsible party organizations. He points out the benefits of a really popular government as secured by the people of California and wants the same theories, so far as practicable, to be applied to national affairs. He takes a strong stand on the retaining for Americans alone the decision as to what foreign relations of the country shall be and stands against the surrender of any liberty of action or sovereignty of this country to any foreign power or people.

William Grant Webster of New York City today also filed his individual petition here for independent Republican preference for Vice President at the March primaries. He does not file a platform, as it is only expected of Presidential candidates.

PIERRE, S. D., Dec. 30.—Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts, who was nominated for Vice President at the Republican State proposal meeting recently, has wired the Secretary of State that he does not desire to be considered for indorsement at the March primaries. He is forwarding a letter of withdrawal.

Vice President Marshall, indorsed by the State Democratic proposal meeting, has not yet filed his acceptance, nor has Senator La Follette, Wisconsin, nominated by the Non-Partisan League proposal meeting.

William Grant Webster, a New York lawyer, formerly practiced in Chicago. He was once in the office of Robert T. Lincoln, and was a candidate for United States Senator from Illinois in 1906 and 1908.

He organized the Cleveland Law School in 1897, and acted as its Dean. Later he was a member of the Faculty of the Rhode Island Law School and the John Marshall Law School in Chicago. He was graduated from Harvard in 1886.

REBUKES LLOYD GEORGE IN LETTER ON IRELAND

Senator Poindexter Assails References to Politics Here—Sees No Cause for Clash.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Senator Miles Poindexter, of Washington, a candidate for the Republican nomination for President, today made public a letter on the Irish question. The letter was addressed to John Milton Freewater, of Boston, who had written to Senator Poindexter requesting a frank statement of his attitude on the question.

The Senator's reply reads:

"Dear Mr. Freewater:

"I have yours of recent date, and agree entirely with what you say about embroiling the United States in foreign controversies. You will note my views on this subject expressed at various times, particularly in a debate with Senator Walsh, of Montana.

"The talk about a war with Great Britain looks to me like the height of foolishness. Such a controversy would seem to be purely artificial, as I cannot imagine any semblance or shadow of a basis of such a question. What the future will bring forth will depend upon the conduct of the two peoples.

"Lloyd George's rather impertinent references to politics in this country, made in a speech a day or two ago, do not tend toward a friendly relation. We should keep out of British politics and Lloyd George and the British people should keep out of American politics.

"There is no more reason for the United States to become a tail to the British political party than that it should become so to an Irish party. Both are foreign to the United States. The time has about arrived when we have to select, out of the people of this country, those who are American and nothing else. With kind regards, very truly yours, MILES POINDEXTER."

DEBUTANTE FESTIVITIES.

Parties for the Misses Sage, Edson, Talbot, and Mabon.

A number of entertainments for debutantes were given last evening. Mrs. Dean Sage gave a dance at the Ritz-Carlton for her debutante daughter, Miss Cornelia Sage, which was preceded by a number of dinners, the dance being attended by several hundred guests. It was in the large ballroom and a supper was served.

There were 200 guests and among them were the Misses Beatrice Beard, Amy Starks, Ada Heinze, Dorothy Hall, Edith Gould, Helen Le Fetra, Isabel McMillan, Julia Quaintance, Emily Parker, Mary Borden, Jane Freeman and Sybil Kozminsky.

Frederic Potts Moore entertained with a small dinner and theatre party for Miss Grace E. Talbot, the debutante niece of Mrs. Victor L. Cumnock, and later, after the supper, the guests went to the evening's dances. The guests were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Murray Hall, Jr.

Mrs. James Brown Mabon entertained for her daughter, Miss Laura Mabon, with a dinner and dance at the Colony Club, several hundred guests attending, including the season's buds.

Mrs. Garfield Learned of 36 Gramercy Park gave a small dance there last evening for young people in honor of her niece, Miss Elizabeth Collier, and Dorothy Sprague and Doris Coe of Boston.

BRAGANZA PRINCESS HERE.

Former Anita Stewart and Children Come to Visit Relatives.

Princess Anita de Braganza, wife of Prince Miguel de Braganza, the Bourbon pretender to the throne of Portugal, which is now in the discard under a republican régime, arrived yesterday with her three children from Genoa, on the Italian liner Pesaro. She was greeted at the pier by her father, William Rhinelander Stewart, whom she had not seen for eleven years, and her brother.

Her mother, Mrs. Jean St. Cyr, was not at the pier because of the critical illness of her husband at Roosevelt Hospital.

The eldest child is the Princess Nada de Braganza. The others are Prince John, 7 years old, and Prince Miguel, 4. They wore sailor costumes with short pilot coats and brass buttons. Asked if he had enjoyed Christmas at sea, Prince John replied in perfect English: "Yes. We had Christmas on board, but there were not many gifts."

The Princess said she would remain in America indefinitely. She said her husband was in Switzerland, adding that his status was that of an exterritorial. She wore a long sealskin coat over a dark blue traveling costume, and a small toque of the same fur. William Rhinelander Stewart, Jr., denied there was an estrangement between his sister and the Prince Miguel de Braganza, saying they were much attached to each other. The Princess will stay with her father at 14 East Fifty-seventh Street, and visit her mother, who is at the Ritz-Carlton.

The Pesaro had thirty-eight first class, 351 second class and 935 steerage passengers.

BOOM FOR PERSHING REAL FACTOR IN RACE

Movement for General for Republican Nomination Assumes Strength in the West.

WOOD MEN SCENT A TRICK

Hint That Old Guard May Be Using Army Chief to Divide Soldier Sentiment.

A "Pershing for President" movement launched in Nebraska is of some magnitude, according to information that came yesterday to politicians in this city identified with the Presidential boom for Major Gen. Leonard Wood. While professing not to be worried, these men sensed behind the Pershing movement a purpose to cause a division of sentiment among ex-service men which has been represented as strongly for Wood while there was no other soldier candidate in the field, in the interest of some candidate with Old Guard support.

In Nebraska, according to the information, both a State and a National "Pershing for President" club have sprung into being, and a Nebraska University Alumni League for Pershing, which is booming the General as the "best-known American in the world and the greatest alumnus of the university." The executive officers of the league are Harvey Rathbone, Frank D. Eager, Ralph B. Wilson, and E. F. Pettis, widely known Nebraska Republicans. The league is flooding the State with campaign literature.

"We do not ask your money, but we want your support," is one sentence in a circular letter sent to Republicans in Nebraska by the alumni. This indicates to the minds of the Wood supporters that the Pershing boom does not lack financial support.

Charles G. Dawes, who was Controller of the Currency in the McKinley administration, and who during the war was a Brigadier General on the staff of General Pershing and General Purchasing Officer of the American Purchastionary Force, is supposed to be the principal financial backer of the movement. Mr. Dawes is President of the Central Trust Company of Chicago.

The entry of General Pershing as a candidate, in the opinion of Republicans here, foreshadows a fight to win control of the Nebraska delegation at the primaries on April 20.

General Pershing has bought a home in Nebraska, but it was asserted positively yesterday that supporters of General Wood, who has a strong following among Nebraska Republicans, will not permit the amenities due to "favorite sons" in their own States to deter them from making the fight. Frank M. Currie, who was a delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention four years ago, is head of the Wood movement in Nebraska, and the support of R. B. Howell of Omaha, Republican National Committeeman, also is claimed by the Wood followers.

"THE MESSIAH" SUNG.

Oratorio Society Gives Its 94th Christmastide Performance.

The ninety-fourth Christmastide performance of Handel's "The Messiah," as given by the Oratorio Society of New York during its forty-seven years, took place last evening at Carnegie Hall, before an audience that filled the hall to the doors and found satisfaction in the singing beyond any such repetition in recent seasons.

Frieda Hempel, whose voice thrilled in the sublime and memorable airs; Emma Roberts, refined in style though her first air was far too low for her; Morgan Kingston, an oratorio tenor to the manner born, and Frederick Patton, a new basso of splendid quality, received applause not alone from the house but from the chorus behind them.

The massed singers numbered about 250 well trained voices, and the orchestra was that of the Symphony Society, whose conductor, Walter Damrosch, directed throughout with effectiveness and enthusiasm.

Taft to Speak to Legion Members.

Major Gen. Robert Alexander announced yesterday that William H. Taft would be the principal speaker at the testimonial performance of the American Legion, Sunday night, in the Cohan Theatre. Newspaper Indictments Dismissed.

On recommendation of Assistant District Attorney Nielson Olcott, approved by District Attorney Edward Swann, Judge William H. Wadhams, in Part 6 General Sessions yesterday afternoon dismissed the indictments against the New York Times Company, the New York Tribune Association, and various individuals connected with those newspapers whoch were returned in the Summer of 1918, on complaint of Mrs. William Randolph Hearst. Mrs. Hearst, it was stated in the recommendation, concurred in the action taken by the District Attorney.

Ex-Judge Thomas O'Hara.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—Former Judge Thomas O'Hara, who during the second administration of President Cleveland was the Executive's personal representative sent to Central America to smooth out the difficulties between the United States and Great Britain over the Mosquito Coast of Nicaragua, died today, aged 63 years.

Ex-Judge O'Hara once refused the Democratic nomination for Governor of Michigan.

W. R. KING DIES SUDDENLY.

Vice President of Standard Oil Overcome in Subway Station.

William Ryerson King, a Vice President and Director of the Standard Oil Company of New York, died suddenly yesterday morning in the west side subway station at 103d Street and Broadway. He was 67 years old and had been connected with the Standard Oil Company for the last forty years.

While waiting for a downtown train at about 9:30, in order to go to his office at 26 Broadway, Mr. King suddenly collapsed. Patrolman William C. Plieninger summoned an ambulance from the Knickerbocker Hospital, but by the time it had reached the subway station Mr. King was dead. The body was taken to the West 100th Street Police Station, whence it was later removed to Mr. King's residence at 250 West 105th Street.

Mr. King leaves a wife and three children, Ethel, Olive and Percy. The son, who is a lawyer, with offices at 52 Wall Street, stated that the family physician ascribed the death to cerebral hemorrhage.

Born in this city May 20, 1852, Mr. King graduated from the City College and passed his entire life in New York. In 1879 he joined the Standard Oil Company as a salesman, and reached the position of Vice President some five years ago, taking charge of the domestic operations of the company. He was a member of the Catholic and Ind[illegible] House Clubs, the Merchants Association and the United States Catholic Historical Society.

The funeral will be held from the Church of the Holy Name, 96th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, where Mr. King was a communicant. The date has not yet been decided upon.

GENERAL T. H. BARRY DIES IN WASHINGTON

Ex-Commander of Department of the East Was a Native New Yorker.

INDIAN FIGHTER IN YOUTH

Veteran Languished When He Learned That He Was Not to be Given Active Overseas Service.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Major Gen. Thomas Henry Barry, U. S. A., retired, died early this morning from uraemic poisoning at the Walter Reed General Army Hospital, near Washington, where he had been ill three weeks, a sufferer from Bright's disease. Mrs. Barry and their son, Major Thomas B. Barry, were with General Barry when he died. The interment will take place in New York. The War Department will accord full military honors.

When the United States entered the World War General Barry was the third ranking officer on the active list of the regular army. Those above him were Major Gens. J. Franklin Bell and Leonard Wood. No one of the three ranking officers of the army was given active overseas service.

General Barry a Native New Yorker.

Major Gen. Thomas H. Barry was one of the "Old Guard" of higher officers in the regular army whose service, from the period of the Indian wars, through the Spanish-American war, the Cuban occupation and Philippines troubles, was so strenuous that they were declared physically unfit for commands in France.

From the moment he was informed that he would be unable to take as active a part as he desired in the greatest of wars, General Barry languished. He was assigned to command the Department of the East at Governors Island, almost within a stone's throw of the spot where he had studied for his West Point examinations as a boy, but the importance of this assignment failed to reconcile him to the ruling that he would be unable again to go to the battlefields.

General Barry was born in this city, and, although his duties as an army officer took him to every important country on the globe, he liked always to return to the city of his birth and to tell stories of his life here as a boy. Although he had frequently been described as an East Side or Bowery boy, General Barry was not born on the East Side, nor had he or his family lived in that section. He was born on Oct. 13, 1855, in a small frame house at 24 Thames Street, near Trinity Place, a site now occupied by a large business building.

As a boy General Barry played baseball in Battery Park and swam in the bay before the Battery wall was built, within sight of Governors Island, where he was to take up his headquarters in later life as commander of the Eastern Department of the United States Army. After he was graduated from Public School 29, at Greenwich and Rector Streets, he entered the Free Academy, as the City College was called then.

From West Point to Indian Wars.

His interest in military life was stirred at this age and he took the examination for entrance in the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. Because of a misunderstanding he failed in the penmanship test and was passed over in the appointment, standing second on the list. The next year, when Barry was 17, Robert B. Roosevelt, Representative in Congress from what was then the Fourth New York District, held another competitive examination for boys who wished to enter the Military Academy at West Point.

His easy victory over the other competitors helped him greatly in later life, because Representative Roosevelt passed along to his nephew, Theodore Roosevelt, the story of the brilliance of the boy from Thames Street. When Roosevelt was President General Barry was assigned to some of the most important army commands.

When he was graduated from West Point in 1877 Barry was thrown into the midst of the Indian wars in the Dakotas and Montana as a Second Lieutenant in the Seventh Cavalry, the regiment that had seen its commanding officers, including General George A. Custer, and one of its battalions wiped out to a man in the battle of the Little Big Horn just a year before.

His Services in Philippines.

His advancement through the grades was unusually rapid for his time, and in 1893 he was appointed Assistant Adjutant General of the army by Secretary Lamont. As a Lieutenant Colonel during the Spanish war he was Adjutant General of the 8th Army Corps and, after another short period as Adjutant General of the army, he was commissioned as Brigadier General of volunteers. During this period of active service in the Far East he was Chief of Staff of the American forces in the Philippines and an officer in the China Relief Expedition.

When President Roosevelt was looking over the army lists to choose a commander for the army of Cuban occupation and pacification his eye reached the name of General Barry, and there it stopped. The situation in Cuba demanded a soldier with the temperament of a diplomat and General Barry co-operated so well with Governor Magoon for the next two years that he won the praise of President Roosevelt and the members of his Cabinet. His work won his promotion in 1908 to the rank of Major General.

After a short period as commander of the Department of California, General Barry became superintendent of the Military Academy from 1910 to 1912. Re-assignment made him commanding General of the Eastern Department for the next two years. In 1914 he was sent to the Philippines again, this time as commander of all the American troops in the islands and in China. He was retired on Oct. 13 last, after forty-six years' active service.

SECRETARY BAKER TELLS OF ARMY'S DEBT TO ATHLETICS IN COLLEGES

BAKER IN TRIBUTE TO COLLEGE SPORTS

War Secretary Describes Army's Debt to Athletics in Speech Before N. C. A. A.

REPORT ON FOOTBALL RULES

Members of Association to Schedule Games Only with Institutions Barring Freshmen.

Secretary of War Newton D. Baker was the principal speaker yesterday morning at the fourteenth annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, at the Hotel Astor. With nearly two hundred delegates present, the largest number in the history of the association, representing over 100 different colleges and universities of America, the President, Lieut. Colonel Palmer E. Pierce, called to order a meeting which in the course of the day discussed every possible phase of college athletics and physical training. The subjects included army tests and requirements; reports of a general nature from various districts, and of particular committees on the football rules and officials; basket ball, track sports, soccer, swimming, and wrestling; recommendations as to the eligibility of Freshmen for 'Varsity teams, and propaganda for boxing as a collegiate sport.

Heated discussion of many of these problems carried the session on to a late hour in the evening, with motion pictures of muscular activity enlivening the interval between debates. A resolution was passed "that the members of the association schedule football games only against colleges which generally support all the regulations of the association, including the Frechmen Rule." It was on this subject that the greatest difference of opinion was expressed.

Secretary Baker, speaking extemporaneously, expressed the tremendous interest of the American army in college athletics, and paid a flattering tribute to our educational institutions for their contribution to the war.

"The products of your training," he said to the collegiate instructors and physical directors, "came to our military camps and acquitted themselves in splendid fashion. Had it not been for such collegiate training, our army could not have been officered so quickly and so efficiently. It was a contribution of inestimable value, and we would have to look to you again for that supply, if it were ever again necessary."

The Secretary then commented on the statistics of physical fitness in the army, asserting that 35 per cent, had been found unfit, and that this same percentage must therefore exist among the young men of the nation in time of peace. The percentage of unfitness was found to be considerably larger in the State of New York than in other parts of the country.

The American army, said Mr. Baker, was "the most moral army ever assembled on this planet." This, he explained, was not due to the mere restraints of discipline, but to the effectiveness of athletics and general recreation in counteracting mischievous and vicious tendencies. "Our soldiers played ball from Paris to the Rhine," was the way he summed up the importance of sport to the A. E. F.

"We carried over there with us," he continued, "American recreational ideals and standards. Men in the ranks learned to play games they had never indulged in at home. The mountain boy saw a tennis net for the first time. It was the wholesome and attractive substitutes that kept the young men away from the immoral side of life during their service in the army."

Men the Army Needs.

Mr. Baker paid a hearty tribute in this connection to such organizations as the Y. M. C. A. and the Knights of Columbus. He then turned to a serious consideration of the further recruiting of men for military service.

"Instead of conscription being needed for the army in peace times," he said, "the army should be made otherwise attractive. Higher pay is one way, but a bad one; for that would bring about competition with industry and result in the worst kind of a soldier. * * * Men should not be attracted to the army by financial inducements, but in other ways, by patriotism, education, training. * * * If a man going into the army now is not actuated by patriotic motives, as well as other motives, he should not be there. * * * Men entering the army now should be made to feel that the term of enlistment will be fruitful for them; educationally and physically advantageous. * * * It is planned to turn men out of the army in peace times feeling that they are soldiers, citizens and men.

"There never was a time when the world so completely belonged to young men as it does today. They saved civilization and civilization therefore belongs to them."

His concluding words were: "We should all fall in with the spirit of youth, find out about conditions that have debilitated the youth of the country and join hands in making a better citizenship and a better America."

A Plea for Boxing.

Following Secretary Baker, both Major General Bullard and Major General O'Ryan spoke informally, the former advocating physical training for the young women as well as the young men of America, while the latter discussed compulsory military training in New York.

Lieut. Colonel Pierce, in his opening address, laid early stress on the great revival of boxing as a result of army athletics. He made a special plea for the sport in these words:

"The educational features of this vigorous sport were used extensively as aids to the training of our soldiers. The great national academies teach cadets and midshipmen boxing. It is a manly sport, the educational value of which has not yet been fully made use of by our colleges. It is recommended to your serious consideration during the coming year."

Among the striking passages in President Pierce's address, whose keynote was the lesson of the war as to athletic training and the necessity for good citizenship, were the following:

"During the last year this association has assisted in securing the passage of laws in many States for the physical education and training of the boys and girls of secondary schools. Some twelve States have enactments to that effect, and thirteen others have the matter under serious consideration. This legislation has been made possible by the realization, which has grown up in the public mind, of the deficiencies of our public educational system in regard to physical training and hygiene as demonstrated by the startling results of the draft examinations. The importance of this movement cannot be overestimated.

Military Training in Schools.

"The States and the War Department, however, should scrutinize most carefully all propositions to give military training to boys of secondary and high schools. Unless the work is efficiently and widely organized and carried on by a large corps of efficient instructors, the time and funds devoted to it are apt to be insufficient and wasted, and the results unsatisfactory from every point of view. It must be admitted that for boys to drill in an armory, or even out of doors, an hour or two a week during the school term will not produce the good results that could be secured by proper training under efficient physical instructors.

"During the last seven months, through Federal aid, thirty normal schools, colleges, and universities have established or enlarged their departments of hygiene. In those departments more than 30,000 young men and women are receiving physical education. Many of them will soon be available as efficient supervisors and instructors in the important work of the physical and hygienic training of our people.

"All reports indicate that serious and successful efforts to make physical education a part of collegiate instruction, and all athletic activities directly responsible to the college or university administration have been inaugurated. In this connection it may be mentioned that the army has developed a comprehensive system of physical training and athletics based upon experience during the World War. This system is being demonstrated throughout the service by instructors trained in central service schools and is being included as a permanent and essential part of the program for the basic training of the officer and soldier. The army now recognizes that athletics may be conducted so as to have a distinct educational value as well as provide exercise and recreation. I fear many of our educational institutions are laggards in this matter.

Producing Instructors.

"It will be found as necessary in civil life as it was in the army to train instructors in order to develop efficient teachers of physical training. During the World War observation of the physical drills in our training centres and development battalions made clear the fact that physical education requires high grade, trained teachers, in whom certain characteristics of leadership are of prime necessity. It will prove of little value to have good physical and hygienic laws on our statute books if the agents for carrying out officiently their excellent provisions are lacking."

Speaking of football, President Pierce said:

"Certainly this much can be said for the present game—it is rough and virile, but not unnecessarily dangerous. It can be, and in fact is, as a rule, played in a spirit of true sportsmanship. That it is popular is evidenced by the immense crowds that have attended the games during the last season.

"There is a question whether or not our football committee has legislated wisely in making American football so complicated in its play that, to become expert, players must have unusual qualifications and long periods of careful training and preparation. However, I do not hesitate to voice the opinion that the Football Rules Committee has done a wonderful bit of constructive legislation, as a result of which collegiate football is now a safe, vigorous, spectacular game that develops in the players energy, discipline, alertness, determination, aggressiveness, and resourcefulness. A well-played game between two trained, capable elevens has many of the characteristics of a miniature battle. On this account the army and navy are especially indebted to the Football Rules Committee for the general excellence of their labors."

Among the more radical utterances of Lieut. Col. Pierce was one that "An effort should be made to curtail the number of contests between colleges and endeavor to minimize their importance. Certainly this should be done if thereby body-building and general mass athletics among the undergraduates would be greatly stimulated. I am not at all convinced," he said, "that this most desirable extension would result from the lessening of interest in intercollegiate contests. These naturally act as a stimulus to all forms of sport and, if properly directed and controlled, should prove of great value in our campaign for physical training and participation in sports by all students."

Part Gate Receipts Play.

The Rev. Henry D. Phillips, who was a chaplain in the army and represents at the convention the University of the South, spoke on the value of college athletics, but deplored the part that gate receipts and turnstiles too often play in college athletics.

Dr. J. H. McCurdy of the Springfield Y. M. C. A., who was prominently identified with the recreational work of the A. E. F., told of his experiences in the physical training of the soldiers. He said athletics on the other side of the Atlantic during the war played a most important part in diverting the minds of the men from other pastimes, which were not only injurious physically but mentally as well. Athletics did wonders for the morale of the American army, was his conclusion.

In the afternoon session reports were heard from President K. C. M. Sills of Bowdoin College, Dr. R. Tait McKenzie of Pennsylvania, Albert Lefevre of Virginia, C. S. Brown of Vanderbilt, Thomas E. French of Ohio State, C. C. Williams of Kansas, R. H. Motten of Colorado College, and J. F. Bohler of Washington State.

The first of the standing committees to report was the Football Rules Committee, represented by Chairman E. K. Hall of Dartmouth. Mr. Hall declared that more men played football in 1918 and 1919 than ever before, and that no meetings of the committee had been necessary in that time. He referred to the football in the training camps and to the record-breaking season of this Fall, and spoke also of the grave danger to the life of the game not so many years ago. His report emphasized the complete success of the modern open game, and guaranteed that no fundamental changes in the rules would be necessary for some time to come.

Wants Swimming Required.

S. W. Luehring, Chairman of the Committee on Swimming and Water Sports, made an exhaustive report. He advocated that one of the minimum requirements as part of physical education be swimming and a knowledge of artificial respiration.

F. R. Castleman, speaking for the Track Rules Committee, recommended a reduction in the number of events on the cinder path and an increase in the number of starters.

Major Mylin E. Pickering, Director of Athletics at the University of Pennsylvania, told of the success of boxing in the army and discouraged the practice of training boxers down to make weight.

Dr. T. A. Storey spoke on the extension of the influence of the association, and dwelt on physical efficiency as a national asset.

Dr. James A. Babbitt of Haverford College, Chairman of the central board on football officials, threw something of a bomb into the rather discursive evening session by implying a threat of resignation on the part of himself and his committee as a result of the hostile attitude of professional coaches toward appointments made during the past season. He spoke of "an ungraceful acceptance of defeat, and failure to substantiate fair and impartial officiating." He praised the work of the officials appointed by the board, but added that "the mercenary element is increasing."

A resolution was passed by the association supporting the board unqualifiedly, and Glenn Warner, speaking from the standpoint of the coaches, assured the members that he himself had never been dissatisfied with the work of any of the officials appointed by Dr. Babbitt's commmittee.

The subject of collegiate boxing was discussed in detail by Dr. R. Tait McKenzie of the University of Pennsylvania, who pointed out that 400 students of the University of California are now actively engaged in that sport. He advocated the abolishment of clinching, and proposed the publication of a definite set of rules for the colleges.

The Executive Committee authorized the publication of a complete rule book, covering all collegiate sports, and it was announced that a book on swimming and life saving was already in press and would shortly be ready for distribution.

Professional Football Decried.

Resolutions were adopted deploring the percentage of physical unfitness as revealed by army tests, and urging a far broader and more comprehensive system of training in all educational institutions. Professional football was also condemned as affecting players on undergraduate teams. There was much discussion of this problem, particularly by representatives of the Middle Western colleges primarily affected by professionalism.

The election of officers for the coming year resulted as follows: President, Lieut. Col. Palmer E. Pierce (re-elected); Vice President, Dean S. W. Beyer, Iowa State; Secretary-Treasurer, Dean Frank W. Nicholson, Wesleyan; District Representatives: Dean Lewis, Massachusetts Agricultural; Dr. E. C. Huntington, Colgate; H. E. Satterfield, North Carolina State; Thomas Blagg, Alabama Poly; J. F. A. Pyre, Wisconsin; M. F. Ahern, Kansas Agricultural College; J. J. Richey, Texas State; John A. Hunter, Colorado University, and Professor Howe of the University of Oregon.

It was decided that the next convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association should be held in Chicago in December, 1920.

ZOELLER IN FRONT BUT IS DISQUALIFIED

A. N. Akin Gets First Place in Feature Event at New Orleans—Many Close Finishes.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 30.—There has been a great deal of crowding and rough riding during the last few weeks at Jefferson Park, but one of the worst instances of the meeting occurred in the fifth race today when American Eagle fouled A. N. Akin in a six-furlong dash, and was disqualified by the judges. It is quite doubtful if it was a deliberate attempt at a foul, but the jamming at the head of the stretch was so plainly in sight of the officials that no other course than a disqualification was open to them.

This jam occurred in what was the so-called feature of the day, and there was little excuse for it as there were only five starters in the race. A. N. Akin had gone to the post a slight favorite over the horse which finally beat him out at the wire, but both had been well played by the patrons at the track. But for a stupid ride by Jockey Zoeller American Eagle might have won the race without question.

American Eagle leaped to the front the moment the barrier was sprung and remained there throughout the race. He set a fast pace for the others but was never more than a length in front of A. N. Akin. The horses were well bunched all through the back stretch and it was anybody's race until the stretch was reached. At that point American Eagle was leading by only a head with A. N. Akin so close up that he appeared to be in a position to take the lead when once the horses were straightened out.

Collide at the Turn.

Up to this point Zoeller had ridden with good judgment, but in making the turn into the stretch he went wide with his mount and collided with A. N. Akin, which was running on the outside. The latter was bumped so hard that he was thrown off his stride and for a moment was seemingly put out of the contest. The bumping could be plainly seen from the stands and there was a shout when the spectators saw that the favorite had been knocked back.

A. N. Akin was not through because of this mishap. Willis straightened him out, and by the time the eighth pole was reached he was again fighting for the lead. Zoeller meantime had found it necessary to go to the whip, and it was only with the hardest kind of urging that he lasted to the finish line. As Zoeller went over the line he had an advantage of only a nose over the contender which he had practically knocked out of the race. It was a stirring finish, as Billie B., which had been well up throughout, was so close up that he lost second place by only a nose. The three horses raced over the line almost abreast.

There was an uproar from the patrons when American Eagle was seen to have gone over in front, for the foul had been plainly seen, but this was quickly quieted when the judges called the boys to the stand and then hung up the number of A. N. Akin as the winner. American Eagle was placed at the bottom of the list, and the other horses moved up in the order of the finish.

Close finishes were the rule of the day, and it was difficult to determine the winner in at least four of the seven races on the card. The day started with a close decision in a five-furlong dash for maiden two-year-olds, in which D. Gideon's Fleer just managed to get home in front with the advantage of a nose over On High. There were twelve starters in this mad scramble, but it was a two-horse race from the very beginning. On High was first away from the barrier, but had not gone a hundred yards when Fleer was up with him and into the lead. These two fought it out all the way to the finish line, alternating in the lead.

Strong Finish by Fleer.

On High made a spurt at the head of the stretch, and had an advantage of two lengths at one time, but when it came to the final drive he weakened in the last sixteenth, and Fleer, which was always ready to take advantage of a mishap, rushed to the front and took the race. They Shall Not Pass, a youngster which had been unable to live up to a very historic phrase, was third. They Shall Not Pass, which was third most of the way and never had much to do with the front runners, was beaten for second by four lengths. This race brought out, among others, a lot of two-year-olds which have been racing for the greater part of the year and have so far failed to win a race. It was such a bad lot that the favorite, Modiste, went to the post at 6 to 1.

47 TO 1 SHOT WINS ON HAVANA TRACK

Sentry the Longest-Priced Horse to Finish in Front at Oriental Park Meeting.

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 30.—Sentry, the winner of the first race at Oriental Park today, proved the biggest priced horse to win at the local meeting. He has started only twice here, and has never been close to the long end of the purse. He was neglected both in the books and in the mutuels, and, when they hung out the price of $96.60 for a $2 mutuel ticket, a record was created for long-priced horses. Ormes had the mount on him, and, though he was a trifle slow to get into his stride, he came up fast on the outside and closed with a rush to win by a nose from the favorite, Hot Foot, which, in turn, was front of Donatello. In the books the winner paid only 8 to 1.

Buford showed some improvement when he galloped off with the fifth race. At the start, he was sent into the lead and the result was never afterward in doubt. He set a fast pace, and, though tiring somewhat at the end, C. Howard took no chances with him and put him under a drive to win by three-fourths of a length, with Lackawanna second, and Grundy third, six lengths back.

The summaries:

Sentry, 114 pounds (Ormes), 8 to 1, 3 to 1, and 8 to 5, first; Hot Foot, 111 (Crump), even, 2 to 5, and 1 to 5, second; Donatello, 111 (A. Collins), 7 to 2, 7 to 5, and 7 to 10, third. Time—1:02 1-5. DAISY WINS RACE ON ICE.

Captures North Shrewsbury Club's First Event of the Season.

Special to The New York Times.

RED BANK, N. J., Dec. 30.—Four third-class ice yachts of the North Shrewsbury Club competed this afternoon in the club's initial race of the season, known as the Commodore's race. George W. Bray's Daisy, with Oscar Brand at the tiller and Joseph Irwin tending sheet, was an easy winner in a thrilling five-mile race over the snow-covered two-stake course, which took the white winged flyers down the river and around a stake opposite Blanchard's Cove. The Daisy covered the course in fast time, finishing ahead of the second boat, Thomas Irving Brown's Say When, by one minute and fifty-five seconds. Mart and Oliver Haviland made up the Say When's crew. Andrew White's Brownie, handled by the owner and Burton Doremus, finished third, only twenty seconds behind the Say When, and Harry L. Ryders's Go To It, sailed by the owner with Lester Pierce tending sheet, was fourth.

The yachts were sent away by Vice Commodore James Hubbard, the Daisy taking the lead and retaining it until the finish. Throughout the race the yachts, lifted by the strong puffs, were sailing on a single runner, which furnished a spectacular sight for the spectators.

Henry Applegate had prepared his new craft Whim for the season's opener, but in a trial spin down the river she carried away her mast in a heavy puff. The stick was so badly split that it will have to be replaced by a brand new one, which the owner hopes to get ready in time for tomorrow's racing.

LONDOS GAINS CONFIDENCE.

Now Wants Winner of His Match with Demetral to Get All.

An unusual demand for reserved seats for the wrestling match between Jim Londos and William Demetral, Greek grapplers, scheduled for Monday night at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, was reported yesterday by Jack Curley, who is promoting the match. The seats were placed on sale yesterday and the demand for ringside seats led Promoter Curley to predict that the choice pasteboards would be disposed of within forty-eight hours.

Londos is showing promising form in his training bouts at Bothner's Gymnasium. Against his assistants Londos shows speed, a variety of holds, and an impressive ability to wiggle out of dangerous positions. His admirers who have watched him in practice predict Londos will throw Demetral. Londos has requested Promoter Curley to change the articles for the bout so that the winner will get the entire purse. When this proposition was first submitted to him Londos declined the arrangement, showing a preference for a division of 75 per cent. to the winner and 25 per cent. to the loser. His working in training, however, has given Londos confidence, and he is prepared now to wrestle under the original proposition.

MORAN WILL MEET FULTON.

Clash of Two Heavies to be Staged in Newark Jan. 12.

The first major boxing show of 1920 in this vicinity will be staged on Jan. 12 by the Newark Sportsmen's Club, in the First Regiment Armory, Newark. The card has not been completed as yet, but the management is planning a program which will compare favorably with that presented at the last show, which was an all-star offering in every respect.

For the main event Manager Dave Mackay has matched Fred Fulton and Frank Moran. Mackay has had Fulton under contract to box at his club ever since the latter returned from England with a number of knockout conquests to his credit. Moran affixed his signature to the articles last night.

YALE LOSES HOCKEY GAME TO CANADIANS

First Match of Tour, Played with Six-Man Teams, Goes to Dominion Champions, 10 to 5.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 30.—Yale's hockey team met with defeat but not disgrace in the first game of the Canadian tour here tonight, when the Tigers, amateur champions of Canada, won by a score of 10 to 5. The Tigers were not always in front and for a time it looked as though they were up against their superiors. At the end of the first period Yale was leading by a score of 2 to 1 and made matters so interesting in the second period that the result was in doubt until the third and last period was well under way. The score at the end of the second period was 5 to 3 in favor of the Canucks and shortly after the last rest the Tigers improved and soon had the score beyond the reach of the Elis.

The visitors did not appear to be in any way handicapped by the six-man game which was played throughout. They did some wonderful checking and showed even better combination than the Hamilton team, but they were weak on the attack, the majority of their shots being from long range, and the result was that many of them were warded off before they reached the Hamilton nets.

The close checking had the Tigers baffled in the early stages of the fray and they found it—difficult to attempt any combination work or to even break away on individual rushes. The Yale defense played well up the ice every time the team was on the defensive and the style of play proved effective despite the fact that it was more daring than the majority of Canadian teams would care to attempt.

Walker Weak in Last Period.

Walker, in goal for Yale, made many a good sto pin the first two periods, but the Tigers found that getting the puck past him in the final period was a rather easy matter. His work was more difficult than Reaume's owing to the fact that the Tigers did all their shooting from close range, Joe Matte and Cooper being the two men who did the most accurate work.

There were some real stars on the Eli Six and the good brand of hockey shown was somewhat of a revelation to followers of the game here, as the visits of American teams in the past had shown the Canadian brand of hockey to be greatly superior.

Ingles, the Yale centre, played a particularly brilliant game, and three of the visitorss' goals were scored by him. Carson, at right wing, and Wilson, on the defense, were two other players who created a favorable impression. The Tigers were not at full strength, but the substitutes used were all high-class men and the team was much stronger than any that the students will meet on the balance of their tour.

The Tigers were the first to score, a shot by Mitchell, after Matte had carried the puck up the ice, having results. Then Ingles evened matters up and before the period ended a combined play resulted in Carson scoring the goal which put Yale in front. Reise, the star defense man of the locals, went on in the second period and his presence made a vast difference.

Yale Again Leads.

Cooper evened the score shortly after the second period started by a neat shot from the side, but Smith put Yale in front once more by an individual rush and a shot which bounded in off Reaume's stick. Reise scored on a similar play, and Cooper and Matte followed with the goals which put Hamilton in front for good.

The last period started with a combined play by Matte and Reid, which resulted in the latter scoring, and then Ingles scored two for the collegians by hugging the Hamilton net when the play was in the Tigers' territory. Mitchell scored the next for the Tigers, and Cooper followed with three in succession, making the final score 10 to 5.

HARVARD ELEVEN HAS FINAL HARD PRACTICE FOR TOMORROW'S TILT WITH OREGON AT PASADENA

HARVARD PUNTERS HAVE EXTRA WORK

Coaches Drill the Horweens, Felton and Humphrey to Combat Steers's Boots.

TIME OF GAME SET AT 2:45

Coaches Hope to Avoid Excessive Heat of the Early Afternoon—Oregon Team in Shape.

Special to The New York Times.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 30.—The Harvard football team completed its last hard workout before the New Year's Day game with Oregon when more than two hours were spent at Tournament Field this afternoon. Nothing is being left undone to have the squad ready for a test considered as crucial this year as was the Yale game. Head Coach Fisher and Trainer Pooch Donovan say that they have done all they could for the team, and now the issue depends on the players themselves.

Practice was closed to every one today. Realizing that Oregon has a sturdy, long-driving punter in Steers, and one that Harvard must cope with if the Western team is to be defeated, Bob Fisher had his punters, Ralph and Arnold Horween, Humphrey and Felton at the field an hour before the remainder of the squad.

Steers's reputation as a consistent fifty-yard punter has given Coach Fisher something to ponder over, and upon Ralph Horween's shoulders rests the responsibility of keeping his team even with the opposing eleven in the kicking, although Harvard may abandon its customary method of punting on the lookout for fumbles by starting a rushing offensive with the first toot of the whistle and laying by scores for the uncertain, tiring second half.

None of the kickers have had extended sessions since their arrival, and today's whacking engagement gave them plenty of opportunity to limber up. Horween had little chance against Yale, being in play for only a few formations, but, judging his booting during Harvard's last two seasons of football, there is little reason to believe that he will let Steers outkick him.

Harvard is taking into consideration also the reputed weak defense of the Oregonians, and is firm in the belief that the forwards will be able to crash through and block Steers's lefts.

Coaches Eddie Mahan and Sam Felton were in charge of the kickers, and both set them a good example. Both Horweens appeared to get the stronger lifts, but Humphrey, who is acting as substitute half back, puts plenty of power in his punts.

Harvard Spills Oregon Plays.

Shortly after 3 o'clock Coaches Paul Withington and Derric Parmenter assembled the linemen and kept them on the move breaking through and blocking. The backs worked with Dick Wigglesworth and Tommy Campbell. Coach Fisher then lined up the team against the substitutes, who had the coaches as their associates.

The scrubs used Oregon formations, with Eddie Mahan impersonating Steers, Frank Johnson playing as Manerude, and Ernie Swigert as Huntington. The men found the 'Varsity familiar with their tactics and could gain only occasionally. Swigert is of the belief that Manerude is to replace Captain Brandenberg so that the Oregonians will have an acceptable signal snapper. In this event, Steers will be shifted to half back and Manerude will handle the eleven.

At the end of an hour Donovan ordered all to the showers. The temperature was cooler than that of yesterday and the men were found to have gained in weight, rather than lost, as has been the case right along.

The Oregon eleven had its practice after Harvard had finished. The work was along similar lines, punting. Huntington represented Casey, and Manerude posed as Murray.

Steers the Wonder of the Coast.

Coach Huntington put on a baseball uniform and worked as hard as any of his men. Trainer Hayward, however, held out a few of his charges in fear that they might overdo. Steers played through the whole afternoon without showing the least effect. He is a strapping youngster, five feet nine inches in height, and weighing at present 183 pounds. The Oregon star is being hailed as one of the seven wonders of the West, and will have to be kept under cover by the Harvard defense Thursday.

At the close of practice Coaches Fisher and Huntington announced the probable lineup of their teams as follows:

HARVARD.		OREGON.
Desmond	L. E.	Anderson
Sedgwick	L. T.	Bartlett
Woods	L. G.	Mautzy
Havemeyer	C.	B. Leslie
Hubbard	R. G.	Williams
Kane	R. T.	S. Leslie
Steele	R. E.	Howard
Murray (C.)	Q. B.	Steers
A. Horween	L. H. B.	Jacoberger
Casey	R. H. B.	(C.) Brandenberg
R. Horween	F. B.	Huntington

Time of Game Changed to 2:45.

The time of the game has been set back three-quarters of an hour, starting at 2:45 P. M. instead of the earlier hour at advertised. In case of an excessively hot day the rearrangement will not be at all displeasing to either team, as the suggestion came from the coaches, who desired to have their men play under more favorable conditions.

Not a ticket is available for the game tonight. To show how coveted the pasteboards are, an instance of an adventure this forenoon is interesting. The automobile which carried Captain Murray and Eddie Casey to Hollywood was stopped and the driver arrested for driving faster than twenty miles an hour. The traffic officer took the chauffeur's name, but no action is really expected, as Captain Murray, after a short speech, presented the man in blue with two tickets for the game, and was profusely thanked.

Major Pickering of the University of Pennsylvania and Horace S. Pender of Dartmouth, speaking for the graduate managers of practically every big university in the East, wired their best wishes to Harvard today. Judge William Thomas said that 100 Harvard rooters would leave San Francisco tomorrow morning. Practically every Harvard alumnus on the Pacific Coast, as well as Oregon graduates, are making a movement this way.

WISH HARVARD TEAM LUCK.

Graduate Managers of Eastern Colleges Send Wire to Pasadena.

The graduate managers of the Eastern Universities, in session at the Hotel Pennsylvania, after completing their annual business of schedule arrangements and other important details of collegiate sport, yesterday sent a telegram to Fred W. Moore, the Harvard graduate manager at Pasadena, as follows:

"Best wishes for good sport and good luck are sent to you and the Harvard team by the graduate managers of twenty-five Eastern colleges assembled in annual meeting."

WILLIAMS MAY RESIGN.

Wisconsin Football Coach Sought by Eastern University, Is Report.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 30.—Reports persisted in university circles today that Dr. Harry L. Williams, coach of the football team for twenty years, also is to resign to accept a more lucrative offer from an Eastern university. Dr. Williams is at New Haven, Conn. Small salaries and shortage of funds at the University of Minnesota are said to be responsible. One report connects Dr. Williams, a former Yale player, with the coaching position at Yale.

CRANREUCH 2D IS VICTOR.

Adjudged Best of Hundred Cats in Silver Society's Show.

Cranreuch 2d, owned by Mrs. E. C. Gerberich, which dethroned the king of the felines, Silver Echo, on the first day of the exhibition, was declared best of the show yesterday at the close of the seventh annual exhibit of the Silver Society at the Waldorf-Astoria. Cranreuch reigned supreme among one hundred cats which had been entered for the honors. He is three and a half years old, and has been declared the best of his class in various shows, although yesterday was the first time that he had ever been declared the best of the show. He won his first blue ribbon in 1916 when a mere kitten, and since that time has been moving up in feline society.

The judging yesterday was in special classes, and the awards were limited to the few which remained to be decided. Peg o' My Heart was adjudged the best female of the show. Peg is a chinchilla owned by Mrs. George B. Brayton of Brighton, Mass., and scored this victory only after keen competition. There were a number of fine females in this class, and the judges had a difficult time in reaching a decision. Peg o' My Heart had all the show qualities and made such a graceful stand that she was finally selected.

The best kitten was Greenwich Peggoty, owned by the Greenwich Kennels. This wee one is only six months old, and is as cute as anyone could wish a kitten to be. She is a chinchilla with large bright eyes, and for conformation had an advantage over the others.

The best neuter of the show was the chinchilla Winter Dai, owned by Mrs. Frank Bell of Winthrop, Mass. The best in the novice class was the chinchilla male, Wintarge El Farada, owned by Mrs. Arthur H. Churchill of Montclair, N. J.

The awards:

Best Cat of Show—Cranreuch, 2d, owned by Mrs. E. C. Gerberich.
Best Female—Peg o' My Heart, owned by Mrs. George B. Brayton, Brighton, Mass.
Best Kitten — Greenwich Peggoty, owned by Greenwich Kennels.
Best Novice—Wintarge El Farada, owned by Mrs. Arthur H. Churchill.

MATCH ROUND IN GOLF.

Seven Divisions Compete in Midwinter Tourney at Pinehurst.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 30.—The first match round of the midwinter golf tournament was played at Pinehurst today, all seven divisions playing over the No. 2 course. The favorites came through easily enough in the first sixteen, and only one match was carried to the home green. Donald Parson of Youngstown, the medalist, went around in 77 and defeated Wimberly Bowman of Aberdeen, 3 and 2. Al Walker, Jr., of Richmond County, the intercollegiate champion, also had a 77 and won from W. A. Kelley of Southern Pines by 5 and 3. Parson and young Walker are playing in opposite brackets and there is a good chance of their meeting in the final on Friday.

The second division matches were more interesting. Joe Hotchkiss, a New Haven youngster of 16 playing his first season of tournament golf, went out in 36 and won against E. T. Manson of Framingham by 6 and 5. W. A. Barber, Jr., of Ekwanok was 2 down to C. L. Becker of Ekwanok at the sixteenth, but won out at the nineteenth hole. W. S. Kimball of Fox Hills defeated P. S. McLaughlin of Ekwanok at the nineteenth hole of a match that bristled with stymies.

The hardest fought contest of the day was staged in the third sixteen, when S. L. Brumbaugh of Pine Valley defeated Nelson W. Peters of Englewood at the second extra hole after being 3 down at the turn. The summaries:

First Sixteen — G. W. Statzell, Aronimink, beat J. R. Blowker, Woodland, 2 up; J. D. Chapman, Greenwich, beat C. H. Banes, Merion, 6 and 4; A. L. Walker, Jr., Richmond County, beat Tom A. Kelly, Southern Pines, 5 and 3; R. C. Shannon, 2d, Brockport, beat Charles F. Lancaster, Braeburn, 4 and 3; Donald Parson, Youngstown, beat J. W. Bowman, Moore County, 3 and 2; C. F. Watson, Jr., Baltusrol, beat M. L. Fearey, Garden City, 5 and 3; F. S. Danforth, North Fork, beat C. R. Gillette, Wykagyl, 7 and 6; F. T. Keating, Spring Lake, beat Frederick Snare, Havana, 3 and 2.

TO RUN IN QUAKER CITY.

Glencoe and St. Christopher Club Teams in Road Race Tomorrow.

Teams representing the Glencoe A. C. and St. Christopher Club will journey to Philadelphia tomorrow morning to compete in the eighth annual Wood Block road race, which will be held through streets of the Quaker City under the auspices of the South Street Business Men's Association. The race, which in the past always has attracted entries from local clubs, will be started at 10:30 o'clock, according to present plans. Officials of the Glencoe and St. Christopher organizations have not definitely decided on the members of the teams which will carry the clubs' colors.

The committee in charge of the race has decided to distribute twenty-five individual prizes, two prizes to the runners registering the fastest and next best time for the full course, three team prizes to the clubs whose representatives lead in the point scoring, and a survivors' medal to every runner who completes the prescribed distance but finishes outside the prize-winning positions.

SEVEN YANKS ARE UNDER CONTRACT

Documents for 23 Other Players Mailed Out—Huggins Has a Battery of Murphys.

The internal squabbles in the American League have not prevented the Yankees from getting a baseball club together for next season. Secretary Harry Sparrow announced yesterday that seven of the regular players were already under contract for next season and that twenty-three contracts were sent out to the other players yesterday.

The Yanks have more players signed at the present time than any other club in the major leagues. The infield is signed with the exception of Baker. The players who signed two-year documents last year and are now in line for the coming campaign are Roger Peckinpaugh, Del Pratt, Jack Quinn, Ernie Shore, Carl Mays, and Walter Pipp. Muddy Ruel, the young catcher, signed a contract before he went home last Fall, so Huggins's worries are not going to be as heavy as some of the other club managers.

The only two players on the club who may be a bit backward about signing for next season are Frank Baker and Duffy Lewis. Both of these stars have said at different times that they would retire from baseball. However, ball players have said that same thing before, and, as these two players played good ball last year, it is more than likely that the lure of the game will call them back when the orders for Spring training have been sent out. Baker did not go on the Spring training trip last season, but, as the third baseman is always in good physical condition, he does not need as much exercise before the season opens as the players who take it easy all Winter.

The twenty-three contracts which were sent out by Secretary Sparrow yesterday include young players who have shown great promise in the minor leagues. The Yanks next Summer will have a Murphy battery, which may make quite a splash in the majors, if the two come up to expectations.

Chester Murphy is a right-handed pitcher from Seattle. He played last season with the Winnipeg club in Canada. The Yankees have already heard from Murphy, and he has made a great impression on the club as a letter writer. The young pitcher was so skillful with his pen, and told such a dramatic story about his financial wants, that he has already received advance money from the Yanks, although he has not as yet signed a contract. This Murphy, according to Scout Tom Connery, is a good pitcher, and the scout expects that he will make good in the majors.

The catcher on the Murphy battery is Dan Murphy, whose home is in Taftville, Conn. Murphy played last season with Toledo, and he is highly recommended by Roger Bresnahan. If these Murphy lads make good with the Yanks they should become popular in Harlem. Another pitcher of promise is Ralph Miller, a six-footer from Vinton, Iowa. This farmer boy is a left-hander, and last season pitched for the Regina club in the Canadian League.

Another player who is going to be taken South by the Yankees is Benny Geiser, a fence-breaker who was a sensation with the Downey Shipyard team in Staten Island last year. Benny can catch or play in the infield or outfield, and he clouted the ball at a .413 clip.

Secretary Joseph O'Brien of the Giants expects to be back at his desk next week, when the Giants' contracts will be sent out. Manager McGraw has only three players signed for next season. They are Gonzales, Art Nehf, and Fred Toney.

COMISKEY RENEWS OFFER.

Examination of St. Louis Gamblers Produces No Evidence.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—Charles A. Comiskey, President of the Chicago American League Baseball Club, today reiterated his offer of $10,000 for direct information proving the dishonesty of any member of his team after an investigation of rumors that White Sox players, in agreement with a St. Louis gambling syndicate, "threw" games during the 1919 season and during the world's series.

At the conclusion of a secret conference of officials of the team, at which two St. Louis men testified, Secretary Harry Grabiner announced that no evidence to support the charge had been produced.

"The St. Louis parties came here at the request of President Comiskey," said Grabiner. "There had been many rumors that they could give information of value. It developed, however, that they could tell only what some one else had told them, and they knew nothing we had not heard before."

One of the rumors was to the effect that three members of the team had approached the St. Louis gamblers with an offer to throw one game a week during the championship race for $200 each. Another rumor was that two White Sox players had wagered money on the Cincinnati team during the world's series.

Craw Joins Forty-seventh.

Andy Craw, former Brooklyn A. A. distance runner, who recently severed his connections with the Brooklyn organization, yesterday joined the Forty-seventh Regiment. Craw is training daily at the Brooklyn armory in preparation for the road races which will be held during the remainder of the season.

WOOD WINS TOURNAMENT.

Captures English Billiard Handicap Event by Defeating Downs.

The final game in the English billiard handicap tournament was won by Jackson Wood at John Doyle's Academy last night. He defeated William Downs by a score of 300 to 160. Wood played for 300, while Downs played for 245. After the form Downs displayed in defeating Arthur Dawson in the semi-final on Monday night, there were quite a few who believed that he might succeed in beating Wood, because of his handicap, but Wood was at his best and won easily. The game lasted twenty innings, giving Wood an average of 15 and Downs an average of 8. The winner made high breaks of 43, 28 and 27, while the loser's best efforts netted him 28, 21 and 17.

Wood won because of his exceptionally fine execution in making the in-off shot and cannons. He seldom left either of the object balls in balk after making the in-off shot, while Downs frequently left both object balls in balk after making the shot and was compelled to bank before hitting an object ball.

Round robin play was started in the pocket billiard tournament to decide the four handed tie for first place. At the conclusion of the regular schedule George Barton, Harry Holder, Edward Kirby, and Raymond Crane were on even terms. The play-off was postponed, because of the illness of Kirby. He has finally withdrawn, and Walter Wiley has been substituted for him. In the first match of this round robin George Barton and Harry Holder met, and the former won by a score of 50 to 30. Barton made a high run of 28, and Holder 11.

In the three-cushion handicap tournament J. Kenny, favored with a handicap of 4, defeated Arthur Widener, with a handicap of 2, by a score of 25 to 21. In a second game William Norton's handicap of 4 enabled him to defeat Arthur Peters, who plays from scratch, by a score of 25 to 21.

LEVINE TIES FLINN IN CARROM TOURNEY

Gains Joint Possession of Lead for State Billiard Title by Defeat of Servatius.

THREE-CUSHION STANDING.
New York State Championship.

Player.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
W. H. Flinn	5	1	.833
H. Levine	5	1	.833
A. Newman	4	2	.667
S. B. Burdett	4	4	.500
R. Naughright	3	3	.500

L. A. Servatius	3	6	.333
A. de Oro, Jr.	2	4	.333
L. D. Sacks	2	4	.333

Playing some of the best carroms that have featured his work, Harry Levine advanced to a tie for the lead in the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players' three-cushion tournament for the championship of New York State at the Rational Recreation Academy in Brooklyn last night. He defeated Louis Servatius by a score of 30 to 24. Three other matches were played and resulted as follows:

In the afternoon, R. J. Mishler defeated Leonard D. Sacks, 30 to 14, and Harold L. Turk defeated R. J. Mishler, 30 to 29; in the second evening game, Louis A. Servatius defeated H. L. Turk, 30 to 28.

Servatius, Turk and Mishler played two games each during the afternoon and evening sessions and all three managed to break even.

Because of the form he had displayed in a majority of his games to date, chief interest centred in the match featuring Harry Levine. On Monday night he had been ousted from the lead, after having set the pace without suffering a defeat until Leonard Sacks took his measure. It was then that William H. Flinn jumped into the van. Levine was out last night to regain the top if possible, and it was Servatius's misfortune to be the victim. The veteran put up a commendable fight, but Levine was in stroke, and when he is playing the angles as they should be played, there are few amateurs who can hope to upset him.

The showing made by Servatius surprised many in the large gallery. He was not expected to make Levine extend himself as he did. The game lasted for sixty-seven innings and each of the players made high runs of three. Throughout Servatius managed to hover within striking distance.

Robert Mishler made a game try to annex two victories and he was on the high road to turn the trick when he defeated Leonard Sacks, known now as the "Giant Killer," because of his faculty for upsetting the leaders and losing to the lesser lights, by a score of 30 to 14. It was a decisive victory and showed Mishler at his best. He seemed to be in such excellent stroke that few doubted his ability to win from Harold L. Turk, who has not exhibited more than passing form in most of his contests. But Turk surprised him. It took 102 innings for Turk to accomplish the feat, but he did it, and the score, 30 to 29, shows how stubbornly the rival players battled through that stretch of play.

YALE FIVE BARELY WINS.

Hamill's Two Goals in Last Minute Beat Geneva, 31 to 28.

Special to The New York Times.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Dec. 30.—The Yale basket ball five had better luck here tonight than at Grove City last night, for they defeated Geneva College by a score of 31 to 28, after an exciting game that was either team's until the last minute of play. Hammill played a star game for the Elis, and it was his two field goals in the last minute of play that won the game for Yale.

The score at the end of the first half was: Yale, 15; Geneva, 11. The locals caught up after a few moments of play in the second period, and it was nip and tuck to the end.

The lineup:

YALE (31).		GENEVA (28).
Vanslyck	L. F.	Stanton
Morse	R. F.	Thomas
Hamill	C.	Harr
Flynn	L. G.	Loeffler
Stanton	R. G.	Patterson

Floor goals—Vanslyck, 3; Hamill, 6; Morse, Harr, 4; Loeffler, 4; Thomas, Patterson. Goals from fouls—Vanslyck, 11 out of 15; Stanton, 8 out of 19.

Substitutions—Yale: Cohen for Stanton, Alderman for Flynn.

Time of halves—20 minutes.

40 PLAYERS SEEK HANDBALL TITLES

Metropolitan A. A. U. Singles and Doubles Tourney Will Begin Sunday.

A field of forty players will compete for the Metropolitan A. A. U. singles and doubles handball championship titles in the tournament which will commence Sunday morning at the Annunciation Club, 555 West 129th Street. This unusually large entry was announced last night when the committee in charge of the tournament held a meeting at local A. A. U. headquarters to pass on the names submitted for competition and arrange final details of the championship play. In the course of the meeting James Sarsfield Mitchell, former weight champion and record holder, was selected to referee the games.

The coming tournament will mark the first time in the history of the association that a district amateur handball championship event has been held. In view of this fact and the comparatively small time the committee had to arouse interest in the event, the entry list is remarkable. It is possible that additional names will be made to the list accepted last night, for several clubs have notified the committee that they have sent the names of representatives by mail. These tardy entries are expected at A. A. U. headquarters today.

The plans for the tournament provide for one day of competition each week until the tournament is concluded. Because of the fact that the day is convenient to the title seekers the committee has decided that play will be held every Sunday morning on the Annunciation Club's outdoor court. The court is a four-wall affair, well suited for the local title play. Given good weather conditions, it is expected that the elimination round play will be quickly disposed of and the finals reached possibly in four weeks. The draw will be made Sunday morning.

In the list of entries accepted representatives of the Annunciation Club predominate. This organization has nominated sixteen representatives for the two titles. Two sets of brothers appear in the list, one family being represented by three players. The trio are Thomas, John, and Adolph Badinelli. James and Charles Beakey will endeavor to win laurels for their family.

The complete list of entries follows:

Annunciation A. C.—Cyril Regan, James Dunn, Thomas Badinelli, John Badinelli, Adolph Badinelli, Robert Powers, James Beakey, Charles Beakey, Maurice Shical, John Lehane, Edward Demarest, A. O'Brien, Stephen McMahon, Frank De Witt, Carlos Henriques and Rene Manes.

St. John's Catholic Club—J. Duane, F. Berlin, F. Higgins, V. Kennedy, J. P. Moran, E. R. Kiernan, W. McCulliffe, and W. A. Shevlin.

City A. C.—P. Dworsky, H. Goss, H. Goldberg, S. Frankel, S. Stern, and A. Waldron.

Pastime A. C.—Daniel Shea, P. Ryan and J. McCann.

New York A. C.—M. Vernon and R. Dowling.

Mohawk A. C.—Julius Reicher.

Bronxdale A. C.—I. J. Liptay.

2,198 CLASSES TO EXHIBIT.

Huge Entry List Assured for Poultry and Pigeon Show at Garden.

Evidence of the stupendous task necessitated in conducting a mammoth poultry show is seen in the premium list just issued and distributed for the thirty-first annual exhibit of the New York Poultry and Pigeon Association, which will be conducted in Madison Square Garden, beginning Jan. 20. Conditions are explained for the 2,198 different classes, and the officials are probably justified in their statement that "there are more details in one Garden feather and fur show than in twenty horse and dog shows rolled into one." The work includes caging, carding and cataloging about 13,000 poultry, 6,000 pigeons, and a couple of thousand cavies and rabbits, in addition to returning them safely. For this host of live pets there will be thirty-one judges for the poultry, nine for the pigeons and three for other classes.

Entries for the exhibition will close Jan. 4 with D. Lincoln Orr of Orr's Mills, N. Y. This date, on a Sunday, is selected to accommodate the exhibitors at the Boston show, one of the preliminaries to the annual Garden fixture which attracts nation-wide attention.

Chickens, pigeons, turkeys, geese, ducks, rabbits, and tiny, smooth or broken-coated cavies will be groomed with the utmost care for the show. Farmers and other owners are now selecting their best stock, and none but the perfect in every possible degree will be picked. During the cold weather the roosters, especially, are watched with particular care to keep their combs in excellent condition. With the fur-coated pets, too, there is a great amount of grooming to put the rabbits, cavies, hares, and the cats into shape for such an exhibit as the Garden will offer.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Tone of Stocks Strong Even with Credit Tight—Rail Bonds Improve.

The pressure of year-end settlement operations upon bank credit was demonstrated yesterday in a call money rate which moved upward from 15 to 25 per cent. and in a more marked scarcity of funds to loan on time than had been noted during the preceding fortnight. The stock market had expected a continuance of high rates, and presumably because of the feeling that the last day of the old year would bring something of an easement there was a fair demand for industrial shares all the way along. A number lost ground, particularly in the public utility group and among specialties whose speculative quality had not been emphasized during the Autumn. Offsetting these scattered declines were substantial advances of oil, automobile, rubber and chemical issues, with American Woolen standing out sharply with a net gain of more than 9 points. Again one of the features of business was the lack of offerings, which might have been credited either to the theory that owners of stocks had them so comfortably financed that the money market bothered them not at all or to the supposition that traders committed to the rise were willing to pay an extremely stiff interest rate for the sake of later profits.

The bond market presented a rather singular study, showing the effect of selling in some directions, while elsewhere issues were being bid upward. It was supposed that amid these transactions was a considerable volume of sales for purposes connected with income tax statements. Interborough Rapid Transit 5s reflected in nervous fluctuations the uncertainty which existed in respect to the payment of interest Jan. 1, a condition likely to be altered through an announcement today. While railroad bonds displayed irregular price changes at the end of the day, it was a matter of comment that the demand had broadened somewhat both in the field of high-grade issues and among others whose low quotations had disclosed an obscure outlook. The progress at Washington on the railroad bills in conference hardly could be referred to as a direct reason for the day's improvement, inasmuch as dispatches noted that the committee members were considering less important features of the two measures. Events in the investment market may prove during January that high yields of many railroad bonds began an appeal to buyers even before the turn of the year, influenced additionally by belief that the railroad legislation to be completed before March 1 would not impair the status of funded securities.

The foreign exchange market acted as though persistently high money rates here were having an adverse bearing upon quotations. Sterling receded 3½ cents to the pound, the resultant rate being the lowest in ten days. Francs declined 16 centimes to 10.88 to the dollar, and the Belgian rate broke rather sharply to 10.85.

New York State institutions showed on that date resources amounting to $3,654,845,649, a gain for the year of $599,876,394. These records and others are contained in the 1919 edition of "Trust Companies of the United States," just issued by the United States Mortgage and Trust Company.

BELGIAN CREDIT RENEWED.

Acceptance Paper Again Extended at Rate of 5⅜ Per Cent.

The remaining $40,000,000 of the $50,000,000 Belgian acceptance credit was renewed yesterday for the second time. The rate for the renewal was 5⅜ per cent. The first block of $10,000,000 of these bills was renewed about three weeks ago.

This is the acceptance credit arranged by a syndicate of American banks for the benefit of Belgian banks and commercial houses last June. The credit called for ninety-day bills, with three maturities. The final renewal, which will be arranged in March, will mature in June.

Belgian financial agents, it was reported, are still negotiating with American bankers, looking to the flotation in this market of a large bond issue. The amount desired, it is understood, is upwards of $100,000,000, and if the credit is arranged, it is expected part of the proceeds will be used to liquidate the $50,000,000 acceptance credit.

This, as explained by a banker interested in Belgian finance, could be done by having the Belgian Government, which would offer the bonds, make advances to the banks and commercial interests which benefited through the acceptance credit.

Franklin Trust Pays Double Bonus.

The Franklin Trust Company is paying a profit-sharing bonus to all of its employes under a plan which has been in operation for several years. This is in addition to the high cost of living bonus paid by the company in each quarter of the last two years. Total payments have run from 10 to 20 per cent. of annual salaries.

RATES INCREASED BY RESERVE BANK

Further Rise on Advances and Rediscounts to 4¾ Per Cent. Announced.

ENTIRE LIST AFFECTED

Member Banks Urged to Prevent Unwise Credit Expansion and Relieve Pressure.

The Federal Reserve Bank yesterday announced a further increase in its rates on advances and rediscounts, which now places virtually the whole list of rates at 4¾ per cent., the exception being for rediscounts of agricultural paper having a maturity at the time of rediscount of more than ninety days, but not more than six months, which hereafter will be made at 5 per cent. The rates affected by yesterday's alterations were those for advances of not more than fifteen days, secured by 4¼ and 4½ per cent. Treasury certificates of indebtedness and rediscounts not exceeding ninety days. The previous rates were 4½ per cent.

Yesterday's action was foreshadowed by the announcement of Secretary of the Treasury Glass that the new issue of Treasury certificates, put out in anticipation of tax receipts on Dec. 15, 1920, would bear 4¾ per cent. interest. This statement was made on Monday and opinion in the financial district on that day was that the Reserve Bank would find it expedient to alter its schedules. Thus, there was no surprise when the change was announced late yesterday afternoon.

In notifying the member banks of this latest upward revision of rates, the Federal Reserve Bank sent out a letter last night in which the following statement was incorporated:

"It seems appropriate at this time to make a brief statement to the member banks in regard to the discount policy of this bank.

Nation's Debt Cut $400,000,000.

"During the period of active borrowing upon an increasing scale by the Government of the United States, the demands for credit for war purposes exceeded the amount of the savings fund of the nation available for investment in Government securities, so that the discount facilities of the Federal Reserve Bank were, necessarily, employed to supplement the normal volume of credit created by savings. It was necessary, therefore, during this period for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to give consideration in its discount policy to the interests not only of the Government and of business, but also of those patriotic citizens who anticipated their future savings in order to subscribe to war loans.

"Now, happily, the income of the Government has overtaken its expenditures and in the month of September there was an actual decrease in the Government debt of about $400,000,000; the loans which banks have made to their customers on Government securities are steadily being reduced; and Secretary Glass, in announcing the current offering of 4¾ per cent. Treasury certificates of indebtedness, states that the success of the issue will assure the consummation of the Treasury's plan for financing the unfunded portion of the war debt.

Single Rate for Credit.

"In view of the foregoing, and of the wide distribution of certificates to the public, it being estimated that not over one-half of the certificates outstanding are now held by the banks, the Directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York have eliminated the preferential rates heretofore maintained in favor of advances and rediscounts based on bonds and certificates of indebtedness and for the time being, at least, have established a single rate for credit at the Federal Reserve Bank, thereby greatly simplifying their future rate policy.

"While the Federal Reserve act, by lowering reserves, added permanently to the lending power of the member banks, it was not intended that the Federal Reserve banks themselves should be used to promote permanent credit expansion or for the purpose of obtaining funds to reloan at a profit in the general credit market. They were intended to facilitate emergency or seasonal expansion, and except for such unusual borrowing as war financing necessitates, the same principles which governed borrowing by banks prior to the establishment of the Federal Reserve system should now obtain. Nor does the existence of the Federal Reserve system relieve bankers from their individual responsibility to prevent unwise expansion of credit at a time like the present when the pressure for credit is very great. On the contrary, with the banks being gradually relieved of the volume of Government securities, which, directly or indirectly, they had to assume, the released credit should be devoted, as far as practicable, to the reduction of indebtedness to the Federal Reserve Bank, in order gradually to reduce the present credit expansion."

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Broad Market.

A new record as to breadth of market was made yesterday when there were transactions in 354 issues on the Stock Exchange. It is not so long since that anything approximating 275 shares was considered a big day.

Technical Position Strong.

If all other proof was lacking the strength of the technical position of the market would be indisputably proved by the manner in which prices have held up under the high money rates which have been prevailing. It will be recalled that when money touched 25 per cent. some weeks ago it brought about a market crash.

Six Per Cent. Return Necessary.

Considerable surprise was caused in railroad and financial circles yesterday when word was received from Washington that T. DeWitt Cuyler, Chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, had sent a letter of protest to the joint conference on railroad legislation, on the rate of return on capital investment as proposed in the Cummins bill. At the same time, Mr. Cuyler was reported to have asserted that a 6 per cent. return would be the minimum amount sufficient to enable the railroads to continue successful operation. The association has held right along that no fixed rate of return would be fair and this declaration for a flat 6 per cent. was at first misunderstood. In this connection it is understood that the association has adopted a flat guarantee by the Government of that percentage return because it appeared that the legislative conference was leaning toward the adoption of a fixed rate instead of a flexible rate fixed to meet changing conditions.

No Special Railroad Message.

Wall Street was also surprised yesterday when it was stated at the White House that there was little chance that the President would address a special railroad message to Congress. The belief had been general that such a message would be submitted within the next two or three weeks containing suggestions regarding the general situation.

Produce Exchange Circus.

Promptly at 1 o'clock today, the big trading floor of the Produce Exchange will be turned over to the year-end circus which that organization gives to the children of lower New York. Clowns, acrobats, dancers and all of the adjuncts of a real one-ring circus will be on hand. Trading on the floor of the Exchange will stop at 1 o'clock.

Little Improvement Shown.

The earnings statements of the railroads as sent to the Interstate Commerce Committee covering November, show decreases in many instances. This is not looked upon as favorable to the final operating figures which the Railroad Administration will have to report for 1919 and which it is estimated will show a deficit in the neighborhood of $325,000,000 to $350,000,000.

Rail Rate Increases in Africa.

With Congress puzzling over the railroad problem in this country, and trying to figure just how the freight and passenger rate structure may be rearranged to allow for a fair return on capital investment, advices from Africa show that substantial increases have been granted in that country already. According to the Railway Age the recent increases inaugurated were: Passenger fares 10 per cent.; packages and luggage 25 per cent.; goods other than coal for export and for local use that is not hauled 500 miles, 25 per cent.

Another Rail Contract Signed.

With March 1, 1920, a short two months away, another compensation contract has been signed by the Director General of Railroads. This was for $1,280,000 with the Norfolk Southern Railroad.

Interborough Eases Off.

Interborough Consolidated preferred and common shares continued to reflect uncertainty as to the outcome of the deadlock between the Municipal authorities and the company on the question of an increased fare. Rumors that the company's financial requirements as of Jan. 1 will be taken care of, were not reflected in the market action of the stock.

Average Price Advances.

The average price for fifty representative stocks in yesterday's market gained .14 to 88.49. Twenty-five industrials averaged 121.71, a gain of .46, while twenty-five railroad shares averaged 55.56, a loss of .17.

Heavy Trading in Bonds.

The turnover in bonds yesterday amounted to $41,542,000, the largest that has been recorded this year. By a strange coincidence it was on Dec. 30 last year that the heaviest turnover occurred, the total then amounting to $44,486,000. There was this difference, however, that the Liberty issues made up the bulk of the transactions in 1918, whereas it was the corporate issues which were in the van yesterday.

American Woolen Gains Ground.

The forward movement in American Woolen common shares was the feature of the trading session. The stock made a new high for all time at 156 and closed at 152 for a gain of 9½ points. The previous high was 149⅞, made last October. The statement that there was a big wool shortage appeared to help the stock. The company's shares were in heavy demand during the last hour.

U. S. Rubber a Feature.

The action of United States Rubber was closely akin to American Woolen. The promised extra dividend after the first of the year continued to be an incentive for buying the shares. The net gains for the day amounted to 3¾ points. This is another issue which is close to its high for the year.

American Telephone and Telegraph.

American Telephone and Telegraph shares closed yesterday at 95⅛, after at one time having sold at 95, the lowest price touched this year. For a long time there have been bear rumors against this issue, but thus far they have made no great impression. Recently, however, the shares have been selling steadily down, but without there being any large turnover.

Copper Market Improves.

There was good demand for copper yesterday, and the price at the end of the day was 19 cents, this being an advance of ¼ of a cent over the level that has prevailed for several days. There is some good foreign demand for the metal, which is being taken at a price close to that for domestic consumption.

Premiums on Steel.

Heavy premiums for early delivery of steel are being paid by consumers. These are reported to be running from $5 to as high as $20 a ton. It is the impression that there will be some sharp price advances by independents within the next few weeks.

Losing Our Opportunities.

A prominent banker said yesterday when questioned about foreign credits that it was practically impossible to arrange such accommodations now. Foreign bankers, he said, were going ahead and grasping all the opportunities that lead to power in world trade. Shortly, he said, we will find ourselves fifty years behind the times.

Need for Locomotives.

While it is quite generally agreed that domestic buying of equipment will not be large for some time to come, there is a big need for locomotives abroad. This is true not alone of Europe but of the rest of the world. It may be that American companies will share in the orders that must be placed. At any rate, this looks to be the avenue open for expansion.

Substantial Growth of American Industries

Business conditions recently have broadened the markets, increased earnings and strengthened generally the positions of our ably managed manufacturing companies in almost every line of trade. Selected bonds, notes and stocks of these companies reflect their industrial growth and are considered among the best investments because of their safety and yield.

NO RISE IN STEEL PRICE, SAYS GARY

Selling Schedule Agreed Upon by Industrial Board Last March Will Stand.

SAYS STRIKE IS ALL OVER

Corporation Operating at 80.6% of Capacity—Lindabury and Filbert Elected Directors.

At the meeting of the Finance Committee of the United States Steel Corporation yesterday it was announced that Richard V. Lindabury had been elected to the Board of Directors to succeed the late Robert Bacon and that W. J. Filbert had been elected to the place made vacant by the death of Henry C. Frick. Mr. Lindabury takes Mr. Frick's place on the Finance Committee. After yesterday's meeting Judge Gary in discussing steel prices said:

"Judging by present conditions our business prospects are good and satisfactory. We have been asked many times for our statement of policy in regard to future prices of our steel products. Obviously, no one can state with a feeling of certainty what action will hereafter be taken or decision made concerning business matters. However, I will state it is our present policy and determination to adhere to the selling prices of our commodities which were agreed upon by the Industrial Board at Washington on March 21, 1919. The demand is such that prospective purchasers would be willing to pay materially larger prices, and indeed we are informed they are actually paying them. But we think, taking everything into consideration, that we would not be justified in insisting upon or accepting advances at this time. If we did I fear it would have an influence in further increasing generally the high cost of living. This is a time for moderation, even at the risk of some sacrifice."

Judge Gary said that the corporation considered the steel strike to be a thing of the past. Some employes, he said, would not be taken back unless there was satisfactory evidence of their loyalty to the country. The corporation is now operating at 80.6 per cent. of capacity.

A resolution expressing sorrow at the death of Henry Clay Frick was adopted by the Finance Committee. This recounted that Mr. Frick had been a member of the Board of Directors since April 6, 1901 and of the Finance Committee since Jan. 6, 1903. He attended 183 of the 240 board meetings and 737 of the 966 committee meetings. At its inception the corporation decided upon policies which were somewhat different from those previously pursued by the management of large business affairs, and this he looked upon a bit doubtfully. Soon, however, it is asserted, he appreciated the force of the reasons presented and readily became a supporter of the idea that large corporations should openly recognize their obligations to others.

When the United States Steel Corporation closed its books for the quarterly dividend on Dec. 1 the number of common stockholders was 74,318, as compared with 73,456 three months earlier and 78,018 on March 1. The latter figure represents the greatest distribution of the common shares that has ever taken place.

The preferred shareholders in November numbered 77,910, as compared with 78,451 in August, 79,115 in May, and 80,344 in February.

America Lends Italy $416,000 More.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The Treasury today established a credit of $416,000 in favor of Italy. This makes a total credit of $1,621,338,000 for Italy and of $9,647,834,000 to all of the Allies.

"Foreign Trade through Foreign Investments"

An Interesting Comparison between July, 1914 and December, 1919

1. Cost of each $1,000 of Goods Purchased by Foreign Countries in the United States

	July, 1914	December 26, 1919	Difference against Allied Countries
Great Britain	205½ Pounds	263½ Pounds	58 Pounds
France	5,182 Francs	10,500 Francs	5,318 Francs
Belgium	5,182 Francs	10,300 Francs	5,118 Francs
Italy	5,182 Lire	13,000 Lire	7,818 Lire

2. Receipts for each $1,000 of Goods Sold by Foreign Countries in the United States

	July, 1914	December 26, 1919	Difference in Favor of Allied Countries
Great Britain	205½ Pounds	263½ Pounds	58 Pounds
France	5,182 Francs	10,500 Francs	5,318 Francs
Belgium	5,182 Francs	10,300 Francs	5,118 Francs
Italy	5,182 Lire	13,000 Lire	7,818 Lire

3. Cost of Foreign Bonds to Investors in the United States

	July, 1914	December 26, 1919	Difference in Favor of U. S. Investor
100 Pound British Bond @ 81	$396	$323	$73
1,000 Franc French Bond @ 71	140	70	70
1,000 Franc Belgian Bond @ 101	198	107	91
1,000 Lire Italian Bond @ 90	176	72	104

These three tables show that:

Great Britain, France, Belgium and Italy cannot buy from the United States freely.

Great Britain, France, Belgium and Italy have never before had such incentive to export goods to the United States.

It is therefore of vital interest to the commerce and industry of the United States that the exchanges should be brought back to a level where these countries can again purchase freely from us.

The purchase of British, French, Belgian and Italian securities should be extremely advantageous, because the economic conditions in these countries are already showing decided improvement; this fact and international financial and commercial co-operation on a large scale will make for consistent appreciation and final recovery of foreign exchange.

As market prices change so quickly, we suggest that those interested wire or telephone us at our expense for current quotations.

We shall be glad to supply the latest statistical data regarding bonds of all of the allied nations.

WHY no investor has ever lost a dollar of principal or interest on any security bought of S. W. Straus & Co.

V

"Pay-as-you-go"

Every first mortgage bond issue, safeguarded under the Straus Plan must be paid from the current earnings of the mortgaged property on a "pay-as-you-go" basis. Every year, from its earnings, the borrowing corporation must make twelve equal monthly deposits amounting to enough to pay off about one-twentieth of the bonds and also to meet both semi-annual interest payments. For example—

A $1,000,000 6% bond issue, maturing serially in two to twenty years, about $50,000 of the bonds being paid off each year. In 1921 will be due $50,000 in principal and $60,000 interest, a total of $110,000. To meet this annual prior lien on its earnings, the borrowing corporation must deposit each month one-twelfth of this sum, or $9,166.66.

This provision makes it the first business of the borrowing corporation to pay off the bonded debt, assures the prompt application of the earnings to the payment of the bonds, prevents the diversion of the profits to other uses, and keeps us in closest touch with the affairs of the borrowing corporation month by month.

Every first mortgage 6% bond issue in our current offerings is safeguarded by this system of serial payments and monthly deposits. Write for descriptive booklet covering these bonds. Ask for

BANKERS PROPOSE HELP FOR RAILWAYS

American Association Outlines the Steps It Considers Necessary to Prevent Breakdown.

SAYS CREDIT IS IMPAIRED

Guarantee of Operating Revenue for Six Months and Rates to Earn 6 Per Cent. Recommended.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—The American Bankers' Association through its special Railroad Committee announced tonight its plan for the return of the railroads to private control. The program includes:

Permissible, but no compulsory, consolidation of the properties.

A Government guarantee of net operating revenue, for six months after the roads are returned to their owners, equal to the standard return for the same period under Federal management.

Extension of the carriers' indebtedness to the Government for capital expenses—the extension to run from ten to twenty years.

The committee met here today, having been named ten days ago by President Richard S. Hawes, Vice President of the First National Bank of St. Louis.

A statement issued by the committee follows:

"The credit of the railroads of America has been impaired. Consequent bad physical condition and lack of equipment, if not remedied, will break down the whole fabric of transportation and endanger the business of the land. The present high cost of living would thereby be driven higher.

"Believing that the American public and Congress assembled will look to the American Bankers' Association for an expression of opinion as to what is necessary to rehabilitate the credit of the railroads of America, the special committee of the association presents the following recommendations:

"That we favor the return of the railroads and transportation system to private ownership as soon as practicable.

"That we favor the voluntary, but not compulsory, consolidation of railroad properties, subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, or such other board as Congress may establish.

"That we favor permissive Federal incorporation.

"That we favor exclusive regulation and control of the issue of stocks or bonds by railroads and water common carriers, and of the purposes to which the proceeds of the sale of such securities may be applied, by the Interstate Commerce Commission, or such other board as Congress may establish.

"That we favor a Goverment guarantee to all railroads, for six months after the end of Federal control, of net operating income equal to the standard return for the same period during Federal control.

"That there be an extension of the carriers' indebtedness to the Government for capital expenses to run serially for a period of from ten to twenty years.

"That the regulation of all rates that affect interstate commerce, of maximum and minimum rates, and joint rates and of the division of joint rates by the Interstate Commerce Commission shall be under a statutory rule providnng that the railway carriers as a whole shall be allowed to earn an aggregate minimum annual net railway operating income equal, as nearly as may be, to 6 per cent. on the aggregate value of their property as a whole, and that provision be made for the ascertainment of a reasonable value of railroad property for this purpose."

"The plan," said Mr. Hawes, "is designed to accomplish two purposes—to protect the investor in railroads—the bond buyer, not the stock gambler—and to insure the public adequate transportation."

ANNUAL IRVING RECEPTION.

Bank and Trust Company Extend Greetings to Their Friends.

The officers and staffs of the Irving National Bank and the Irving Trust Company yesterday entertained their clients, stockholders, and business associates at their annual reception in the offices of the two institutions, lasting from 3 o'clock to 6 o'clock. The visitors were shown through the offices of both institutions in the Woolworth Building, which include all the space on the second, third, and fourth floors. A feature of the reception was the display of the bank's advertising exhibit, which won the Traylor silver cup at the New Orleans Advertising Convention. FINDS SIGNS POINT TO MORE PROSPERITY

Committee of the National Chamber of Commerce Surveys End-of-Year Outlook.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Sustained industrial activity is predicted by the Committee on Statistics of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which today issued its end-of-the-year review of business and crop conditions. The committee emphasizes the hopefulness of the manufacturing industry generally, which, although encountering constant labor troubles and shortage of fuel and materials, has orders in excess of its capacity for production within any reasonable time.

"Among the vast numbers of retail dealers," says the report, "there seems to be a confidence in the continuation, at least until another harvest, of the present great demand for commodities of all kinds, because of the unexampled strength of the agricultural situation.

"On the whole, the farming communities are prosperous because of the high prices of their products, and their liberal spending is the backbone and sustaining power of the present volume of business in much the greater part of the country. The farmer is buying liberally and intelligently. He is buying more automobiles, more tractors, more poultry more blooded cattle, more farm implements and machinery, more gasoline engines and electric lighting plants for his dwelling and buildings. He is paying cash mostly and also paying off what comparatively few mortgages remain."

Of the general crop situation, the committee says that rain did much damage in the South and in the southern portion of some of the Central States to unharvested crops, reducing the yield and impairing its quality. Cotton was damaged, as were corn and rice. Rains in the wheat belt cut the area planted in the Fall to 25 per cent. less than the record acreage planted last year. The ground lost to Winter wheat will go to other crops, including corn and oats.

Great activity in building is reported in sections except where crop failures were extensive. Soft coal mining is in poor shape in contrast to the mining of hard coal. Copper mining is in a poor state. Silver mining is doing well. Oil production is good.

BIG JUMP IN GOLD EXPORTS.

$12,000,000 Shipped Abroad from This Port in November.

More than $12,000,000 in American gold was exported through this port in November, according to the monthly statement of the port's foreign commerce, issued last night by the Director of Customs. The exact figure was $12,110,147, as compared with $221,821 exported in November, 1918. The November imports of gold were only $1,230,283.

As compared with the previous year, November imports of merchandise showed a heavy increase, the figures being $231,808,185, as against $98,787,877 in that month last year. Little change was noted in exports, the figure being $232,322,158, as against $226,996,567 in November, 1918.

The total duties collected last month was $21,083,961 and for November, 1918, $7,390,250.

RESERVE BANK DIVIDEND.

Directors Vote Regular Quarterly Payment of 3 Per Cent.

Directors of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, it was learned yesterday, met Monday and voted to pay the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent. on the paid-in capital, which is now approximately $22,388,000. The amount involved in the dividend is roughly $671,640.

The annual report of the Reserve Bank probably will be made public Friday. It is expected the institution will show record-breaking earnings for the last half of the year. In addition to earning enough to defray all expenses and sufficient to add the legal maximum to surplus account, it is believed the statement will show a large sum paid to the Government under the franchise tax.

F. K. STURGIS RETIRES FROM BANKING FIRM

Ex-President of Stock Exchange Gives Up Active Career After 50 Years in Wall Street.

HOOLEY & CO. DISSOLVES

New Copartnership Firm of Brumley, Chamberlain & Co. to Take Its Place.

In the usual year-end announcements of firm changes in the financial district the retirement of Frank K. Sturgis from the firm of Strong, Sturgis & Co. is of particular interest, as it ends an active career of more than fifty years in Wall Street. At the same time it was announced that William T. Eldridge had retired and withdrawn from the same firm. Commenting on the retirement of Mr. Sturgis, George G. Haven, who becomes the senior partner, said yesterday:

> The retirement of Mr. Sturgis brings to a close an active relationship with Wall Street and with one firm for a continuous period of fifty years. During that time Mr. Sturgis was for two years President of the New York Stock Exchange, thirty-eight years a member of its Governing Committee, and forty-seven years an active member of the Exchange.
>
> Though Mr. Sturgis retires from active partnership and responsibility in the firm, we are glad to say that he will retain many of his associations with the financial life of New York and that he will continue to have offices with us. He remains a Vice President of the Chamber of Commerce of New York and an officer or Director in many other institutions.
>
> As of Jan. 1, the firm of Strong, Sturgis & Co., therefore, will consist of George G. Haven, Seymour L. Cromwell, former members, and as new partners W. E. Burnett, J. Henry Alexandre, Jr., C. C. Pell and George J. Little.

The dissolution of another firm represented on the New York Stock Exchange was announced yesterday in the statement that Edwin S. Hooley & Co. had stopped doing business and that a new co-partnership had been formed, under the name of Brumley, Chamberlin & Co. Members of the new firm are Frank E. Brumley, John B. Chamberlin and George H. Johnson, all former members of the dissolved firm, and Alexander P. Gray, Jr., formerly of Hobart & Gray. Edwin S. Hooley will be a special partner in the new copartnership.

A. J. Johnson & Co. will open an office for the transaction of a general brokerage business at 60 Wall Street. Mr. Johnson, senior partner in the firm, was formerly City Chamberlain. He will have associated with him Frederick W. Geer and Edwin G. Bruns, the latter as a special partner.

William J. Minsch, who has been sales manager for Lee, Higginson & Co. for some years, has resigned, as of Jan. 1, and will form his own organization to deal in investment securities.

W. M. Van Der Kieft and A. W. De Baum have formed a copartnership, under the name of Van Der Kieft, De Baun & Co., to deal in investment securities at 61 Broadway.

Lazard Frères announced that the following changes will take place in the firm of Lazard Brothers & Co., in London, on Jan. 1: The firm will be changed to a British limited company under the name of Lazard Brothers & Co., Ltd., with a capital of £3,375,000, two-thirds paid in. Managing directors will be the former resident partners, Sir Robert M. Kindersley, M. Pusch, and R. H. Brand and Granville Tyser. The other members of the board will be André Lazard, with David Weill as an alternate and the Hon. Clive Pearson, son of Lord Cowdray, representing S. Pearson & Sons, Ltd.

The formation of the Whitehall Trust Company in London was also announced. It will have a capital of £2,000,000 entirely paid up. Sir Robert Kindersley will be Chairman of the board of the new company.

The firm of Stone & Webster, which has consisted of Charles A. Stone, Edwin S. Webster, Russell Robb, and Henry G. Bradlee, will, on Jan. 1, add the following new partners: Frederick P. Royce, George O. Muhlfeld, Henry B. Sawyer, Frederick S. Pratt, Henry H. Hunt, and Howard L. Rogers. All of the new partners have been identified with the organization for some years.

To the Investment Dealers of New York:

SINCE beginning business January first, this year, LAWRENCE CHAMBERLAIN & COMPANY, as the "house of original issue," have bought and distributed (or are in process thereof) twenty million dollars of bonds and shares of industrial corporations.

This distribution has been made largely through other security dealers in accordance with premises such as these:

A major emphasis on the selection and character of the management.

A share in the management by the investor through the bankers by representation on directorates and voting trusts.

A fortification of the future market for the security by the selection of syndicate members who sell to "permanent investors;" by the widest geographical spread of the distribution; and by an ability to repurchase at fair prices. (The company now is prepared to bid, on the average, materially higher than the flotation prices for the securities they have issued.)

A more than equitable participation by the dealer in the profits of distribution.

LAWRENCE CHAMBERLAIN & COMPANY invite detailed inquiries from dealers concerning these matters. Through dealers and directly they offer their services as producers of capital to industrial concerns of stability, led by men of character and capacity,—concerns engaged in basic undertakings, under circumstances giving unusual promise for the future.

The Business Outlook for 1920

The past year has been noteworthy for the great demand in excess of supply for almost all kinds of merchandise. As a natural result many companies show the largest earnings in their history. There is no immediate prospect of this demand lessening and there is assurance that with proper credit arrangements for European governments, whereby they will be in a position to finance purchases in this country, the industrial prosperity of this nation will continue.

Many authorities believe that the basic industries, such as steel, copper, textiles, etc., will find a greater demand both for their raw materials and finished products during 1920 than existed in 1919.

The purchasing power of the dollar in all probability will gradually become greater, so that the income from securities will go further toward meeting the cost of living. The same applies to the principal of long term securities which are bought today with cheap dollars, namely, dollars of low purchasing power, and will be redeemed in dearer dollars, that is, dollars of higher purchasing power.

It is believed that the worst of the labor troubles is over and that the new relations between employer and employee will make for more stable business conditions, resulting profitably to all concerned.

In our opinion American investors can look forward to the New Year with confidence and optimism and with assurance that by exercising sound judgment they will be able, without sacrificing conservatism, to make their savings earn more than they have ever earned before.

The Bond Situation

For those who believe in the future of this country and our basic industries, there can be no question but that real opportunities exist to purchase long term mortgage bonds on extremely attractive terms. While it is impossible to foresee bond prices, nevertheless we believe that investors who buy now will later regard such purchases with especial satisfaction.

OIL OUTPUT FOR 1919

Despite increased production of crude oil in this country, consumption has made even greater strides. During August, domestic and foreign consumption of United States oil exceeded 37,000,000 barrels, or 4,000,000 barrels over domestic production.

Production for the first 8 months of this year totaled 244,127,000 barrels, an increase of 11,000,000 barrels over the same period last year. If production continues at this rate, 1919 output will exceed 370,000,000 barrels, or 10,000,000 barrels more than previous estimates. The increase is due to heavy production in North Texas and the opening of prolific pools in the Mid-Continent region, including Boggs field, Oklahoma, and Homer District, North Louisiana.

COMMISSION SETS COAL WAGE HEARING

Board Named by President Notifies Operators and Miners of Session Jan. 12.

WILL SCAN FEDERAL DATA

Settling Their Program Chief Aim Now—Operators Take No Action at Chicago.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Hearings relative to wages and prices in the bituminous coal industry will be started Jan. 12 in Washington by the commission of three, representative of the miners, operators, and public appointed by President Wilson under the recent coal strike settlement.

The commission, in announcing tonight its decision to conduct hearings, said that telegrams had been sent to Thomas T. Brewster of St. Louis, Chairman of the Scale Committee of the central competitive field operators, representing the States of Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, and Western Pennsylvania, and to John L. Lewis, acting President of the United Mine Workers of America, advising them that the first hearing was "for the purpose of having the miners' and operators' scale committees of the central competitive field present their respective positions."

Opening of the hearings, the commission said, was delayed in order to permit the miners to conclude the work of the special convention which has been called to meet in Columbus, Ohio, beginning Jan. 5.

Prior to the hearing of the operators and miners, the commission will devote itself to obtaining all available data from the various governmental departments which have inquired into coal prices and production and wages and living conditions among the miners. The commission announced that it expected to make public the personnel of its staff of assistants Friday or Saturday.

Work of the commission, which held its first session yesterday, centred today about the mapping out of its program and in arranging details of its work. There was no information as to whether the commission planned to visit the coal fields following the hearings, or as to the plans for extending the inquiry beyond the central federated field.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—No definite action was taken today at the second session of soft-coal operators of the country on President Wilson's Coal Commission, it was announced tonight.

We summarize as follows from letter by Mr. N. A. Macleod, President of the Company, and the report of Messrs. Arthur Young & Co., Certified Public Accountants:

BUSINESS. Atlantic Fruit Company and its predecessor companies for many years have been engaged in growing, shipping and selling bananas, cocoanuts and other tropical fruits. It is developing its cane lands in Cuba and by 1921 should be producing raw sugar from a new mill.

PROPERTY. Upon completion of plans now to be carried out with proceeds of this financing, the Company will own approximately 153,600 acres of land in Cuba, suitable for the cultivation of fruits, cocoanuts, sugar cane and other products, 24,000 acres of plantations in Jamaica, 132,000 acres of undeveloped lands in Nicaragua, a 300,000-bag sugar mill in Cuba, about 35 miles of railroad, wharves, docks, warehouses, etc., and a fleet of 12 ocean-going steamships with additional steamships under charter.

MANAGEMENT. Those who have been responsible for the success of the Company since 1915 will continue to operate the property without substantial change in policy. They have associated with themselves strong financial, shipping and sugar interests which will be represented on the Board of Directors by W. A. Harriman of W. A. Harriman & Co., Inc., Marine Securities; H. O. Havemeyer of Havemeyer & Elder, Inc.; Thomas A. Howell, Vice-President, The Cuban-American Sugar Co.; Sir John Pringle, K. C. M. G., Jamaica, W. I.; P. A. Rockefeller, 26 Broadway.

EARNINGS. Operating profits as certified to by Messrs. Arthur Young & Co., for the four years and nine months ended September 30, 1919, have averaged $1,470,000 per annum. For the last nine months of this period operating profits were $2,641,720, and for the calender year 1920 are estimated at approximately $3,500,000, equivalent to five times the interest charges on the $10,000,000 7% Debentures, and leaving a balance, after provision for interest and estimated taxes, of about $5 per share on the outstanding Common Stock.

SINKING FUND. A fixed annual Sinking Fund of 3% of largest amount of Debentures ever issued (minimum $300,000), first payment on or before March 1, 1923, will buy Debentures at not exceeding the redemption price, or will call by lot. An additional annual Sinking Fund of 10% of net earnings after payment of operating expenses, interest, taxes and Fixed Sinking Fund, will be applied in like manner.

When, as and if issued and received by us, temporary bonds will be delivered on or about January 5th exchangeable for permanent engraved bonds when ready

Application will be made to list the Debenture Bonds and Common Stock on the New York Stock Exchange

GARY FAVORS LAWS AS INDUSTRIAL CURB

Thinks Voluntary Arbitration Is Inadequate for the Protection of the Public.

TO STUDY CONFEREES' PLAN

He Defers Judgment Upon It, Expressing the Hope That It May Bring Industrial Peace.

The public's remedy against imposition on the part of either capital or labor lies in the establishment and administration of laws having complete jurisdiction over both groups, according to Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Board of the United States Steel Corporation. Voluntary arbitration he considers is not adequate to meet the situation. This was brought out yesterday when he was asked to comment on the report of President Wilson's industrial conference which has been in session at Washington during the last few weeks. At the time of the previous industrial conference Judge Gary was a member of the public group.

"I have little to say at present concerning the plan for settlement of labor disputes reported by the President's industrial conference," said Judge Gary yesterday. "I shall endeavor to take the time to go over it carefully before reaching a final conclusion. It is to be hoped that whatever organization shall be agreed upon it will be made up of competent, disinterested and unprejudiced men, who will secure the confidence of the entire public, and that serious industrial disputes may be avoided as the result."

Speaking of recent strikes, Judge Gary said:

"In few, if any, cases has there been any serious trouble between the managers of industry and the employes generally, or any reasonable claims on the part of the majority of the employes for higher wages or more favorable living or working conditions which were not promptly and mutually adjusted. In fact, for a long time, the employes in this country have been receiving larger compensation and better working and living conditions than ever before. The large majority of the employes of this country, probably not less than 85 per cent., are not members of labor unions and are satisfied with their working conditions. If any have good reason for complaint the employers, when informed, must and will furnish a prompt and adequate remedy. I do not at this time wish to discuss the merits or demerits of labor unions. The public generally must know that in the past they have, in proportion to their influence, decreased production, added to costs and raised the expense of living.

"I venture the assertion that if the public is disposed to obsolutely protect every one against imposition on the part of capital or labor, it should not depend upon voluntary arbitration, but should establish and administer laws which will have complete jurisdiction over both groups of citizens, and then rely upon the continuance, without interruption, of the enforcement of law and order, so that every individual or interest shall be protected in freedom of action or non-action, so long as there is no opposition to any of the statutes in force."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Opposition to recommendations of the President's industrial conference was expressed today by Luther C. Steward, President of the National Federation of Federal Employes, which he said, was assisting to rebuild the Government machinery on a business-like basis and expected fair treatment, "not oppressive measures," in return.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER—Receipts 7,293 packages. Market ruling steady on most grades of fresh creamery, with supply a little larger, but demand fair. Buyers are selecting closely, however, when paying the top figures. Some Danish butter here selling at 70@71c. Storage creamery quiet. Ladies and packing stock unchanged. Creamery, higher than extras, lb., 71½@72c; extras, 92 score, 71c; firsts, 90 to 91 score, 64½@69½c; firsts, 88 to 89 score, 61@63½c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 56@60c; held, higher than extras, 69c; held, extras, 67½@68c; held, firsts, 60@65½c; seconds, 56@59c; unsalted, higher than extras, 74@75c; extras, 72½@73½c; firsts, 63@70c; seconds, 58@62c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 69@70c; good to prime, 61@67c; common to fair, 52@60c; renovated, extras, 57½@58c; firsts, 56@56½c; imitation creamery, firsts, 52@53c; ladies, current make, firsts, 50@50½c; seconds, 48@48½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 48c; No. 2, 47c; lower grades, 44@46c.

EGGS—Receipts 10,106 packages. Market for fresh gathered eggs continues unsettled. The decline of Monday was followed by the recovery to the former range of prices, but the market closed somewhat unsettled. The trading reported is fairly covered by revised quotations. There is a fair demand for desirable qualities, but a dull market for ordinary and undergrade stock. Storage eggs are steady and without material change. There is continued very free offering of average prime qualities and pressure to sell the undergrades at reasonable offers. White eggs generally steady in the higher grades; lower qualities irregular. Fresh gathered extras, per dozen, 75c; extra firsts, 73@74c; firsts, 71@72c; seconds and poorer, 60@70c; fresh gathered dirties, No. 1, 56@58c; checks, good to choice dry, 46@48c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, charges paid, 54@56c; firsts, 52@53½c; seconds, 51c; undergrades, 30@45c; sterilized, 55@60c; dirties, 38@44c; checks, 30@38c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery whites, extras, 81@82c; firsts to extra firsts, 77@80c; undergrades, 72@76c.

COTTON QUOTATIONS AGAIN MOVE UPWARD

Market Starts with a Rise, Then Tumbles, and in Late Trading Regains Its Strength.

LIVERPOOL AFFECTS PRICES

Spot Demand in English Centres Causes Big Gains—Money Rates Have Little Influence.

The continued strength at Liverpool, where prices have been going up sharply for the last two days, caused our cotton market to open up yesterday and on the early bulge prices rose 25 to 35 points before any reaction at all occurred. Then, on some fairly heavy profit-taking and some liquidation of long contracts by foreign interests, prices fell off to about where they had closed on Monday. January sold at a net decline of slightly more than 20 points at one time, but the other options held somewhat more firmly. In the afternoon the market turned strong again and rose to the day's high levels, showing gains in some months of as much as 50 points. At the close most of the late gains were retained.

The strength abroad, which dominated our market yesterday, was due to the extreme bullishness of the British goods trade. Reports from Manchester spoke of a big demand for goods of all kinds, accompanied by rising prices, and there appeared to be a good deal of enthusiasm in the Liverpool futures market, where Monday's closing gain of 58 to 82 points was followed yesterday by another substantial advance, some options going up as much as 45 to 64 points additionally. The spot market there was again strong, Monday's rise over the previous Wednesday of 82 English points being topped by an extra 42 points, making a gain since the middle of last week, when the Liverpool market closed for the Christmas holidays, of 124 English points, or the equivalent of nearly 2½ cents a pound in this market.

High money rates and lower exchanges yesterday appeared to have little influence on the cotton price movement, although they probably did play some part in restricting the volume of trade. The lower exchanges have long since lost most of their terror to cotton traders, but the higher money rates are likely to restrict outside interest in the market.

There were no export clearances reported yesterday, but with 89,559 bales going out on Sunday and Monday, there is likely to be no material falling off in the outward movement this week.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.
Jan.	37.85	38.00	37.48	37.88	37.70

A Field for American Goods

EGYPT, famed for its antiquity, now pulses with the spirit of modern industry. Cultivating the long staple cotton which is its chief source of income, it is investing the proceeds in manufactured goods from other countries. During the first six months of 1919 its exports totalled $113,458,33 and its imports amounted to $96,331,032.

With its growing need for building materials, furniture, glassware, iron, steel, meat, flour and foodstuffs in general, the Egyptian market offers immense possibilities to American manufacturers.

The Bank of British West Africa, through its branch in Alexandria, offers complete and direct facilities to this field. We maintain branches also in Morocco, Canary Islands, Gambia, Sierra Leone, Liberia, French Ivory Coast, Gold Coast and Ashanti, Togoland, Nigeria and Fernando Po.

Our New York office will be glad to supply you with every banking assistance in cultivating these markets.

257 Broadway—Opposite City Hall

CITY HALL PARK is replete with incidents in American history. The early Indians met here in solemn pow-wow; the colonists expressed their belief here that all men are created free and equal; the first American armies camped here; Washington first heard the Declaration of Independence here; Nathan Hale cheerfully gave the only life he had to give for his country; famous visitors, from Lafayette to the Prince of Wales, were received here; the opening of the Erie Canal, the Croton water system and the Atlantic Cable were celebrated here; the first spadeful of earth for the first New York Subway was turned here.

Some of these incidents occurred since the organization of the Atlantic National Bank in 1829. For 90 years this institution, which faces this historic ground, has been in the service of New York business men. It enters the last decade of a century of existence with a forward-looking spirit, a service which is personal and equipment entirely modern.

FRENCH SENATE FOR LOAN.

Unanimous in Approval of Chamber Measure—Votes Credits, Too.

PARIS, Dec. 30.—The Senate today unanimously voted the Government credits for three months and approved the new loan bill passed by the Chamber of Deputies yesterday, providing for the issuance of 5 per cent. bonds redeemable during sixty years, with drawings every six months to designate the bonds to be redeemed in each half yearly period.

Discussing the loan Alexandre Ribot asked Premier Clemenceau regarding the guaranteeing of the German indemnity by the Allies. The Premier replied: "That cannot be taken up now because of the situation at Washington."

M. Ribot commented: "I hope that when we have put order in our finances our Allies will consent to aid us, or rather to stand their share of the defense of the common cause."

DECREASE REVEALED IN CLOTHING PRICES

Men's Apparel More Costly at Retail, However, Than During Week of Nov. 17.

WOMEN'S WEAR CHEAPER

Fourteen Grocery Items Sell for Less, Food Administrator Williams Announces.

Federal Food Administrator Arthur Williams said yesterday that there was an increase in the local retail price of men's clothing last week as compared with the week of Nov. 17, and a decrease in the price of women's clothing for the same period. He said that figures furnished him by Colonel Michael Friedsam, Chairman of the Fair Price Committee's Sub-committee on Clothing, show that if a person shopped around he could buy an outfit for a man, woman and child for $10.94 less than he could have done on Nov. 17. On Nov. 17 it would have cost $238.09 to buy outfits for the three, as compared with $227.15 last week.

On Nov. 17 an overcoat, suit, shoes, hosiery and underwear for a man could have been purchased for $51.27, but on Dec. 28 the same articles would have cost $68.53, Mr. Williams said. The average price for such articles on Nov. 17 was $88.89, as compared with $96.24 last week. Boys' equipment also showed an increase in the same period from $17.05 to $22.05 for the lowest priced and an increase on the average from $28.40 to $30.60.

A skirt, dress, coat, shoes, hosiery and underwear decreased in price from $64.66 on Nov. 17 to $58.35 on Dec. 28.

The following price list was given out by Mr. Williams as the prevailing prices in leading stores:

FOR MEN.
Men's suits	$29.50 to $55.00
Men's overcoats	29.50 to 55.00
Men's shoes	7.50 to 11.75
Men's hosiery	.59 to .75
Men's underwear	1.44
FOR BOYS.
Boys' suits	9.50 to 13.50
Boys' shoes	2.95 to 6.00
Boys' overcoats	10.50 to 18.75
FOR WOMEN.
Women's suits	18.74 to 39.50
Women's dresses	15.50 to 45.00
Coats	15.00 to 45.00
Shoes	6.89 to 9.45
Underwear	.56 to 1.47
Hosiery	1.66 to 1.85

Mr. Williams also announced that there had been a decrease in fourteen grocery items and an increase in three items from Sept. 2 to Dec. 29, exclusive of sugar, butter and eggs. Meats also have shown a decrease, he said, with the exception of lamb. It was announced yesterday that beginning yesterday afternoon special New Year's packages containing nine different commodities will be offered for sale at the Army Quartermaster Retail Store No. 1, 45 Lafayette Street. The price of each package will be $1.91.

MORE SIMMS CO. STOCK.

Petroleum Concern Approves Plan to Increase Capital.

The stockholders of the Simms Petroleum Company have approved a plan to increase the authorized capital stock from 500,000 to 1,000,000 shares without par value. The ratification was made by a vote of more than 340,000 shares. Stockholders of record Jan. 15 will be offered an opportunity to subscribe for additional stock at $47.50 a share in the proportion of one new share for each two shares of old stock. When the plan has been carried through the company will have outstanding 751,500 shares, as compared with 425,000 at the present time.

The new financing is for the purpose of handling the large production which has been developed in the West Texas and the Homer fields and the acquisition of 125,000 acres of leaseholds in other sections of Louisiana. After the acquisition the company will have in its Treasury about $7,000,000. Knauth, Nachod & Kuhn will underwrite the entire issue of new stock.

ASKS $50,000,000 GAS ISSUE.

Consolidated Company Plans Equal Amount of Stock and Bonds.

The Consolidated Gas Company, which is seeking to have the law fixing eighty cents as the maximum charge for gas declared unconstitutional, applied to the Public Service Commission yesterday for permission to issue for refunding purposes $25,000,000 of five-year 7 per cent. convertible gold bonds and for an issue of 250,000 shares of stock at a par value of $25,000,000 into which the bonds can be converted.

If the bond issue is permitted the company will use $24,272,247.50 of the amount to discharge the company's issue of 6 per cent. convertible debentures which mature Feb. 1 next; $568,000 for the acquisition at par of the capital stock of the New York Edison Company, and $153,752.50 for the replacement of moneys expended from income to make up the deficiency necessary to discharge collateral trust and demand notes.

FINDS BUS LINES LEGAL.

Corporation Counsel Burr Declares City May Operate Motor System.

An oral opinion that the city had the legal right, under the Home Rule act of 1913, to operate motor busses was delivered to the Board of Estimate yesterday by Corporation Counsel Burr. A written opinion on the same line will be ready for the board on Jan. 9.

The board authorized Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, to continue the operation of the present bus lines until July 1, 1920.

Women War Workers Honored.

Five women prominent in war work and other patriotic activities were added to the Board of Directors and the Executive Committee of the Victory Hall Association at a meeting of the Directors in the rooms of the association at 4 East Forty-third Street yesterday afternoon. They are Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Mrs. Charles C. Rumsey, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip.

Union Bank Judgments Reversed.

Two judgments in favor of depositors of the Union Bank of Brooklyn were reversed yesterday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, one for $18,160 against William A. Main, and the other for $80,121 against the Home Bank of Brooklyn. Both defendants were sued as stockholders for liabilities of the bank, and the decisions were reversed on the ground that they were not stockholders of record.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday ......6 per cent. for the best names
Monday ....6 per cent. for the best names

The quotations are for six months' paper.

⁂

Where Are the Staple Cloths?

Some of the best-posted buyers in the woolen market profess themselves ignorant of where the staple goods are going or even if they are being made. Hints are to be heard, of course, that the domestic mills are diverting supplies of these materials into export channels, but no figures are available to determine just how true these rumors are. Another possible explanation, offered by those who criticise the mills for the shortage of standard constructions, is that the production of staples is purposely avoided because values can be better disguised in fabrics on the novelty order. No improvement in the situation on staples is expected until conditions become more normal in the industry.

⁂

Overcoats Not Wanted.

Despite the statements by manufacturing clothiers, that retail stocks of overcoats have been well cleaned out and renewed buying should quickly reduce the present surplus of these garments in wholesale hands, retailers maintain that they are not ready to make additional purchases. This answer goes, of course, to the manufacturers who feel they can still get close to regular prices for what stocks they have. Quite a large amount of overcoats is expected to be put out in job lots and job prices upon the turn of the year. What the retailers are anxious over at present, it seems, is to rid themselves of what garments they have at prices that will yield some, if not the usual, profit.

⁂

Woolen Opening in Two Weeks.

The Fall opening of the leading factor in the woolen market, it was learned yesterday, will be held the week of Jan. 12. As previously reported, the allotment system will be used in the sale of the heavyweights, and buyers will be permitted a certain length of time in which to confirm these options. The opening, it is understood, will also be featured by the showing of all departmental lines at once, including both men's wear and dress goods. Very few staples will be shown, according to reports, and serges will be especially conspicuous by their absence.

⁂

One Advantage of Luxury Demand.

While the popular demand for luxuries is held chiefly responsible for the ever-increasing cost of goods, one advantage pointed out is that manufacturers who ordinarily would have contented themselves with the quantity production of medium class merchandise have learned how to make the finest articles. In silks, it is explained, there has been a notable advance in the qualities to be obtained in this country. The same development has taken place to a somewhat smaller degree in woolens and dress goods. In fine cottons the domestic manufacturers in their effort to meet the demand for luxuries have probably accomplished in a few months, it was explained, what it would have taken them years in normal times.

⁂

The Situation in Clothing.

The sentiment has grown rather general in the wholesale clothing trade that the early Spring season will be passed without much difficulty on the score of high prices. Further than that, however, even those who have been most optimistic are in doubt. The period around next June and July is expected to be the crucial turning point. From the standpoint of material supplies, those in close touch with the woolen industry believe that the mills will be able to produce all and more than is needed by the clothiers. This will have the effect, it is believed, of creating more competition right along the line. If, in addition to this factor, men balk at the prices asked a decline is bound to result.

⁂

Some Prices Are Very Low.

While many of the cotton dress fabrics offered in the annual white sales that are now beginning all over the country bear little resemblance to those which were asked for similar goods even a year ago, the reverse is true of the more staple cottons on sale at the larger stores. Goods covered by the general trade term of "domestic" are offered in some of these establishments at prices not only lower than those currently asked by the jobbers, but at prices even under those which the jobbers have to pay for the merchandise. This is made possible, of course, by heavy purchases made before the market for unfinished goods began the sensational advance which, on certain cloths, has not yet terminated. The same applies to the all-linen goods which are offered by many of the stores at prices well below the cost of replacement. In view of the scarcity of these fabrics and the extreme prices asked for them by the manufacturers on the other side, some of the importers here are questioning the wisdom of the retailers in selling the goods so cheaply.

⁂

Gray Goods Sales Steady.

Yesterday's transactions in gray goods here contained nothing of an unusual nature. A steady but small volume of business is passing from day to day at full prices. Twenty-six cents was paid yesterday for February-March deliveries of 39-inch 72-76s, with 24 cents paid for March-April 68-72s of the same width. Twenty-one cents was the price of Southern 38½-inch 64-60s sold for immediate delivery. Southern and Eastern 38½-inch 60-48s brought 19 cents for January-February shipment, while similar goods, for delivery in February, March, and April, sold for 18½ cents. The sheetings sales for the day included December-January 4.70s at 20 cents and 48-square, four-yard goods at 24 cents for shipment next month.

⁂

Tactful Adjusters Are Needed.

One of the crying needs of the retail dry goods business nowadays is for adjusters who can control their tempers under trying circumstances and retain the good will of customers even though required to decide against them. An instance of failure to do this was witnessed in a prominent store yesterday. A woman had returned an expensive ornament for credit, claiming that the pin was so badly damaged when she got the article that she could not wear it and asserting that she could not afford to pay the estimated cost of having it repaired. She contended that the store should either repair the ornament without charge or give her full credit for it. The adjuster, a young man, refused both requests on the ground that the article could not have left the store in the condition it was returned. When the customer insisted it had he retorted angrily that "our word in the matter is as good as yours, and we can't do anything for you." Then he turned abruptly to the next person, while the customer left the adjustment desk with a flushed face and a firmly seated "grouch."

⁂

Why Cotton Warp Serges Lag.

One of the chief reasons why there is not a better business being done in the cotton-warp serges that not so many years ago were active sellers at retail is the comparatively high prices at which they are now held. A few years before the war it was not a rare thing to see these goods retailed as low as 39 cents a yard, the mill prices then ranging from 19 to 21 cents a yard and the jobbing quotations averaging around 25 cents. Later they advanced to 50 cents a yard at retail, the jobbing price then being around 32½ cents. Advance orders for the coming Spring season were taken on the same goods at the jobbing price of 72½ cents, and the current figure for them is 82½ cents. At the higher prices the retailers have not bought them very freely, as they have found most of their customers willing to pay more and get all-wool fabrics. The principal buyers of cotton-warp goods now are said to be the big mail order houses.

⁂

How Returned Gifts Are Handled.

The question as to how holiday gifts are handled when they are returned by the recipients for credit or exchange, without the sales check or other indication of value, was answered yesterday by an executive of a well-known local store. While the sales check is desired, according to this man, in order to prove conclusively that the goods came from the store to which the return is made, it is often possible to identify the goods from the container or from their particular qualities. When this is not possible the customer's word for it is usually taken. In ascertaining the value of the goods under those circumstances, the matter is put up to the buyer or to the head of stock, both of whom experience the "darkest days" of their business year during the week between Christmas and New Year's.

FUND APPROPRIATED FOR NEW SCHOOLS

Aldermen Vote $7,000,000 for Buildings and $49,059 for Pupils' Lunches.

$8,000,000 MORE FRIDAY

City to Spend $124,000 for New Continuation Projects for Older Boys and Girls.

Two school projects which have been the subject of dispute were agreed upon yesterday when the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Board of Aldermen concurred in appropriating $7,000,000 for public school buildings and $49,059 for school lunches. The board will appropriate $8,000,000 more at its meeting next Friday. These two amounts, added to the $10,600,000 now being spent for construction purposes, will make a total of $25,000,000 available for the housing of school children.

Plans for the establishment of the new continuation schools for boys and girls under 18 years of age who have not graduated from high school were outlined yesterday by Morris E. Siegel, Director of Evening and Continuation Schools. It is planned to spend $124,000 on this project this year. When the State law goes into full effect, in 1925, there will be a $4,000,000 annual payroll as well as an outlay for the maintenance of buildings with a total of 1,000 classrooms. By the terms of the law every boy and girl under 18 who has not had the equivalent of a high school education must attend one of these schools at least four hours a week. More than 200,000 children fall into this class and will have to be taken care of within the next five years.

Provides 62,455 New Seats.

The appropriation for buildings was made yesterday upon the basis of the report submitted to the Board of Estimate by Controller Craig, and, with the appropriation to be made next Friday and the one made last December, will provide 62,455 new seats for children of the city. Distributed by boroughs, these are as follows:

	Seats.
MANHATTAN.
4 new buildings	4,700
2 buildings being erected	2,140
	6,840

RICHMOND.
1 new building	540
1 building being erected	540
	1,080
51 buildings, new or in course of erection	62,455

All but three of the buildings voted for were in the budget request of the Board of Education, the three additions being recommended by the Controller. Among the new buildings will be a high school on Washington Heights on a site at 140th Street and Hamilton Place. The site was purchased by the city thirteen years ago, and is now being used for tennis courts. The Board of Education had recommended that this site be used for a training school for teachers. If such a school is to be built another site will have to be found, but the Board of Estimate made no appropriation for either a new building or site.

Schedule of Projects.

When the Board of Estimate takes action next Friday, thus completing the appropriations for the 1918-1919-1920 building program, the buildings projected or in course of erection will be as follows:

RAIDS ON REDS UP-STATE.

Arrests in Buffalo, Rochester, and Utica—Lusk Inquiry to Follow.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, Dec. 30.—At a session here tomorrow morning, the Lusk Legislative Committee investigating Bolshevism, will examine evidence gathered by police and agents of the committee in a raid on the Communist Party's local headquarters late last night.

To District Attorney Guy D. Moore of Erie County will be left the prosecution of the sixty-five men and women thus far arrested.

Detectives continued all day and tonight to serve warrants on alleged Communists who were not at the headquarters on Monday night. Among those brought in this afternoon was Franklin P. Brill, who has polled heavy votes as a Socialist candidate, first for Mayor of Buffalo and more recently for member of Congress.

Benjamin Keleman, a real estate dealer, who was taken in the raid, furnished cash bail, and his wife drove him home in their limousine.

Julia D. Pratt, a teacher of art in the public schools, was taken to Police Headquarters tonight by a policewoman. Charges had been made to the School Board that she held membership in the Communist Party. Miss Pratt agreed to appear at the District Attorney's office tomorrow and was allowed to go home.

While the raids were being conducted in Buffalo, other agencies of the Lusk Committee were driving hard against radicals in Rochester and Utica, both regarded with Buffalo as pivots in up-State agitation.

Agents of the committee, aided by members of the State Constabulary, reinforced by a squad of men under Deputy Chief Zimmerman, descended on the Labor Lyceum at 580 St. Paul Street and three other Communist branches in Rochester and arrested three alleged ringleaders. The men arrested were held in $2,500 bail each on charges of criminal anarchy.

The raids in Utica were aimed at several branches of the Communist Party. Nine men were arrested and a great deal of literature was confiscated. The examination of the prisoners was conducted by Archibald E. Stevenson of counsel to the Lusk Committee.

At the headquarters of the committee in the Prince George Hotel, this city, it was said yesterday that the raids marked the beginning of an intensive drive on up-State radicals. Attachés of the committee, who were preparing to go to Buffalo, from which city the campaign will be conducted, left no doubt that the drive would be thorough.

MAURETANIA SAILS LATE.

Irving T. Bush Goes on Delayed Cunard Liner to England.

Because the longshoremen declined to work coal on the recent cold nights, the Cunarder Mauretania did not leave for Cherbourg and Southampton until 6:25 o'clock last night, which was six hours and twenty-five minutes beyond her scheduled sailing hour.

Among her 1,100 passengers, of whom 335 were in the first cabin, was Irving T. Bush on his way to England to sign the building contracts for the new international commerce building to be erected on a large plot of ground in London. He said that because of the lack of the necessary materials over there the construction might take eighteen months to two years.

Captain Charles Tupper, Vice President of the Seamen's and Firemen's Union of Great Britain, who has been stopping in New York to settle disputes on the British steamships in regard to wages and working hours, sailed on the Cunarder to attend a conference that will be held in London early next month. He said that the slogan of the Loyal Legion of Labor, now forming over the world, is "No strike until all attempts at conciliation are gone."

Charles Duveen, head of the firm of Charles of London, art dealer of Fifth Avenue, who was married on Monday in this city, sailed on the liner with his bride and will be away two months. Lady Herbert, widow of the late British Ambassador, also sailed on the Mauretania after visiting her brother in Long Island, and Vice Admiral Sir Frederick C. T. Tudor, R. N., who has been in command of the British fleet in Chinese waters during the war. Harry Houdini, the American magician, was among the passengers.

HARVEY'S CHARGES DENIED BY HAPGOOD

Accusations of Aiding Reds Characterized "Mean and Malignant Falsehoods."

CALLS BLOCKADE HARMFUL

Recent Minister to Denmark Says Reopening Trade with Russia Will Hit Bolshevism.

Norman Hapgood, whose appointment as Minister to Denmark lapsed after the Senate failed to confirm it, yesterday broke the silence which he has maintained since his recent return to this country long enough to characterize Colonel George Harvey's charges that he acted as "a plenipotentiary of Lenin and Trotzky" as "mean and malignant falsehoods."

A statement by him says:

"One of several reasons for my requesting the President not to reappoint me when my interim appointment expired was that, in my opinion, any additional controversy in Washington ought to be avoided for the public welfare. Since Colonel George Harvey, however, has published a foolish and vindictive attack on me, one of my reasons for repeating my request to be let out of the service immediately was the necessity of answering Harvey's falsehoods. They are particularly mean and malignant and may be summed up as follows:

"1. That I was 'a plenipotentiary of Lenin and Trotzky.' This grotesque falsehood is particularly offensive to me. I have been opposed to communism all my life. The 'dictatorship of the proletariat' is revolting.

"2. That I had 'abused the American Legation at Copenhagen as a trading post for the Soviet Government.' This invention is as despicable as the other. I never had any dealings, direct or indirect, with any member, agent, or representative of the Soviet Government.

"3. That I made 'repeated overtures' in Wall Street 'to finance the Bolsheviki.' Although this charge is as false as the rest, it requires more explanation, since while the others are pure inventions this is a distortion of what did occur. It is an audacious reversal of the meaning of two incidents.

Urged Aid for Berkenheim.

"Mr. Alexander Berkenheim came to this country with a letter from Prince Kropotkin. As I had been taking a positive and constructive stand on the Russian question for several years, he came to me. He was Vice President of the great Central Co-operative Association, representing the seventeen million co-operatives of Russia. Although he was so anti-Bolshevik as to have been five times arrested by the authorities, Mr. Berkenheim opposed the blockade, and wished to establish sufficient credit with private firms or banks to begin business. His belief was that the best way to overcome Bolshevism was to restore trade. Agreeing to this view, I gave Mr. Berkenheim cordial letters to officials of our Government, and heartily urged that he be permitted to ship out such stores as flax and hemp that were piled up to the value of two or three hundred million dollars in the possession of the co-operatives, awaiting export, and to import in exchange such things as agricultural machinery, shoes, sugar and medicine. So great are the available Russian exports that only a few million dollars short credit would be required to put an enormous exchange into operation. Indeed, long before I was appointed Minister to Denmark I had urged the view that the co-operatives were the key to the Russian situation.

Had Faith in Co-operatives.

"The second episode is a detail in the first. A young friend of mine, employed by the Guaranty Trust Company, invited me to dinner with him. The dinner took place at the City Club, and the other seven people present were all members of the Guaranty Trust Company. The conversation covered world-trade, but so far as the Russian part was concerned it turned on what would be safe business enterprise when the blockade should be lifted, especially imports carried on by credits based on deposits in neutral banks.

"I explained why I thought the co-operatives were strong enough to do business without being successfully interfered with by the Bolsheviki. I have since sent to Washington the original report in Russian of the co-operative activities up to Jan. 1, 1919, and I think it justifies my contention. Shortly after the dinner, however, there appeared in the public press a report that the Moscow authorities had declared that imports could be made only through its agency. I sent this report to Mr. Booth, a Vice President, who, at the dinner, had put particular stress on the business difficulties growing out of the absence of private property in Russia, and asked him whether contracts with the Soviet Government itself, with deposits as stated above, would not mean that imports could be sent in without the danger of not being able to obtain safely the corresponding exports. My note to Mr. Booth in some way reached the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs. Also in some way from the committee it reached Harvey, and has been used against me as proof that I was attempting to strengthen the Bolshevist despotism and to betray my country and my President.

Blockade Aids Bolsheviki.

"4. That the above-described charges were the ground on which the Senate Committee failed to act on my nomination. Actually, the hostility developed as soon as my nomination was sent in. That was in February. The dinner was in April. The reason was my previous activity in American politics.

"Turning from this displeasing political intrigue to the question at issue, I may conclude by stating that my views have not changed. I still believe that Bolshevism is strengthened by the blockade, not only in Russia, but elsewhere, in proportion as Europe suffers from the inability to get raw material and food from Russia, and to send her manufactured articles in return. There will be no recovery in Central Europe until Russia is opened. Since the failure of Yudenitch, Kolchak and Denikin I am not so lonely in my opinions as I was. More people now realize that the best way to kill Bolshevism is to stimulate business of every kind."

Dr. Henry G. Leach, secretary of the American-Scandinavian Foundation, mentioned in a special cable dispatch to THE TIMES from Copenhagen yesterday as a possible successor to Mr. Hapgood, said that he believed the rumor of his appointment originated with friends in that city and that he personally knew of nothing to give it ground.

"I hope," he added, "that Mr. Hapgood is going back, as from what I learn from there he was very successful and very well liked."

Hapgood Withdrew to Answer Charges.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—In formally announcing today that Norman Hapgood, ex-Minister to Denmark, is no longer a member of the American diplomatic service, the State Department stated that Mr. Hapgood had requested that "he be not appointed in order to save the President and the Administration from any possible cause of embarrassment."

It is understood, that in view of the Senate's failure to confirm the recess appointment of Mr. Hapgood, and on account of charges made that he is a radical sympathizer, Mr. Hapgood feels that his appointment again at this time might serve as a source of embarrassment.

Announcement was made at the White House that Mr. Hapgood had tendered his resignation to President Wilson with the request that it be accepted "quickly," so that he could answer charges by Harvey's Weekly that he had sought financial assistance in this country for the Russian Soviet authorities.

GIRL FOUND SHOT.

Discovered by Father in Garage with Pistol Beside Her.

Special to The New York Times.

PATCHOGUE, L. I., Dec. 30.—Miss Ethel M. Ruland, daughter of Morgan F. Ruland, a retired business man, was missed from home this evening and later was found by her father in the garage in the rear of her home, 299 South Ocean Avenue, with a bullet wound in her head and a revolver beside her. Dr. W. H. Bennet, who was summoned, said her condition was serious.

Miss Ruland until the first of the month, when she lost her place, was a confidential clerk and bookkeeper for Jerome B. Ackerly, a piano dealer of Patchogue.

IMMIGRATION INFLUX NOT EXPECTED SOON

Arrivals for 1920 Estimated at 300,000, Against 900,000 a Year Before War.

LITERACY TEST IN FORCE

Glut at Ellis Island, Said to be Due to Depleted Staff, Soon to be Relieved.

Immigration officials in New York said yesterday that the congestion at Ellis Island caused by the depletion of the staff was only temporary. They predicted there would be no great influx of foreigners in the near future that would affect the labor market of the United States. It was estimated that the next year's immigration would be only 300,000 compared with pre-war figures of 900,000 to 1,000,000 annually. Steamship agents thought the influx would be much less than the 300,000 suggested by the immigration officials at Ellis Island. The agents complained of the number of immigrants who are being kept on board ships and are going to hold a conference on Friday to see what can be done about it.

The Immigration authorities say very few immigrants are coming except those who have been here before or have relatives in this country. It was estimated that 50 per cent. of the recent arrivals from Europe were Italian reservists, many of whom have American papers, who went home to fight.

The literacy test, which became operative on May 1, 1917, is now receiving its first real trial and members of the committee believe that it will reduce immigration 40 per cent. from the total of 300,000 expected to arrive here in 1920.

The Ellis Island authorities estimate that about 27,000 immigrants arrived in New York in November and that December figures will be larger, due to the desire of foreigners to spend Christmas and New Year's day with relatives in this country.

HAMILTON'S BRIDE SAYS HE STRUCK HER

Girl Married Overseas Asks Flushing Magistrate to Make Him Support Her.

Mrs. Emilia Ruiz-Moron Hamilton, the Spanish bride whom Arthur Gould Hamilton brought from France on the steamship Lorraine in July, appeared yesterday in the Flushing Court. She told Magistrate Conway her husband had struck her, and asked that he be made to provide for her.

This development in a romance that began while Mr. Hamilton was serving overseas, surprised friends of both the Hamiltons. The Magistrate suggested that the case be postponed, and that in the meantime the young couple seek a private settlement of their domestic troubles.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton live in Lawrence Street, Auburndale, Flushing. When Mrs. Hamilton appeared in court she wore a well-cut gown and a Parisian hat of latest style. She gave her age as twenty. When she told the Magistrate she wanted her husband compelled to support her, there was a stir in the room.

Justice Allen Gets New Post.

County Clerk William F. Schneider announced yesterday the appointment of City Court Justice James A. Allen, whose term ends Jan. 1, to be his counsel at $5,000 a year from that date. Other appointments were: Ralph V. Wechsler to be deputy county clerk to succeed Herman W. Beyer, resigned, and former City Marshal Matthew F. Mulvihill and former Alderman Frank Mullen to be special deputy county clerks in the Naturalization Bureau.

Are your brakes safe?

DON'T rely blindly on brakes that may fail you at a critical moment. Perhaps your brakes need only a slight adjustment—perhaps they need new lining.

Ordinary brake lining wears down quickly and unevenly. It grabs and slips after the first few hundred miles. Unless frequent adjustments are made you can never be sure of your brakes.

Thermoid Hydraulic Compressed Brake Lining never grabs or slips. It has 40% more material than ordinary woven lining. It wears down slowly and evenly.

Go to your garage today and have your brakes inspected. If they need new lining, specify Thermoid.
